Chapman's Alleged Confederates Are Captured

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH ASSISTING CONVICT ESCAPE

Dominick Didato and Abe Silverstein Are Located and Placed Under Arrest in New York.

PRISONERS WILL FACE TRIAL IN ATHENS, GA.

Federal Authorities Believe That Capture of Chapman Will Be Effected in Near Future.

Within two hours after their indictment on charges of having aided Gerald Chapman, million-dollar mail robber, in his escape from an Athens hospital on April 4, Dominick Didato and Abe Silverstein were arrested in New York City late Friday afternoon by department of justice agents, according to announcement by Lewis J. Baley, agent in charge of the Atlanta bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

Federal authorities announced that they plan to bring Didato and Silverstein from New York immediately and place them on trial in the United States court at Athens on Monday, April 23.

Chapman is believed by authorities, they said, to be still in or near Athens. His capture will be effected soon, it is thought. Chapman was wounded in being recaptured after his spectacular escape from the Atlanta federal penitentiary, where he was serving a 25-year term for engineering a million-dollar mail robbery in New York. He was under treatment for three bullet wounds when he escaped from the hospital.

Traced to New York.

Didato and Silverstein were traced from Athens to New York the night Chapman disappeared from the hospital, according to Mr. Baley. During the day of the getaway, it was stated, the two men frequented the Georgian hotel in Athens, where Didato registered as J. Karuse, of Boston, and Silverstein registered as Abe Cohn, of New York.

They were said to have been seen riding around Athens that day in company with a woman who is declared to have given the authorities valuable information concerning them. It was known that Miss Cora Lee Ramey, a student nurse at St. Mary's hospital, from which the bandit escaped, was an important witness for the government before the grand jury, but it has not been disclosed as to whether or not she was the woman who figured in the automobile ride.

The two men were the only ones indicted in the investigation of the escape. The bills charged them with

THE AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

The First Train from Charlotte to Spartanburg.

Some time before 3 o'clock P. M., on Monday last, a vast assembly of ladies and gentlemen were gathered near the track of the Air-Line Railroad to greet the arrival of the first train from Charlotte. As the clock struck the hour, the train was described in the distance, and amidst the firing of guns, the ringing of bells, the waving of handkerchiefs, and shouting of the multitude, the beautiful engine, like a thing of life, glided majestically through to the point selected for the depot.

The train brought about sixty of the prominent and substantial men of Charlotte to rejoice with us over this event, so important in our history, and which we trust will mark the beginning of a new era of prosperity for this whole section of country. These visitors were welcomed in appropriate terms by the Hon. Simpson Bobo, of our town, who, after speaking of the vast importance of this great continental highway, in developing the resources of the country, and in restoring it to even more than its former prosperity, paid just and eloquent tributes to Colonel Buford, the President; Colonel Sage, Chief Engineer, Major Wellford, and all associated with them in this great work—not forgetting the humble laborers with their picks and shovels. Mr. Bobo closed by inviting the excursionists, one and all, to the dinner provided for them by the citizens of the town at the Palmetto House.

General Young, the Mayor of Charlotte, responded in a most chaste and eloquent impromptu, which was heard with the most eager interest by the vast throng of ladies and gentlemen present, and most vociferously cheered by every one. Although not a professional man, (we believe,) General Young is a most graceful and effective speaker, and Charlotte has reason to feel proud of her official representative on this occasion. We would not, even if we had the time and space to do so, mar the beauty of his Honor's speech by any report which we are able to make of it.—Carolina Spartan.

Louisiana Negro Scared to Death By Lightning Bolt

Crowley, La., April 13.—A crash of thunder and a flash of lightning scared Ceaser Cage, negro youth, to death last night. Cage was standing in front of his cabin when thunder and lightning occurred. He rushed into the house and dropped dead.

CABINET IS GIVEN REPORT ON PROBE OF SUGAR PRICES

President and Advisers Discuss High Price Situation From Legal Standpoint on Friday.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, April 13.—Developments in the near future in the department of justice investigation into the sugar price situation were indicated after today's cabinet meeting at which Acting Attorney General Seymour presented a report.

The situation was discussed by President Harding and his advisers almost entirely from the legal standpoint at the meeting, which lasted an hour and a half, inasmuch as the tariff commission had found itself unable to complete its preliminary report dealing with the effect of the tariff on sugar prices. Information from the commission was that the report might be completed tomorrow and at the white house it was said that the president expected to confer with the full commission next Tuesday or Wednesday.

With respect to the tariff phase of the situation, however, the president was represented as absolutely convinced that the duties on sugar were in no wise responsible for the almost steady advances in the price of the commodity since early in February.

Complete Summary.

Acting Attorney General Seymour laid before Mr. Harding and the cabinet a complete summary of the results to date of his department's inquiry as ascertained from department reports and from conferences yesterday in New York with United States District Attorney Hayward.

The nature of the department's findings were withheld but it was indicated by a high administration official that developments might be expected within a comparatively short time.

Although all department of justice officials have been hesitant in disclosing the lines being followed in the inquiry, it has been the general assumption that the investigation has been directed toward ascertaining whether the price increases resulted from collusion or conspiracy in violation of law. The early part of the department's study is known to have been devoted to search of the statute books for acts which might be used as the basis of criminal prosecuions and it has been intimated by some officials that the basis having been found, the activities of the department now were turned to the collection of evidence of possible law violations.

Canadian Prices.

The president in arriving at the conclusion that the tariff can not be blamed for the increased prices is understood to have made a study of the situation as based on information received from several sources. This information was said at the white house to have shown that sugar now is selling at a higher price in Canada than in the United States although the Canadian duties range from a preferential rate of less than a cent a pound to a maximum rate of 1.6 cents a pound as compared with the preferential rate of 1.76 on Cuban raw and 2.20 on other sugars in the Fordney-McCumber tariff law.

The tariff commission has been tied up nearly a week, unable to reach an agreement on certain phases of the preliminary statement it is preparing to make to Mr. Harding in response to his request for information as to the effect of the tariff duties on the sugar quotations. Some members believed tonight that the possibility of an agreement tomor-

NEW ENGLANDERS FORGET POLITICS AS TRADE BOOMS

WET SENTIMENT GAINS STRENGTH STEADILY

BY LOUIS SEIBOLD.

(Copyright 1923, for the Contitution).

Boston, April 13.—(Special.)—The seven million people who live in the six New England states dispute the republican claim for having brought prosperity to them. Neither do they concur in the democrat prediction that the expanding boom in business will be only for brief duration.

The men in the street and the men on the farms between the New York and Canadian borders admit that prosperity has come again; but don't admit that the politicians have and anything to do with it. Everywhere he turns he is confronted with evidence that general business is good. Labor is drawing wartime wages and not easy to get at that.

Capital is looking for investment. There is more money in the banks than there are hands to turn it into money-making products. Manufacturing plants and shops are short of both male and female help. Taxes, while still irksome, have ceased to irritate and encourage deception. Many concerns are behind in deliveries.

Labor agitators preaching sovietism, sabotage and various forms of syndicalism complain of the indifference of the industrious toiler. New political ventures that seemed attractive a few months ago fail to now entice recruits. Strikes caused by wage disputes and objectionable shop standards are few.

Normal Conditions.

The fact is, normal business conditions benefitting both capital and labor prevail generally in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine. Explanations for the widespread and constantly expanding business boom are many and varied. The most logical reason advanced is that it is due to the natural driving force, thrift, industry and optimism of the people themselves, despite and not because of the activities of the politicians.

The diligent New Englander doesn't give the republican prty credit for

Heart Injection Restores Life To Dead Infant

Lusty Babe Presented to Mother After Adrenalin Treatment.

New York, April 13.—An infant supposedly born dead was "brought to life" by the injection into its heart of several drops of adrenalin last Monday. Officials of the Brownsville and East New York hospital of Brooklyn announced today.

The child, son of Mrs. Rose Servin, was, according to hospital authorities, apparently dead at birth. A careful examination, however, indicated a very faint heart action and doctors immediately attempted to establish respiration.

Two hours' work had been unsuccessful when the physicians decided to resort to adrenalin.

The effect was instantaneous, it was said, and a few minutes later a lusty infant was presented to Mrs. Servin, who previously had been told her child was dead.

Lightning Shatters Window

WAS IT PROTEST FROM INFERNAL PRINCE OF AIR?

During Service at Church

A lightning bolt shattered an ornamental window bearing the symbol of the Cross at the First Baptist church just after noon Friday while nearly 2,000 worshippers listened with bowed heads to the prayer, preparatory to a sermon on "The Devil's Personal Characteristics and Weak Spots."

Was it a coincidence—

Or an ominous protest from the infernal prince of the air himself against the assaults he feared?

That is the question uppermost in the minds of hundreds of people who were in the church when the crash came.

Not a Surprise.

"It should not be at all surprising if the Devil should be stirring up this storm in protest against these meetings. He is prince of the air and the elements. He stirred up a storm against Joab and again against Jesus and he may be doing it again," declared S. D. Gordon, of New York, noted lay evangelist, who is conducting a three-weeks' series of union meetings at the noon hour for more than a hundred co-operating Atlanta churches. This week he is preaching sermons on the Devil.

A rainstorm had failed to keep the eager throngs of religious people away from the services Friday. They had settled in their seats and C. A. Titus, singer and church worker, had begun the opening prayer.

"We thank thee, Lord, for thy many blessings and for the guidance and support Thou givest to conquer the forces of evil and" * * *

Then the horrible crack of the lightning bolt as it struck, the crashing of broken glass, the tinkle of its particles on the floor and the distant, subdued roll of thunder as the supplicant continued.

Then Comes Shock.

"We know that Thou art all knowing, all powerful and ever present, we offer ourselves for Thy mercy and ask Thy blessing on this service" * * * and on to the end of his prayer.

The shock and the explosion of sound had not caused a single outcry of fear from the big crowd on which it had burst in unexpected violence. Mr. Titus did not pause in his supplication. A few people who were sitting under the window quietly moved to a safer place.

Then Evangelist Gordon launched into his sermon, while church attendants placed in the gaping hole where the window had been, a temporary protection for the congregation against the storm.

"The devil is the prince of evil," Mr. Gordon declared, "and he is beautiful, in an evil way, and brilliant and clever. He is a powerful and dangerous foe of mankind. But he is not consistent, he is not omnipotent, he is not omnipresent. He can do nothing without the consent of the individual he seeks to lead into his power."

Saturday the theme of the sermon will be that "Prayer is Taking the

CRIMES CHARGED TO 31 CITIZENS

New Orleans, April 13.—Thirty-one bills of information charging more than a dozen citizens of Morehouse parish with various crimes as a result of the activities of masked bands in the parish last year were drawn today by Attorney General A. V. Coco, and delivered to District Attorney David I. Garrett to be filed at Bastrop, according to the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Persons named in the bills, the newspaper declares, include Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan, his son, Oliver; Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge; E. N. "Newt" Gray and T. Jeff Burnett, former Morehouse deputy sheriff. Burnet, Oliver Skipwith and Gray were named by witnesses at the open hearing in Bastrop in January as having been recognized as members of the band which, on August 24, kidnaped Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, who were not heard of again until December 22, when two bodies which rose to the surface of Lake Lafourche were identified as theirs.

Captain Skipwith was declared by one witness to have been seen conversing with a masked man later on the highway down which the abductors and their prisoners disappeared. Others against whom informations will be filed, according to the Times-Picayune, are Laurie and Gus Calhoun, former deputies; W. H. Kirkpatrick, Kelly Harp, Ed Ivy, Marvin and Cud Pickett, Fred Higginbotham and Benton Pratt.

The bills will charge conspiracy to commit murder, kidnaping, assault with deadly weapons on the public highway, assault with intent to commit murder and damaging or destroying telephone lines. It is recalled that an operator employed in the telephone exchange at Bastrop testified that the day of the Richard-Daniel kidnaping Captain Skipwith asked her not to handle any telephone calls between Mer Rouge and Bastrop. Later the line was found cut at the scene of the abduction, which occurred on the Bastrop-Mer Rouge highway.

The attorney general announced sometime ago that he would file bills of information in the case this week, but it is known they had not been prepared up to last night. District Attorney Garrett came to New Orleans today from Monroe, conferred with the attorney general and his staff and departed tonight. Mr. Coco late today would divulge nothing of the conference but stated that when the bills were filed he would announce here the names of the defendants and the charges.

EAST LAKE FIRES LAID TO FIRE-BUGS

East Lake, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Fire, said by a DeKalb county officer who investigated, to be of incendiary origin, and to be another of a series of such incendiary fires here, tonight damaged a new house on Sutton street here. The house was in course of construction, as were the other cases of incendiarism. Officers have several people under surveillance, they say, and expect to make arrests shortly.

The Decatur fire department answered the call tonight but were unable to extinguish the flames until the interior of the house was almost totally destroyed.

The fire was started in a closet in one of the rooms, according to the officers who were at the scene a few minutes after the blaze was discovered, the woodwork having been thoroughly soaked with kerosene.

A glass jar, with a small amount of kerosene remaining, was found outside the room by the officers, and is thought to have been used by the incendiaries in carrying the oil for starting the fire.

The first of the series of incendiary fires was on the night of March 4, shortly after midnight. It was in an unfurnished bungalow on Junction avenue, between East Lake Junction and East Boulevard DeKalb Drive, and was declared by State Fire Marshal Sharpe to have been started with kerosene.

Negro Hurried Away.

A low, chunky negro, in his shirt sleeves, was seen hurrying away from that vicinity about the time the entire rear of the house burst into flames. It was in the rear of the basement that the state fire marshal found unmistakable signs of kerosene having been used.

The Atlanta fire department answered the call and saved the front and part of the frame work of the house.

Work of completing the house was resumed the next day, and was nearing completion, when just a week ago, on the night of April 6, a small fire was discovered again in the house and the floors and walls had been soaked in kerosene. The fire was extinguished before any appreciable damage was done.

About the time this fire was discovered a negro, chunky, low and in

BRITAIN EXPECTED TO JOIN PROTESTS ON CHESTER CASE

FRANCE AND RUSSIA PROTESTED ALREADY

London, April 13.—A new international row in the Near East, centering in the scramble of the nations of the world for Turkey's riches, and threatening to involve the United States to the greatest extent, is gathering strength in European capitals as the result of the Turkish concessions to the Ottoman-American Development company, otherwise known as the Chester project.

Bitterness of the struggle already seems assured with both France and Russia protesting against the Chester grant and Britain contemplating similar action. The terms of the concession, under which Admiral Colby Chester, U. S. N., retired, General George W. Goethals, and other Americans get great commercial advantages in Turkey, as outlined to the United News by Clayton Kennedy, Near Eastern agent of the Ottoman company, strengthens the prospect of an impending outburst of rivalry.

Kennedy maintains that the concession is exclusive and expects the United States state department to support it. Kennedy, a Britisher, was one of the principal negotiators of the concession. He confirms that the Chester project not only includes the construction of 5,000 kilometres of railway but grants the exclusive rights to development of oil and other resources 20 kilometres each side of the railways.

Mathilde Weds Max in London, Now in Scotland

Granddaughter of Rockefeller Marries Former Livery-Stable Keeper.

London, April 13.—Mathilde McCormick, 18-year-old daughter of Harold F. McCormick, the American multi-millionaire, has been married to Major Max Oser, former proprietor of a livery stable in Zurich, Switzerland, it was learned today.

The couple have gone to Scotland for their honeymoon. They were married Thursday in the registry office at Kensington after spending a month in London to obtain their residential qualification.

Friends of the young Harvester heiress, who is the granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, gave details of the ceremony to newspapermen. They had carefully guarded the pair from the public eye because of the widespread publicity given the engagement.

Met in Switzerland.

Mathilde went to Europe with her father shortly after her mother, Edith Rockefeller McCormick, divorced him. McCormick, shortly after his daughter left Paris for Switzerland, was united in marriage with Ganna Walska, the Polish grand opera star.

Rockefeller's granddaughter met Oser over a year ago while she was spending a vacation in Switzerland. She fell in love with him, she after-

Panic in Factory Started by Shouts Of Bandit's Victim

New York, April 13.—Joseph Matosh, of Matosh & Cowen, garment manufacturers, started a panic in his factory today when he rushed into the building screaming that he had been robbed by two bandits of a $2,980 payroll. Several women were injured in their scramble for safety, the employees believing he was yelling fire.

$9,000,000 BOND ISSUE IS BARRED UNDER CITY LAWS

Atlanta's Bonding Limit Is Only $7,363,000, According to Comptroller Graham West.

Advocates of a new $9,000,000 bond issue for Atlanta to be expended for additional school facilities, waterworks extension and development of the proposed central park project were given a rude shock Friday when Comptroller Graham West submitted figures showing that under the city's bonding limitation, only $7,363,000 in additional bonds can be issued.

The total bonding limitation of Atlanta, based on 7 per cent of the city's tax assessments, amounts to $20,300,000, according to Mr. West's figures, or 7 per cent of the total tax assessments which aggregate $290,000,000. Already the city's bonded indebtedness amounts to $12,937,000, which leaves only $7,363,000 that can be issued in order to reach the maximum limit as provided by the state constitution, which limits bonded indebtedness of cities and counties to 7 per cent of assessments.

Must Increase Revenues.

"If any more bond issues are floated in Atlanta," declared Mr. West in commenting on his figures, "the city will unquestionably have to increase its revenues to take care of sinking funds and interest. This year we are already at a stage where there are practically no funds with which to carry on improvements and municipal expansion."

Under the proposed new bond issue plan as outlined recently by Mayor Walter A. Sims, Superintendent of Schools Willis A. Sutton and other representative city officials, the new issue would include $6,000,000 for school improvement bonds; $2,000,000 for development of the central park project, and $1,000,000 for waterworks extension.

Favors Part of Issue.

The mayor declined to comment as to his sentiment regarding the $6,000,000 school bond issue, but declared he would favor the park and waterworks bonds. Superintendent Sutton, and other members of the board of education, have been advocating a new school bond issue for several months to increase Atlanta's school facilities, it being their contention that Atlanta's school system at the present time and after the completion of the present school building program, is inadequate to take care of the large enrollment.

A fight on the proposed new bond issue in city council next Monday afternoon seemed certain Friday when councilmanic leaders announced they would oppose the resolution prepared by City Attorney Mayson at the request of others providing for an election to determine the floating of the new bond issue. Those who signified their intention to oppose the resolution included Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, Councilman J. Allen Couch and Councilman Harry York.

It is expected, however, that an amendment to the resolution will be offered by those favoring the issuance of $5,000,000 school extension bonds.

Display Latest Styles In "Bootleg Corsets" As Result of N. Y. Raid

Boston, April 13.—Latest styles in bootleggers' corsets were displayed by the police today as a result of a raid on a tenement house. There are two models. Each is a two partition tin garment of two gallon capacity, heaped to the body and held in position under the coat by shoulder straps. One has faucets at the bottom to pour liquor into a glass. The other has a rubber hose to sip on the stuff through openings in the top.

FRANCE TO FORCE GERMANY TO PAY UNDER PRESSURE

French and Belgian Ministers to Take Drastic Action Unless Berlin Yields.

CONCESSIONS RUMOR NOT FOUNDED ON FACT

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Paris, April 13.—The French and Belgian government ministers at their meeting here this afternoon decided upon new measures of pressure to be applied to Germany if she remains unyielding on the reparation question. The nature of the measures was not disclosed but the ministers announced in an official communique that they are determined to continue pressure until the Berlin government makes direct overtures for a settlement.

The meeting was participated in by Premiers Poincare and the Unis, various members of their cabinets interested in reparation problems, and a number of experts. As in the case of the recent conference at Brussels, the session was largely devoted to technical questions in connection with the occupation of the Ruhr and the efforts under way to make productive guarantees seized there.

Have Complete Reports.

The ministers had before them complete reports on the occupation to date, with details of all the costs and of the movement of fuel. These reports were reviewed at length, but it was impossible to complete their consideration today and the work will be continued tomorrow.

The allied representatives confined themselves to discussion of the details of the occupation and the principle that it will be continued and extended until Germany yields, and it is authoritatively stated that nothing else will be considered at the conference. France and Belgium have no intention of elaborating a plan of settlement, it is said, because, when the time comes to consider any proposition Germany may make, it will be necessary that the British take part in the conversations.

Talk of a new plan under consideration, which is confined to a very limited section of the French press, is regarded as a well-intentioned desire to begin the preparation of the French people for such concessions as France eventually may be required to make in order to reach complete accord with Great Britain. Official circles, however, say it is ill-timed and that it has no foundation in fact.

Cannot Expect All.

There are many among the well-informed French politicians, who believe the time will come when it will be necessary to let the French people know they cannot expect all from Germany that France thinks she ought to pay, but that time, they say, will be when Germany has shown some disposition to do what she can.

The recent visit to London of Louis Loucheur, former French minister of liberated regions, and his interviews with British statesmen on the reparations question, undoubtedly will be the subject of conversations at the formal social functions in honor of the Belgians, but there is little prospect that it will appear on the aganda of the conference.

WOMEN TO HEAR GORDON ON SUNDAY AT FIRST BAPTIST

Throughout the two weeks just closing the First Baptist church has been crowded daily with people eager to hear the quiet talks on personal religion by S. D. Gordon.

It was early realized by those in charge that there are in Atlanta large numbers of men and women who could not attend these noon hour services. In order that these might have opportunity to hear Mr. Gordon on last Sunday afternoon, a special meeting was held in the Rialto theater for men only. This Sunday afternoon arrangements have been made for women to hear his special quiet talk to women at 3:30 in the First Baptist church. His subject will be "Woman's Power."

At the noon meeting Monday at the First Baptist church reports will be received of results in the churches for the second week and the figures are awaited with great interest, as partial reports indicate a tremendous growth in interest.

Sunday night the services will be especially adapted to college and high school students.

DISCUSSES ECONOMICS

Expert on Statistics Talks to Students.

Ralph A. White, manager of Babson's statistical organization, outlined the fundamentals of economics, as applied to business, to the students at Commercial High school Friday night. Aided by the use of charts, he showed how statistical organizations arrive at their conclusions and how they are able to forecast conditions in the business world with accuracy.

A chart illustrating the growth of Atlanta business was used, the figures showing that more than $120,000,000 changes hands each month this year, as compared to $50,000,000 per month before the war.

The present boom, he believes, is due largely to the building record which the country is now making. "New building as an industry effects 30 other large and important industries," he declared.

Rabbits are especially fond of the bark of young apple trees in the spring when the sap is flowing.

KONTZ PAYS $250 AUTOMOBILE CASE FINE ON FRIDAY

Insofar as the courts are concerned the crash at Peachtree and Twelfth streets on the night of January 25 between an automobile driven by J. Thornton Kontz and a grinding machine belonging to the Georgia Railway and Power company in which two workmen met their death, became a closed incident Friday.

Kontz paid the $250 fine imposed on him Thursday following his conviction on a charge of involuntary manslaughter while "in the commission of a lawful act," a misdemeanor. Reuben R. Arnold, his chief counsel, announced to Judge W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., when court opened Friday morning that the verdict would not be taken to a higher court.

Damage suits aggregating $100,000 filed against Kontz and his father, Judge E. C. Kontz, owner of the automobile, by Mrs. W. T. Hunter and Mrs. W. S. Gorman, widows of the two victims, have been withdrawn, following payment of $11,500 to each plaintiff by Judge Kontz.

Kontz contended that the accident was unavoidable owing to a dense fog.

In speaking of the outcome of his son's trial, Judge E. C. Kontz makes the following statement:

"I am of course very much disappointed at the verdict of any guilt. I had hoped and believed that my son would be acquitted under the evidence offered. I want to express my heartfelt thanks to our friends for their kindnesses before and during the trial, who sacrificed their time and were so anxious to help us."

Revival Services Close.

Barnesville, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—The revival meeting which had been in progress at the First Baptist church, came to a close Thursday evening, the result being the addition of 44 to church membership. Rev. R. L. Bolton, pastor of the First Baptist church at Madison, assisted the pastor, Rev. Arthur Jackson. Prof. C. M. Eyler conducted the music. The First Baptist church here now has a membership of about 700.

COLONIAL DAMES TO MEET IN MACON

Savannah, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—The next meeting of the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames will be held in Macon next spring, the concluding session of the twenty-ninth convention being held here decided today.

The officers, anticipated in these dispatches last night, were elected today: President, Mrs. Clarence G. Anderson, Jr., of Savannah; vice presidents, Mrs. Craig Barrow, of Savannah; Mrs. Thomas Barrett, of Augusta; Mrs. George M. Brown, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. H. Felton, Jr., of Macon; members of the board for three years: Mrs. W. L. Wilson, of Savannah; Mrs. George Winship, of Atlanta; Mrs. E. S. Trosdal, of Savannah; Mrs. W. H. Felton, Jr., of Macon; Mrs. E. P. Lawton, of Savannah; Mrs. Edward Johnson, of Athens; Mrs. John Wells Huger, of Savannah, and Mrs. James Polk Stewart, of Waycross.

Mrs. Anderson expressed her appreciation of the honor conferred upon her in a few graceful words, pledging the society her best efforts to be worthy of the trust.

Immediately after the meeting the new board met and elected the following officers: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. I. A. Sims, Savannah; recording secretary, Miss Maude Heyward, Savannah; treasurer, Miss Harriet Colquitt, Savannah; historian, Mrs. K. F. Hoke, Augusta; genealogist, Miss Eugenia Johnston, Savannah; registrar, Mrs. Anton P. Wright, Savannah.

Aside from general consideration of a number of minor revisions of the constitution and by-laws, the matter of a permanent home for the society was the feature of the business sessions, a special committee will be named to take the matter under consideration and report to the Macon meeting.

The society already has started a sinking fund to provide eventually funds for this purpose. A luncheon at the Oglethorpe club and the brilliant reception given by Mrs. Craig Barrow this evening concluded the meeting.

10 DAYS IN JAIL

Ride on "White Mule" Costly for E. Boone.

Ernest Boone, of 79 South Ashby street, was sentenced to 10 days imprisonment, without bond, Friday afternoon by Judge George E. Johnson, on a charge of drunk and disorderly.

Boone's brother appeared in court against him and testified that he had threatened him with a knife and had abused his wife and children Thursday night, while he was on a visit at Boone's home, 79 Ashby street. Boone declared that he had no recollection of what transpired, as he was under the influence of liquor at the time.

BRITAIN EXPECTED TO JOIN PROTESTS

inasmuch as one of the proposed lines will transverse the Mosul oil area, now held by Great Britain under a mandate of the league of nations, Americans will have the right to exploit the richest oil lands of the Mosul section which the British claim.

The British protest, which is reported as having been held up pending a full investigation of the Chester grant, is now understood to be appreciably nearer.

Kennedy declared in an exclusive interview with the United News:

"We expect at least one aspirant to our concession to raise the issue at Lausanne. However, the state department's statements of policy concerning commercial opportunity in the Near East indicates that the United States government will support us.

"Regardless of its attitude our position will remain unchanged.

Never Ratified.

"The Turkish parliament never ratified either the French railway concession or the British oil concession, wherefore they are invalid.

"Concerning the suggestion of arbitration, there is nothing to arbitrate. We intend to demand the full rights granted under the concession."

Further complications are seen in the fact that the Anglo-Persian company, recently arranged with the Standard Oil company, a share in Mesopotamian oil in order to settle the British-American dispute concerning the oil rights in mandated territories. But in Kennedy's opinion, the British promoters divided up something which was not theirs to divide.

Kennedy claims that between one and two hundred million dollars are involved in the railway and oil concessions. Two other concessions included in the Chester grant—agricultural development and the rebuilding of Angora—did not require the ratification of the Angora national assembly.

Kennedy stated that unless things are obstructed politically, men will start from America within two months to begin work under the concessions.

DOMESTIC FIGHT ENDS IN JAIL FOR HUSBAND

Ralph Welch, of 521 Peachtree street, was jailed at police barracks under a charge of being drunk and disorderly Friday morning, after injuries about the head had been dressed at the Grady hospital.

These wounds and cuts were inflicted by his wife, Mrs. Agnes Welch, who is separated from her husband and who lives at 92 East Ellis street. The fight occurred in her apartment.

She also was badly bruised and cut during the fight, but was able to return home after medical attention at the hospital.

Mine Workers' Counsel With Twenty Others Indicted for Murder

Charleston, W. Va., April 13.—Harold W. Houston, general counsel in West Virginia for the United Mine Workers, and 20 others, have been indicted in Logan county on charges of murder or accessory to murder, T. C. Townsend, attorney associated with Mr. Houston in union miners' trials, announced here tonight.

Held on Liquor Charge After Police Chase Down Roswell Road

Two men giving their names as Cecil Johnson and J. A. Gilbert were jailed by the county police early Friday morning under charges of violating the prohibition law, and the automobile in which they were riding was confiscated. It is said to have contained whisky.

The men were captured after a long and exciting chase in the Roswell road. The machine was observed by the officers shortly after it crossed the county line, when the pursuit began.

Brownings Deny Guilt On Charge of Murder Of Former Bank Teller

Salt Lake City, April 13.—Pleas of not guilty were entered today by Marriner and John Browning, Jr., business men, when they were arraigned on charges of murder in the first degree for the killing of Benjamin F. Ballantyne, former bank teller, Monday.

Judge Noel S. Pratt, who presided, announced that the preliminary hearing would be held April 26.

The defendants were returned to jail after their arraignment.

Move to Clamp Lid of Perfect Quiet on Windy City Starts Protest.

Chicago, April 13.—Chicago, center of the gayer life in the middle west, is not going to sit idly by and watch the city painted a deep shade of blue. Golf fans, theater managers and owners, and concession operators marshalled their forces for war Friday, against the "blue law" bill introduced in the senate at Springfield, Ill., Thursday.

Like a bolt out of the blue sky an even bluer blue law bill which would turn Chicago into a paradise of worship on Sunday, was introduced by Senator McMurray, a republican, of Chicago.

And while the measure came as a shock to wide-awake senators, it even stirred some of the state's august legislators who were grabbing their 40 winks through half closed eyes. Although some theater managers pooh-poohed the bill and Harry J. Powers, manager of three loop theaters, even went so far as to say he's willing to bet a thousand good iron men that the "indigo measure" will be howled out of the senate, the Theater Managers' association was not so confident.

Of course if the senators are not stampeded into voting for the measure, Powers said, the theater men might lobby against the bill.

E. A. Kelley, president of the Green Valley Country club, declared that all golfers would fight an attempt to take away their one-day-a-week pleasure.

The Rev. M. M. Boynton, chairman of the political action committee of the Chicago Church Federation, says the federation has indorsed the bill and remarks that the Actors' Equity association is also in favor of it. But here he ran into a hornet's nest, for Frank Dare, Chicago representative of the equity, says the actors do not approve of putting a wet blanket over the city on Sunday.

The introduction of the bill, advocates say, is part of the campaign of the Lord's Day Alliance, to inflict blue laws all over the country. The Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, of New York, is heading the drive, and has announced that a like campaign is now on in 43 states.

TRAIN BLOCKS STREET CROSSING; CREW SUMMONED

Fireman J. R. Wiley, of Cartersville, and Engineer W. W. Harris, of 1 Lucile avenue, in charge of the "Dixie Flyer" passenger train, were given copy of charges to appear in recorder's court this morning and explain why they kept the South Pryor street crossing, at the Union station, blocked for a longer period than is permitted by the city ordinance.

This action by Patrolman L. E. Jackson Friday is the first step taken by the police department to enforce that law, and, under instructions of Police Chief James L. Beavers, may prove the beginning of a series of arrests, unless train crews are more diligent in obeying the traffic ordinances.

WAGE INCREASE WAS VOLUNTARY, DECLARES GARY

New York, April 13.—The recent wage increase granted by manufacturing companies of the United States Steel corporation was voluntary and not forced, Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, declared today when he arrived on the steamship Mauretania after a cruise of the Mediterranean.

Two Romances Blasted By Anxious Mother; 'Bridegrooms' Disappear

Miss Ruby Jones and her companion, Miss Bertha Coffee, Friday were pondering over their romantic dream which was shattered Thursday in the Union station where the mother of Miss Jones, Mrs. J. G. Beard, of 33 Glass street, appeared to halt a trip planned to Marietta for the purpose of a double wedding.

The girls are reported to be only 13 years of age. One of the intended bridegrooms was at the railroad station with the girls when Mrs. Beard arrived, but he "beat" a hasty departure. The other did not show up, it is said, and it is thought he was "tipped" off by the one who fled.

HOME EXPOSITION SMASHES RECORDS

Saturday Is Last Day to Visit Auditorium. Large Building Program Predicted for Atlanta.

Tonight will bring to a close the biggest and most successful "Own Your Home" exposition ever introduced anywhere in the south, and the exhibitors at the auditorium are prepared for the largest attendance of the week today, which will be known as "Everybody's Day."

Basing their estimate on the average daily attendance during the week, S. W. Bacon, Jr., and J. Clark Brown, directors of the exposition, predicts that the total attendance today will be between 18,000 and 20,000 persons. The doors will open at 10 o'clock this morning, and the exposition will be in progress throughout the day until 10 o'clock tonight, when Atlanta's 1923 "Own Your Home" exposition will formally come to a close.

In spite of rainy weather, the attendance during the past two days has exceeded expectations. It was especially good all day Friday and last night the auditorium was literally crowded until closing time.

In the opinion of Chairman R. W. Evans, of the "Own Your Home" committee, and numerous exhibitors, as well as Directors Brown and Bacon, the exposition has already proven a far greater success in every respect than the one staged last year. It is reported that not only has the attendance been larger, but the visitors as a whole have shown a greater interest in the movement, as well as the exhibits.

Gratifying results have been obtained, according to many of the exhibitors. A large number of sales of lots and other property have been made, it is reported, in addition to numerous sales of building materials, furnishings and other products on display.

In addition, and what is of even greater importance in the opinion of the exhibitors, a greater number of prospective sales have resulted from the exposition.

Repaid in Business.

Several exhibitors reported sufficient business actually transacted the first night of the exposition to more than repay their entire expense of participating.

Evidence of the marked stimulus already given to home building activities by the publicity campaign conducted preliminary to the exposition, was seen yesterday by backers of the movement in the report by City Building Inspector J. C. Bowen that building permit records for the month have broken all previous records, in spite of the fact that the month is less than half gone.

Many predict that the total building permits issued during the month will amount to around $7,000,000, and are now looking upon $40,000,000 as being a conservaive estimate of the total amount of building that will be done in Atlanta this year.

Such unprecedented building operations cannot result otherwise than greatly benefitting business conditions generally in Atlanta, which will mean greater prosperity than ever. It was pointed out by Mr. Evans.

"There can be no doubt that Atlanta is entering upon an era of expansion and prosperity heretofore undreamed of," said George M. Brown, Jr., president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, and one of the leading young real estate men of the city.

Brown Is Active.

Mr. Brown has been one of the most ardent workers in the "Own Your Home" movement since it was first instituted here, and he said last night that he considered it the biggest movement that has ever been launched for the advancement of Atlanta.

Comments of the exhibitors at the exposition indicate that many of them share Mr. Brown's view, and considerable discussion has already been heard of plans for holding the exposition next year.

But between now and that time, the last opportunity Atlantans will have to study home building problems and methods at close range will be during today and tonight. That is the purpose of the exposition—to provide those interested in building the best opportunity to study their problems in a minimum of time.

MASONS LEAD DRIVE FOR SALVATION ARMY

Jump Into Lead in $40,000 Campaign With Total of $1,903.

Canvassing for the Salvation Army $40,000 campaign fund, the Masonic club team flashed into the lead Friday evening with a report of $710 in new subscriptions, which brings their total to $1,903, giving them first place in team standing. The Kiwanis team, which has held the honors since the opening of the campaign, is only slightly behind with a total of $1,858 which includes $115 reported Friday.

Competition between the leading teams is growing exceedingly close as the campaign nears its end, and the workers have been spurred on to redoubled efforts by the statements made Friday morning that the campaign was so far behind on collections that the whole program of Salvation Army work in Atlanta was seriously in danger.

The Rotary club, which has jumped into a position with the leaders, made still further gains on Friday and has now reached the total of $1,362.50, putting it in third place and within reaching distance of first honors.

B. F. Bell's team, which has had only a small territory on Produce Row reported on Friday a total of $278.50, which is most gratifying to the campaign directors.

The War Mothers, the leading women's organization team, increased its total to $961.66 and secured additional territory in order that their workers may reach the $1,000 mark before the week-end.

W. A. Brown and his co-workers from the First Christian church, reported $120 to bring their total to $830 for the drive.

One of the most interesting developments of the campaign is the fine response which is being received from a number of women's organizations which have been asked to canvass their membership for the campaign.

Miss Mary E. Phelps, of the Y. M. C. A. Business Women's league, Thursday reported a total of $92.75, and increased this amount by $37 on Friday, bringing the entire contributions of the league to $129.75. The employees of the Retail Credit company also increased their previous contribution of $24.50 by $42, giving them a total of $66.50.

TAYLOR IS MADE POWER COMPANY GENERAL MANAGER

The Georgia Railway and Power company Friday announced appointment effective immediately of W. H. Taylor, vice president, as general manager of the business of the company with the title of vice president and general manager. He will have general supervision over various departments of the company, assisting H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board, and P. S. Arkwright, president.

W. H. TAYLOR.

Announcement of Mr. Taylor's selection as general manager will be received with interest by the many warm friends he has in Atlanta and elsewhere. He is a public utility executive of wide experience and his appointment is viewed as deserved recognition of his ability.

Mr. Taylor was for seven years president of the Omaha Gas company, of Omaha, Neb. Previous to joining the Georgia Railway and Power company he was connected with the United Gas Improvement company in Philadelphia.

DELEGATES NAMED TO U. S. CHAMBER COMMERCE MEET

Atlanta delegates to attend the eleventh annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States were appointed Friday by Alfred C. Newell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. They are E. Marvin Underwood, Thomas C. Low, W. R. C. Smith, H. G. Hastings, Walter Barnwell, Victor Moore, Howard Muse, Alex W. Smith, Walter Rich and Melyl Wilkinson.

The alternates appointed are R. F. Shedden, Beaumont Davison, Sam Rothberg, Thomas H. Latham, Robert H. Martin, B. S. Barker, A. B. Chivers, Clark Howell, Jr., and John S. Cohen.

The meeting is to be held in New York city May 8, 9 and 10, and many subjects of nation-wide importance are to be discussed, among them being the postal service issue. The Detroit Board of Commerce has submitted a resolution for the consideration at the meeting which reads in part that the "United States Chamber of Commerce and other national organizations actively and urgently present to congress at its next session the great need of such prompt and adequate action as shall be necessary to secure to the people of the United States proper and sufficient postal service."

Another resolution submitted by the Rochester Chamber of Commerce urges that the "United States Chamber of Commerce appoint a special committee to investigate and report upon the entire postal service now being given in our American cities, and also report on the causes and cure of the inadequate mail service from which business men are now suffering in many of our American cities."

Board of Education Names Committees To Act on Problems

Four standing committees which will represent the board of education during the next year in matters pertaining to educational problems, were announced Friday by W. W. Gaines, president, following their election last Tuesday by the board at its regular monthly session.

"It is the policy of the board to transact all, or as much as possible of its business in open session," declared Mr. Gaines. "These four committees, however, will function on matters relating to certain details which would consume too much time for the entire board to act upon.

Following are the standing committees:

Committee on administration: J. T. Hancock, chairman; Mrs. Kate Green Hess, W. C. Slate, H. J. Penn and W. W. Gaines.

Committee on adult and special education: Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, chairman; Mrs. Kate Green Hess, H. J. Penn, W. H. Blair and W. W. Gaines.

Mrs. McKeown Indicted On Charge of Larceny After Trust, Friday

Mrs. Irma McKeown, of 95 East Ellis street, who figured in the R. B. Fortune blackmail case, Friday was indicted by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of larceny after trust.

The bill charges that Mrs. McKeown took $5, of Fortune's money with which to pay her carfare and refused to return the change.

Mrs. McKeown's recent trial in Lawrenceville on a charge of violating the prohibition law resulted in her acquittal and a charge of malicious prosecution against Fortune, an attorney of that city.

Later Fortune was tried and acquited in Atlanta on a blackmail charge made by Mrs. McKeown, who alleged that the attorney had represented himself as a government worker and had demanded money from her in settlement of the prohibition charge.

FOURTH WARD CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected for the Fourth Ward Improvement club at a meeting to be held Tuesday night, April 24, at the Forrest Avenue school, it was announced Friday.

Chairman of Stone Mountain Memorial Ass'n Will Discuss Carving by Gutzon Borglum.

Although President Warren G. Harding will be unable to attend the banquet which is to be given at the Capital City club next Friday evening by the Stone Mountain Memorial association to a group of outstanding men and women of the south, when the carving of the confederate memorial on the mountain by Gutzon Borglum is to be discussed, the president will prepare a letter which will be read on that occasion voicing his deep interest in the memorial movement.

Hollins N. Randolph, chairman of the state executive committee of the memorial association, will be in Washington Saturday to meet the president, by appointment, relative to contents of this message and the manner of its presentation at the dinner. Mr. Randolph was asked to go to Washington, by the president, when the special delegation from the executive committee called upon Mr. Harding in Augusta last week and conveyed to him in person an urgent invitation to be present. At that time it was explained that urgent affairs in Washington would prevent the president from coming south again, but he indicated that he would lend the movement every possible assistance.

Acceptances to this dinner were received by the executive committee Friday from Governor W. W. Brandon, of Alabama, and from Governor E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia, who will be represented at the dinner by Colonel W. McDonald Lee, of Richmond. Indications are that the dinner will be one of the most notable gatherings in the history of the city.

Invitations have been issued to all college presidents in the south and to the leading universities of the north and to historians of note. Among Friday's acceptances was that of Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama.

Nathan Bedford Forrest, secretary of the Stone Mountain association, is expected back in the city Sunday morning from New Orleans, where he presented the cause of the Stone Mountain memorial to various confederate bodies assembled there during the present week. He will bear with him the official indorsement and the enthusiastic support of these organizations. Much enthusiasm has been manifested at the reunion amongst those who have been vitally interested in the great confederate memorial which is to be carved on Stone mountain by Gutzon Borglum, especially now that the beginning of the work is at hand and the ultimate success of the undertaking seems assured.

NEW DRUG STORE WILL BE OPENED THIS AFTERNOON

The newest drugstore of Stephens and Hawk, Inc., proprietors of several pharmacies in Atlanta, will be formally opened to the public at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

It is located in Buckhead at Peachtree and East Pace's ferry road.

Patrons of Stephens and Hawk, north of Brookwood, will be served by the new store. Besides a full supply of drugs and sundries, the store will have an up-to-date soda fount and a cigar department.

OTIS ELEVATOR CO. WILL BUILD PLANT ON SPRING STREET

Tentative plans for construction of a large office building probably 10 stories in height, at the southeast corner of Spring and Baker streets by the Otis Elevator company, were announced Friday, following purchase of a tract on that corner by the Otis Elevator company from Ben Massell for $130,000.

The transaction was handled by the A. S. Adams-Cates agency. Fronting 100 feet on Spring street and extending back 130 feet on Baker street, the tract is regarded as one of the most desirable sites in the Spring street district.

The Otis Elevator company has its southeastern headquarters in Atlanta. W. D. Hoffman is southeastern manager. He represented the Otis Elevator company in the transaction.

Owing to the large area to be covered by the structure, the building will be one of the largest in the city if it is made 10 stories high. An old brick building now occupies the lot.

TWO MEN HURT IN ACCIDENTS HERE FRIDAY

J. Gershon, a tailor in the Peachtree Arcade building, and F. L. Austin, of 366 West Lake avenue, were in the Grady hospital Friday, suffering from serious injuries received in accidents.

Gershon was knocked down by an automobile operated by W. H. Lowery, of 381 Peachtreet street, in Peachtree, at the north end of the Peachtree-Whitehall street viaduct. Lowery picked him up and rushed him to the hospital. He suffered a fractured shoulder and other injuries.

Austin has a fractured hip and other injuries as the result of falling down the elevator shaft in the warehouse of the Walraven company, 38 West Alabama street, by whom he is employed as a truck driver.

Special Committees Appointed by Ninth Ward League Executives

Special committees to keep in touch with projected improvements for the northeast section of Atlanta were appointed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Ninth Ward Development league Thursday night.

Another special committee was appointed to wait on city officials in an effort to have sewers and water mains laid in connection with the extension of McLendon avenue, from Clifton avenue to its terminus.

More park facilities for the northeast section was urged, and the executive committee instructed a special committee to confer with the city park authorities and ask that early improvements be made in Candler park, and also that consideration be given their request for several new parks.

The opening of Whiteford avenue in Druid Hills was placed in the hands of a special committee, who will take up the matter with city officials and with the Druid Hills Land corporation.

WOMAN BURNED AS DRESS IGNITES FROM BLOW-TORCH

Mrs. J. T. Caudle, 42, of 56 East Georgia avenue, is in the Grady hospital suffering from serious burns received in her home Friday afternoon when her dress became ignited from a blow-torch painters were using in their work inside of the house. Physicians at the hospital stated she was in a dangerous condition.

Just how Mrs. Caudle got close enough to the blow-torch for her clothing to catch is not known. She became unconscious shortly after the fire was put out, and was unable to talk after her arrival at the hospital.

She was taken to the hospital in the private ambulance of Greenberg & Bond, which was summoned by neighbors.

LEAGUE'S WEAPON IS PUBLIC OPINION

Lord Robert Cecil Declares World Organization Founded on Desire to Do Right.

Des Moines, Ia., April 13.—No nation endangers its independence by going into the league of nations, for the league's weapon is not force, but public opinion, Lord Robert Cecil, the British statesman, told the National League of Women Voters here Friday night.

"The league successfully relies, as experience has shown, on the universal desire of men to do right whatever their practice may be," Lord Robert declared.

"I believe that if you once have an international organization relying on force, you immediately enter into the region of force, excitement, violence, and thus you immediately recreate the feelings which are the enemy of international co-operation."

There is only one case where compulsion may be necessary, the speaker said.

"That is if the nations enter into war without submitting their quarrels to open discussion. In that case only is any attempt made to coerce or compel.

"Apart from that no nation is bound to accept the decisions of the league unless they have agreed to do so beforehand. The provision requiring unanimity for a decision of the council or assembly removes the possibility of a minority being oppressed by a majority.'

Answers Objections.

Without mentioning the refusal of the United States to join the league, Lord Robert sought throughout his speech to answer every objection which has been raised against that organization and to insist upon the immediate possibility of complete isolation.

Urging his hearers not to forget the unrest, passion and hatred, "oppressing men everywhere," Lord Robert said: "Do not in the presence of such events pass by on the other side. Do not reply that you are not your brother's keeper."

He denounced alliances as "pernicious and useless" and leading only to counter alliances, "with all the familiar evils of the balance of power and competitive armaments and the like."

"What we have to aim at," Lord Robert declared, "is a better condition of international hygiene.

"That is why we have adopted the league of nations. By far its greatest activities are removing the conditions which lead to international quarrels and bad feeling. It differs essentially from the ordinary alliances.

"Membership of the league cannot involve the national forces of a country except by the expressed wish of the country in question."

Works With Success.

Reciting the work of the league, Lord Robert asserted it does work and with considerable success.

"It has only been in operation for three years," he declared, "and the results are really extraordinary.'

Praising the work of the Washington naval disarmament conference, Lord Robert asserted very much more remained to be done in reducing land and air armaments. A scheme now being worked out will be accomplished June 4 at a meeting of the armaments commission, which will decide whether to submit the proposal to the league.

"If they do," Lord Robert said, "there is no reason why at the next assembly the nations may not be induced to lay the foundations of a far-reaching plan for the reduction of the armaments of the world."

Anti-Factional Appeal Is Voiced By Nelson Shipp

Editorial Writer Calls for United Pull for State Welfare.

Voicing an appeal for cessation of internal strife in Georgia and a united pull of all factions and interests for the welfare of the state as a whole, Nelson Shipp, editorial writer of The Macon Telegraph, spoke before a gathering of nearly 100 Atlanta business and professional men at the City club's long table luncheon Friday. His theme was "Making This a Harmony Year in Georgia."

"Georgia's great need of the day is not so much harmony as it is a decent dis-harmony," Mr. Shipp declared. "Instead of fire-eating personal politics on one extreme, as we have suffered for years, or an inactive, smug contentment on the other extreme, we need a spirited clash of minds in sincere and intelligent effort to accomplish worth-while things."

The speaker bitterly condemned the present haphazard system of government and administration of public affairs in Georgia.

Budget Is Suggested.

"It is a shame and a disgrace that the heads of our public institutions, our schools and colleges, our hospitals and our asylums must come to the legislature, year after year and beg almost on bended knee for the pittance they can get to keep their doors open," he said.

A budget commission which would recommend the amount to be appropriated for each branch of the state's public service was advised by the Macon editor.

"Such a system," he said, "would do away with the arguing and the scrambling of one worthy institution against the other, and for the necessity of each institution proving in long hearings and long controversies before legislative committees that it really needs the money it is asking and that it will spend it honestly and economically."

People Want Holiday.

Mr. Shipp appealed for a "political holiday" from personal and "fire-eating" politics and declared that the people of Georgia want such a holiday.

"The most significant and forceful fact in the public life of our state today is that there has come a vivid reaction on the part of the people against partisan politics," he declared. They are verily sick and tired of the costly hullabaloo. They have not profited and they are finding it out. For the last half century, Georgia has had an inglorious reputation for fire-eating politics.

"It is but natural that our legislature, which meets every year, should compose a concentration of this excitement. This is not so much the fault of the legislature as the fault of the political background that we, the people, ourselves have built up.

"It is almost inescapable that the opening of the legislative session for the solemn and serious transaction of the people's business is somewhat of a signal for various kinds of fireworks. The reason for this is that the people have for years regarded the legislature as an annual circus; it was the only free vaudeville in the state. It satisfied a kind of popular craving for excitement, a craving that appears to be too pronounced throughout Georgia. The joy of too many of us has been in the fight rather than in the achievement, and this has sometimes caused more fight than achievement in connection with the public business.

"But the legislature in itself is not the circus and vaudeville, but only the reflection and outcome of the political circus and vaudeville conducted all the year around by the state at large.

Time Is Wasted.

"Georgia has wasted too much time in strife over epheral issues," Mr. Shipp told his hearers. We have devoted too much of our time to things that mean nothing for the general advancement of Georgia's interests, and as a result, Georgia has failed to keep step with the march of progress in many lines.

"Other southern states have advanced themselves, with less of natural resources and advantages, to a point where they can challenge Georgia's right to the title of 'The Empire State of the South.' The time has now come in the history of our state to forget things that have long made us a house divided against itself and to face issues of the day, without thought of personal advantage."

Biennial sessions of the legislature, a four-year term for the governor and sweeping changes in Georgia's tax system were reforms suggested by the speaker as methods of allaying internal strife and putting the commonwealth in a position to strive more unitedly for constructive progress.

Edgar Watkins, president of the club, was master of ceremonies at the luncheon. Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, introduced Mr. Shipp, and Major John S. Cohen, editor of the Journal, and James B. Nevin, editor of The Georgian, spoke briefly in support of the "political holiday" program championed by Mr. Shipp.

Mr. Shipp's was one of a series of talks the City club has arranged to inform its members as to issues of state-wide interest and importance.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

Negro Takes Advantage of Kindly Stranger.

Savannah, Ga., April 13.—J. M. Myrick, of Allendale, S. C., today asked the county police to help in regaining his automobile and a roll of bills amounting to $1,200, stolen by a negro. Myrick told the police he was en route from Florida, and the negro asked to be allowed a ride. He let the negro drive the car.

Myrick had been drinking considerably, according to his statement and fell asleep in the car. When he found himself he was beside the road with his coat gone, his roll missing and the automobile gone. He walked to Savannah and went at once to the police. The car was found deserted in Savannah.

Ben Hill School Census.

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—According to the rural school census made public by Superintendent J. H. Bullard, there are 1,650 white children and 1,203 colored, of school age in the rural districts of the county. There are only 7 white children over 10 years of age, who are unable to read or write.

ATLANTA DOCTOR PAID HIGH HONOR BY ORTHODONTISTS

Dr. Clinton C. Howard, of Atlanta, one of the best known orthodontists in the United States, has just been elected president of the American Society of Orthodontists at its annual convention, which is being held in Chicago this week.

DR. C. C. HOWARD.

Dr. Howard is past president of the Fifth District Dental society, president-elect of the Georgia State Dental society, professor of orthodontia, Atlanta Southern Dental college, and professor of the Dewey School of Orthodontia of New York city.

Dr. Howard's practice in the correction of the deformities of the jaws extends throughout the southeast, and he has handled special cases from many parts of the United States. For many years Dr. Howard has been giving lectures on orthodontia, and has had the opportunity of appearing before the leading dentists in this country.

BROKEN NECK FATAL

Victim, Conscious, Lived Tuesday Until Friday.

Macon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) After living since last Tuesday with his neck broken and his body paralyzed, Herman Kinchen, 23, of Chauncey, Ga., died this afternoon at a local hospital, where he was brought this morning.

In company with Solomon Crook, Kinchen was engaged in felling trees three miles from Chauncey, when one of the trees in falling struck him on the head, pinning him to the ground and breaking his neck. Kinchen remained conscious from the time of the accident until about an hour before his death.

Kinchen was the son of Mrs. Lizzie Kinchen and besides his mother he is survived by five brothers, all of Chauncey. The body will be taken home early tomorrow morning.

Attempts Suicide.

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Mrs. M. G. Burden, in a fit of melancholy, brought on by ill health, attempted to commit suicide Wednesday night by cutting her throat and inflicting wounds in her breast. The unfortunate woman received immediate medical attention and is reported out of danger.

SUITCASE OF MISSING SALESMAN IS FOUND

Valdosta, Ga., April 13.—Another development in the disappearance of R. Fleming Rumph, the drug salesman who has been missing mysteriously for more than two weeks, came today. The suitcase of the missing man was found in the lobby of the Hotel Valdes, among a lot of other baggage.

This destroys the idea that Rumph might have gone off to take orders. The last record in the order book was made at Wellborn, Fla., a few days before he came to Valdosta.

SWITCHMAN IS HURT AS ENGINES COLLIDE

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Needham Warren, a switchman, employed by the A., B. & A. railway was seriously wounded when two switch engines collided in the local yards. Warren's skull is reported fractured and he is being given medical attention at the local hospital. Foreman Goins, of the yard was injured at the same time, but his wounds are said to be less serious.

Did Winter leave you with that tired feeling?

WINTER'S confinement, with its lack of pure air and sunshine, shows its effect in Spring. To be underweight, easily tired, listless, and have a poor appetite, indicates a weakened condition of the blood. Nature must have help—your blood is minus fighting strength! More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells. It builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! It builds nerve-power,—thinking power. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautifies complexions, and makes the flesh firmer. Stronger and more useful nerves depend on blood-power. S. S. S. will improve your appetite and give you greater energy, strength and a more youthful appearance.

Mrs. Lizzie Pelmet, Crowell, Texas, writes: "I was in a run-down condition—had lost forty-four pounds in weight. Also suffered from pimples and blackheads. My druggist recommended S.S.S. It made me a new woman. I think S.S.S. to be the best medicine on earth."

In the Supreme Court Library at the State Capitol, Atlanta, Georgia, a section of which is illustrated here, the floor is Armstrong's Plain Brown Linoleum

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retrimming. Such a floor is smooth and tight

Linoleum Floors Reduce the Noise Nuisance

BIG cities are noisy. Big offices are noisy. Any place where a number of people gather is filled with a medley of footsteps, voices, machines, bells, rustles, and squeaks.

Floors that make for silence make for less distraction and greater efficiency.

Linoleum is a quiet floor. It does more than hush the clatter of footfalls. It muffles miscellaneous noises and subdues sound.

In addition to lessening the noise nuisance in a store, office or public building, floors of linoleum are generally cleaner than other floors. The reason? Simply that linoleum is nonabsorbent, and so easy to clean that surface cleaning is thorough cleaning.

Waxing improves looks

When waxed and polished, linoleum takes a beautiful finish. The thin film of wax serves not only as a protection, but actually deepens and mellows the color of the floor. A linoleum floor will steadily get better-looking through the years, with proper waxing care.

People like to walk on linoleum. It is restful, resilient and comfortable.

These qualities of linoleum floors are easy to understand when you consider what linoleum is—a mixture of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil pressed on tough burlap.

You know that cork is resilient, moisture-proof, durable, a nonconductor of heat. Linseed oil is also extremely tough and resilient. The burlap back gives linoleum strength. Thus linoleum is a floor material that has practically every quality that can be desired in a floor.

Armstrong's Linoleum

Armstrong's Linoleum can be bought in different colors to suit individual tastes of business requirements. Your architect, contractor, or any good linoleum merchant can give you information on the economy of its use and its low maintenance cost. We will gladly give him data and specifications for laying linoleum over concrete or wood.

CLAIM GARLAND FUND WOULD CONTROL UNION

United Mine Workers Score Directors of Radical Organization.

Washington, April 13.—A statement made public today by the United Mine Workers of America declared that those now in control of the Garland fund are "making a desperate but vain attempt to control and dictate the policies of the coal miners' union."

"This is the same aggregation," the statement said, "that formulated and prepared the so-called plan for nationalization of coal mines which was made public at a recent meeting of radicals in New York. It will be remembered that that plan for nationalization was given to the public at that time with a false impression that it was the plan of the United Mine Workers of America. The plan was repudiated by the union when it was made public.

"In the reply of the managers of the Garland fund we find it stated that $2,000 of that fund was sent to district No. 2 of the United Mine Workers at Cresson, Pa., for relief of miners on strike and that $25,000 was lent to the United Mine Workers. None of this money was sent or lent to district No. 2 with the knowledge and approval of the international union."

BISHOP, TWO NUNS, AMONG 20 DROWNED IN SUDDEN STORM

Mexico City, Mexico, April 13.—The bishop of Belize (British Honduras) two nuns and seventeen other passengers were drowned when a motorboat carrying them to Payo Obispo, territory of Quintana Roo, Mexico, sank on Wednesday during a sudden storm, according to delayed advices reaching here this evening. Fifty other persons are reported to have been saved. Further details are lacking.

No Evidence of Graft, Declares Director Of Veterans' Bureau

Washington, April 13.—No evidence to support graft charges against veterans bureau officials have been found by Director Hines since he took charge of the bureau six weeks ago, he said today in discussing the inquiry now being conducted by a senate committee.

Recently John F. O'Ryan, special counsel for the investigating committee, said he believed that "dishonesty on a big scale" would be found in the course of the inquiry. The director emphasized today, however, that although he had made a number of changes in bureau personnel to effect economies and insure a more compact organization he had not acted on "any evidence of graft."

Tears and Smiles Greet Gray Lines In Annual March

Closing Reunion, Confederate Veterans Resent Absence of Gov's of Dixie.

BY SAM W. SMALL.

New Orleans, La., April 13.—(Special.)—The grand march is over and the final ball is being danced, but most of the veterans are entraining for home, sweet home. Each is saying to his comrades: "Hope to find you again in Memphis next year," but many of them surely will fail to realize that hope. Hopeful and resolute as they are, it is all too evident that the Grim Reaper will harvest not a few of them before another reunion roll call.

One must mingle with them on an occasion as this to understand what a mettlesome host they were in battle form. If ever heroic men on earth earned reverence and adulation for unselfish service, these men did it.

The parade today was the greatest seen for twenty years past. New Orleans people suddenly woke up to the substance and seriousness of the many complaints against their lack of interest in the veterans and came to the rescue of their reputation with a high tide of generous hospitality.

Mostly Automobiles.

The procession was mostly of automobiles containing veterans and their hosts and was more than ninety minutes passing the reviewing stand. Enthusiasm was intense along the four miles traversed, and the old graybacks were in high and happy fervor.

The women of New Orleans, always zealous in their patriotism, were the redeemers of the affairs, and to them the veterans will attribute the most salient joys of the reunion.

Bitter Comment.

One thing rather bitterly commented upon by leading veterans was the notable absence of southern governors. Governor Parker appeared for an hour only and then left for New York to speak a piece there. Governor Trinkle, of Virginia, came early with a large staff, the Richmond Blues, in full strength and gala uniforms and a band, and they have remained through the entire reunion. No other southern governor has shown his face here, and men of high rank among the veterans resent it savagely, declaring it unthinkable that official duties can be pleaded for this indifference to the veterans of their own and sister states.

300-Pound Cake Is Wedding Gift To Royal Couple

Firm of Biscuit Makers Presents 10-Foot Monument of Pastry.

London, April 13.—The most remarkable of all the wealth of gifts bestowed upon Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, whose marriage to the Duke of York will take place in Westminster Abbey, April 26, is a mammoth wedding cake, presented by the largest firm of biscuit makers in England.

The cake is ten feet high, eight feet in diameter and weighs 300 pounds. It is divided into four tiers, each bearing emblems symbolical of the lineage of the royal bridegroom and his bride.

On the first tier is a reproduction of Windsor Castle and St. George's church and on the second is a relief in sugar work of Glamis Castle, ancestral home of the bride; among the figures on the third tier is a Masonic emblem, signifying the connection of the Duke and the bride's father, the Earl of Strathmore, with that order. Below are figures of cupids, standing on ladders and ringing bells of happiness. On the summit of the cake is a massive silver vase of rare design, containing a bouquet of York roses, orange blossoms and snow drops.

The cake will be placed on exhibition, visitors being charged six pence and the proceeds will go to charity.

PREFERS DEATH TO SCHOOL, AND ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Macon, Ga., April 13.—Rather than go to school, Martha Wood, 16, of 1052 Oglethorpe street, swallowed a quantity of lye last night, according to a story hospital authorities said she told them at a local hospital where she is recovering from the effects of the poison.

The girl is said to have remarked that she was tired of school and did not want to go any longer. She is glad, however, she told the hospital attaches, that she did not die.

SOVIET CAPITAL FEARS DISASTER IN RIVER FLOOD

London, April 13.—Black Friday in Russia.

The Moscow correspondent of the Daily Express, in a dispatch to his paper here, declares that an early overflow of the Moscow river, threatening the capital of the societ government, is expected.

News of the impending disaster, the correspondent stated, has swept the country and the people are saying that the threatened flood is retribution for the war against Christianity.

The government, it is said, is feverishly requesting row boats and constructing rafts and floating ambulances.

PLAN FORMATION OF ORGANIZATION FOR COLLEGE MEN

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13.—Steps to form a permanent intercollegiate association were taken here at a banquet given to 800 former students of 116 colleges and universities of the United States, delegates to the tenth annual conference of college alumni and alumnae secretaries and the alumni magazines associated.

A resolution authorizing Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, to appoint a committee to draw up plans for formation of a permanent organization such as he had described to the delegates was unanimously adopted.

"The forces of the intellect and the spirit have not been organized," Mr. Baker declared.

"We simply cannot afford to let cities keep on growing, organized on the mechanical side and unorganized on the intellectual and spiritual side."

Letters incorrectly addressed in the United States cost the government over $2,000,000 in extra expense each year.

ROAD TO TRUE RICHES:—Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:33.

THE ALTAMAHA SYSTEM.

Thirty years ago under the administration of Grover Cleveland, who had a broad vision as to the potential possibilities of river navigation, the development of the inland waters of the Atlantic and Gulf states took on a tremendous impetus; and until the world war made it necessary to harness all revenues possible behind the nation's fighting arms, the house rivers and harbors committee, acting upon surveys of the engineering board, made progressive appropriations for this work.

Thus it was that Savannah and Brunswick became major ports, as to mean tide water across the bars; and it was during this era that 30 feet of water was provided from the St. Johns river bar to the city of Jacksonville. Liberal programs were also undertaken for the inland river systems of Georgia.

Now that the spirit of reconstruction along progressive, practical industrial and commercial lines is sweeping the country, with hearty federal co-operation, the board of trade of Brunswick has very fittingly undertaken to draw concrete federal attention to the great possibilities of the development of the Altamaha system, comprising the Altamaha, Oconee and Ocmulgee rivers.

To that end a convention has been called to meet in Brunswick May 15-16, at which Senators Harris and George and the Georgia members of the house will be present, and scores of other prominent and influential men, including the governor, members of the state assembly, and undoubtedly representatives of the engineering bureau of the war department.

With the proper federal aid there is little doubt that Georgia will do her part in the development of this project, for there is not within the state today an asset of greater value to all the people than this system of rivers, provided they are developed into their full measure of usefulness.

There is no good reason why the Altamaha river, from its mouth on the Atlantic to where the main stream breaks into its chief tributaries, the Oconee and the Ocmulgee, should not be floating oceangoing steamers; and there is accordingly no good reason why river steamers of deep draught, the same as ply the St. Johns to Palatka and Sanford, should not be plying the Oconee and Ocmulgee.

If this system was in the north or east the same draught ships that go up to the docks at Philadelphia would be plying the Altamaha. If it was in the Great Lake region; or if it was in the Puget Sound or the California coast region the same would be true.

Why not in the south? The president says there is no sectionalism in this country. Every great section is an equal part of the national unit, measured by its resources and resourcefulness. The trouble with the south—and particularly does this apply to Georgia—the resources are plentiful, but the resourcefulness for development has been lamentably lacking.

Should the Altamaha system become developed to its possibilities it would mean an industrial and commercial revolution in Georgia; and it would be of untold benefit to all the southeast.

COMMANDER HALDEMAN.

Members of the United Confederate Veterans are to be congratulated on the election of that old war horse of democracy—a prince of the cavaliers who was a stalwart soldier, and since a powerful, constructive force in Southern rehabilitation—General William B. Haldeman, of Kentucky, as commander-in-chief.

General Haldeman has been one of the South's most outstanding men for half a century. Ever since the civil war he has been an earnest, zealous, patriotic worker for the national political and social welfare of a united nation.

The line is getting thin, but it is the sincere hope of The Constitution that General Haldeman may be spared for many years to ride at the head of the remnant, for no one of the gray is more worthy to lead.

RIGHTING A WRONG.

The Wiregrass Farmer, of Ashburn, Turner county, carried in its last issue two and a half pages of solid advertising for the county ordinary's office.

As intimated in a special article in the same issue this patronage was encouraged by suggestions made by Judge Eve, of that superior court circuit, in a recent charge to the Turner county grand jury in which he paid a tribute to that paper for the good work it had done in establishing diversified farming and in bringing a new prosperity in the county, in the path of boll weevil destruction.

The reference to this excellent Georgia newspaper was timely and deserved, for no two men in that section have been more instrumental in making the "Turner county plan" a success at home than have Joe Lawrence and F. M. Tison, the editors and owners of the Farmer. They have backed George T. Betts in his constructive program in every particular.

But the point in Judge Eve's grand jury address that was also most forceful, in that it met a situation that is antiquated and yet maintained in most counties in direct unfairness to the local or county newspapers, was the recommendation that "the price to be paid for this county advertising service be left to the ordinary and the publishers to agree upon."

This same recommendation ought to be made in every county of Georgia, and faithfully adhered to by all county authorities.

As it is today the grand juries in most of the counties, in providing for the publication of their presentments, stipulate the rate to be paid, based upon the old legal rate fixed at a time when the newspapers had on an average less than half their present circulation; when county populations were relatively small; when costs of producing newspapers were a great deal less than today—hence the weekly newspapers are called upon to serve their counties in advertising space at rates less than commercial, and less than fair and reasonable under existing conditions both as to cost and circulation.

In undoing this injustice Judge Eve has rendered a distinct service to the country newspapers.

It is not possible for a country newspaper to be adequately paid for its service to the interests of the county and state.

And certainly it should be treated fairly, in keeping with new conditions, in the matter of legal advertising.

INCREASING PROSPERITY.

The United States Steel corporation has advanced the wages of its 150,000 workmen to the total of $25,000,000 a year. Other steel corporations are falling in line, and to the men who labor in these great industries it is approximated that the immediate advances will amount to $100,000,000 a year.

The advance to the U. S. S. corporation workmen was announced by Judge Gary two or three days ago from the Mauretania at sea, the radio broadcasting the news to all the world.

It is significant principally, except to those who are directly beneficiaries of the wage increases, because of the light it sheds upon the condition of the nation's industry.

The mills of the steel zone are working to the full capacity of labor, averaging fully 90 per cent of maximum. The slight deficit in labor is because other industries have been offering higher wages, notably automotive. This shows that industries generally—all of which are in a way grouped like the ten pins in a bowling game—are standing up.

And in this connection it is a principle of economics that rising wages are not only a sign of prosperity, but in turn help to promote prosperity—provided that a fair day's work is given in return for the wage.

There is always danger in too rapid business expansion unless all conditions expand in conformity, and unless there is a check valve upon the tendency to recklessness.

The most useful contribution the bankers and business men of the country can make today toward the continuation of prosperity, as the increasing wage scale in the steel mills indicates, is to put the brakes on inflation and preach the gospel of increased production to meet higher pay.

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

WHY CHILDREN SHOULD, IF ADULTS SHOULDN'T

When anyone purporting to be a teacher of or an authority on health undertakes to reconcile the teaching that fresh air is healthful with the admission that exposure to ordinary cold and wet, draft or sudden change is unsafe, the general effect, as it seems to me, is rather droll, and brings to mind the thoughtless, nagging mother who had a habit of calling out frequently: "Johnny! Where are you—what are you doing And stop it right away!"

I think adults have nothing whatever to gain by the use of the toothbrush as a toilet habit, unless under special direction of physician or dentist for a particular therapeutic purpose. At the same time I believe it is highly important that all children should brush their teeth carefully and painstakingly every day. Children have everything to gain by this practice—sound teeth. A child with sound primary or baby teeth is sure to have even, regular sound permanent teeth: there is no better asset for health or beauty than perfect teeth. This places upon me the obligation to reconcile these apparently inconsistent teachings.

Either I am weak in my conviction or I attribute other benefits than cleanliness to the practice of brushing the teeth.

That is it. Children are generally restricted more closely to ultra refined foods than adults are. Children are generally assumed to have feeble digestive powers and hence to require careful premastication on their food if not partial predigestion of it. They should begin chewing things as soon as they cut their first teeth, but by custom and practice they are carefully prevented from making any real use of the baby teeth. Brushing, therefore, does in a poor way for the teeth and the gums what a natural diet and proper mastication would do well. Hence I say the children should give their teeth a thorough brushing daily or two or three times a day. If children in civilized environment were allowed and encouraged to use their temporary or primary teeth for masticating whole cereals, cracking nuts, gnawing on bones, and the like, they would need to bush their teeth no more than calves or puppies do.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Although the name or identity of the correspondent is never divulged, readers should bear in mind that no attention will be paid to recommendations not properly signed.

Bunion Removal.

Does the removal of bunions weaken the feet?—Mrs. G. H.

Answer—It isn't quite accurate to speak of the removal of bunion. The operation for the cure of bunion does not weaken the feet.

Acute Indigestion.

Answer—I first noticed symptoms after eating half a cocoanut and I don't remember what else. Checked it with good old ether and steel—that is, my doctor did. Advise you not to try to jolly yourself with that "indigestion" nonsense, but have the appendix or whatever it is out. You'll feel fine then. The cucumbers and buttermilk, or any other good food, might have happened along just before the operation, but don't deduce from that coincidence that cucumbers and buttermilk are not good food. I take a whole cocoanut now, if I can get it.

Belt Versus Suspenders.

I am a boy 10 years old and would like your advice whether to wear a belt or suspenders. Father thinks the belt is harmful. Would you please tell me what time a boy of my age should be in bed?—James S. O.

Answer—Father is right. Suspenders are better for every man to wear, and for every woman, too. The waist is not constructed for support. You should hop into bed not later than 9:30 o'clock and hop out again not earlier than 7:30 o'clock in the morning. Ten hours sleep is the very least a boy can get along with, if he is a regular boy.

Suet Dumplings.

Nurse claims lots of nourishment in boiled suet dumplings.—D. E. A.

Answer—The claim is allowed. Hard to beat 'em for nourishment.

J. H. OLDKNOW, RAILROAD MAN, DIED ON FRIDAY

Joseph H. Oldknow, 33, of Norfolk, Va., well known railroad man, and son of the late J. W. Oldknow, of Atlanta, died Friday after undergoing an operation at a private hospital. Mr. Oldknow was born in Atlanta and lived here many years.

Surviving Mr. Oldknow are his mother, Mrs. Anna S. Oldknow; his widow, Mrs. Olga Oldknow; three children; a brother, Ralph Oldknow, of Hampton Roads, Va.; three uncles, William Oldknow, L. C. Varnedo and H. O. Varnedo, and two aunts, Miss Nellie Varnedo and Mrs. J. H. Pepper, all of Atlanta.

At the time of his death Mr. Oldknow was executive rate clerk of the freight department of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, with headquarters in Norfolk.

Mr. Oldknow was a member of the St. Peter's Episcopal church of Norfolk, Knights of Pythias, Knights of Khorassan and Woodmen of the World, besides holding membership in several other fraternal orders.

Well-Known Local Printer to Be Laid To Rest in Oakland

The body of John W. Sower, well known Atlanta printer, who for the past 20 years had been connected with The Constitution, will be brought to Atlanta from Ocala, Fla., where he died Thursday, for funeral services and interment. The body will arrive this morning. Services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Sower was head make-up man for The Constitution, until recently, when he resigned to go to Florida. He came to Atlanta from Parisburg, Va., in 1882. He was a member of the Typographical Union, local No. 48, and of the Greater Atlanta Tent of Maccabees. Mr. Sower had written several books on farming.

Will Again Introduce Bill in Legislature On Study of Constitution

Following publication in Friday's Constitution of Judge Price Gilbert's letter to Governor Hardwick advocating compulsory study of the national constitution in Georgia's schools, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, chairman of the citizenship committee of the Georgia Parent-Teacher association, called attention to the fact that a bill providing for such instruction was introduced in the last legislature.

The measure was prepared and advocated by her committee, she said, and was approved by both the educational and rules committee of both houses, but was killed on the floor of the lower house, she said.

The bill will be revised and its introduction will be sought at the next session of the legislature, according to Mrs. Andrews.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE
BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, April 13.—The genuine book lover finds romance and adventure prowling about the dingy cellar book shops on lower Fourth avenue and Twenty Third street. Some are half-book and half-cigar stores—the last stand of the individual tobacconist.

There is a quasi-Bohemian disorder—the rare smell of old tomes grown musty with age, mottled windows that have not been dressed for years. And the proprietors are aged, shabby and caring not for a sale big or small.

You will find them in a cranky mood unless they sense a keen love of the customer for books worth while. The old book-sellers' district is far removed from the savagery of the Roaring Forties and the didatic, vers libre intellectualism of Greenwich village.

The ancients, who appear invariably near-sighted, are human indexes of rare volumes and valuable bindings. They have drunk deep of the classics and if you mention any of the flippant writers of the day you will find tempers mercurial.

There are no signs on the shop windows. They do not regard themselves as tradesmen. One of the most famous booksellers of the east side is Max Maisel, who in addition is a "street corner lawyer." If he finds you have a literary taste and are really hungry for good reading he will open an account gladly.

"I have never found a man who really loved books who was not strictly honest," he says. He has a monopoly of the trade in the Ghetto. Another celebrated book seller is an old codger in Fourteenth street known as "Witty." He is more than 70.

His memory for Dickens is remarkable. Quote a sentence from any of his works and "Witty" will tell you in what chapter it appears. His shop is only open in the morning and at night, for in the afternoon he reads for three or four hours in the rear of his shop and will not be disturbed.

Incidentally friends of Sinclair Lewis declare the author of "Main Street" and "Babbitt" has almost forsaken America. He is now living in a quiet section of London and does not expect to return for two years. Recently Lewis returned from Britain and announced he would live at Madison, Wis.—the nearest city to his native heath Sauk Center, Wis. But in a few weeks he quietly sailed for London where he has found that he can write to a greater advantage.

One of the newest stunt dining places is a Japanese restaurant, Wakamatsu, in Harlem. Patrons must remove their shoes before entering the place and there are Geisha girls to dance following the serving of a real Japanese meal.

More New Yorkers are going to Europe this summer than ever before, according to the steamship agencies. The beginning of the migration is early in May and will reach the peak in July. London and Paris hotels, anticipating a rush of patronage, have established branch booking offices in the Grand Central Terminal district. The prices for accomodations are already taking a leap. And in the meanwhile, New York hotels fearing a slack business, are preparing to make new and attractive rates for summer visitors. Egypt, by the way, is considered the smart place to go.

IN WHAT DO YOU TRUST?

Text—"Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord our God." Psalm 20:7.

Halt, my friends, let me have a carefully considered answer to this questin, "In what do you trust?"

Certainly, you trust in something, for a state of absolute doubt is impossible to man.

Better than trusting in something is to trust in some one, for we are persons and, as face answers to face in the mirror, so our hearts answer to the personality in others.

No one should upbraid the soul which is caught in the meshes of doubt and the miserable fears which accompany it.

Many are the experiences that shake our faith and that drive us to a mood of question and of doubt.

Friends fail us, circumstances seem to combine against us, God appears to hide Himself.

But if we will cling to that fundamental sense of what is right and good, we will find that the shaking up of our faith is but the needed jolting down of our rather unthinking trust more firmly upon the Great Reality, God.

After all, the soul of man is too great a thing to be satisfied by less than Infinite Being.

However dear any loved one, however seemingly satisfying any situation, at last the terrific immensity of the soul calls for more than these can supply.

"Thou hast made us for thyself, O God, and we are restless until we rest in Thee!"

Men will not willingly let these words of St. Augustine die, because they say so well what all men feel, but "none so well expressed."

Here is an old hymn which was very dear to our fathers and mothers, whose hearts were set in them to do right; please note that I said to "do" right, and, I believe, when their children shall become equally convinced of the pre-eminence of right Christian living, the old hymn will become new again.

"Though troubles assail and dangers affright,
Though friends should all fail and foes all unite,
There's one thing secures us, whatever betide,
The promise assures us, 'The Lord will provide.'

"The birds without barn or storehouse are fed,
From them let us learn to trust for our bread,
His saints what is fitting shall ne'er be denied,
So long as 'tis written, 'The Lord will provide.'

"And when life sinks apace and death is in view,
The word of His grace shall comfort us through,
Not fearing nor doubting, with Christ on our side,
We hope to die shouting, 'The Lord will provide.'"

EXPRESS ROUTING GUIDE PREPARED

Will Be Issued in About 30 Days to Take Advantage of Commerce Commission Ruling.

A new and comprehensive express routing guide, including about 40,000 American shipping points, is being prepared by the Southeastern Express company and will be issued in about 30 days in order to take advantage of the recent ruling by the interstate commerce commission which orders the American and the Southeastern Express companies to establish joint routings and to observe routings designated by shippers, it was announced Friday by John B. Hockaday, president and general manager of the Southeastern.

The interstate commerce commission decision, made public last week, was regarded as a victory for the Southeastern Express company, over the American Railway Express company, which had refused to establish rates and routing agreements with the Southeastern.

The American, holding, it is alleged, an express monopoly growing out of the war-time consolidation of various express companies, which consolidation was approved by the commission, was directed to establish with the Southeastern through routes and joint rates and charges on interstate express traffic.

Enables Competition.

The effect of this ruling, according to Mr. Hockaday Friday, is to enable the Southeastern to compete with the American for long hauls on express traffic which originates in territory served exclusively by the American but which is consigned to points in territory served by both companies or by the Southeastern exclusively. Until the ruling was issued, he said, the American arbitrarily routed all traffic over its own lines as far as they extended, regardless of comparative advantages of the competing Southeastern lines offered or of the wishes of the shippers.

The commission in its review of the case and its ruling stated that it was impossible to pass upon the reasonableness of all routings at the time, but that the express companies should have no difficulty in reaching an agreement, themselves, either with or without the aid of an arbitration committee. The commission stated that it will pass later on specific routes in any case where an agreement can not be reached.

Meanwhile, the American is given general directions to cease discrimination against the express handled by the Southeastern, and to cancel "restrictive schedules" against which its independent competitor and several shippers' organizations, including the Atlanta freight bureau, complained.

Broadly speaking, the commission upheld the contentions of the Southeastern that the refusal of the American to establish just, reasonable and equitable division of joint rates and to observe the designation of routing by the express shipper, was prejudicial to the Southeastern and its shippers and preferential to the American, Mr. Hockaday said Friday.

Operated By Southern.

The Southeastern company, incorporated in 1920 under Alabama laws, is operated by the Southern railway system and owned by 2,651 stockholders, most of whom are southern business men. It operates over the Southern lines, over the Mobile and Ohio, Tennessee Central, the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis electric line, the Maryland and Pennsylvania railroad and the Chesapeake Steamship lines, approximately 10,000 miles of railroad. Its main terminal points now are Washington, Baltimore, Richmond, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans, Norfolk, Charleston and Jacksonville.

Practically all other carriers are utilized by the American and in the southeastern states it operates over more than 30,000 miles of road, the commission stated in its review of the case.

Robert C. Alston, Atlanta attorney, represented the American Railway Express company as general counsel, and Sanders McDainel, Atlanta attorney, represented the Southeastern Express company, before the commission.

METHODISTS SHOW MUCH ENTHUSIASM IN WEEK'S REVIVAL

Enthusiasm increases as the great Methodist revival continues to attract people in all walks of life to the several churches engaged in dispensing the truths of the Bible, according to reports received late Thursday.

Nine members have been united to the Ingleside Methodist church by Rev. J. D. Milton, pastor, during the past few days. Much interest is being shown in the music rendered under the direction of Mr. Hart of Emory university.

Rev. C. M. Meeks of the Park Street church announces that 37 applications for membership have been received on profession of faith and 45 by certificate, with attendance increasing daily.

Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, pastor of Payne Memorial Methodist church, Luckie and Hunnicutt streets, states: "At our last meeting we had four additions to our membership and a large attendance. Rev. Dave Fant, the railroad evangelist, was very well received, while on Thursday night Rev. Charles Bass preached a special sermon to the Masons, for whom a hundred seats were reserved.

Rev. Elam F. Dempsey occupied the pulpit at the Inman Park church in the absence of the pastor. His sermon was characterized as powerful and was well received by a large house.

PHI BETA KAPPA MEN WILL ORGANIZE TODAY

Members of the Phi Beta Kappa society living in or near Atlanta are requested to meet at the chamber of commerce at 4 o'clock Saturday for the purpose of perfecting an organization similar to organizations in other cities of the country.

It is requested that anyone who knows the name of a member who should be on the list communicate T. B. Higdon, Walnut 0027.

Among the members of Phi Beta Kappa in Atlanta are Judge Samuel H. Sibley, ex-Governor John M. Slaton, Clark Howell, Preston S. Arkwright, Judge Nash R. Broyles, Judge R. B. Russell, Dudley Cowles, Eugene M. Mitchell, Arthur Heyman, H. A. Alexander, Victor L. Smith, Robert L. Foreman, Dr. J. D. Armistead, Dr. M. W. Adams, Dr. Lucian L. Knight, and many other prominent professional and business men of the city. The list includes also many women who were admitted to membership in northern and eastern colleges.

The meeting will be held at room 207 of the chamber of commerce.

NOTE OF OPTIMISM SOUNDED BY BARNES

New York, April 13.—A note of optimism regarding industry in Europe was sounded by Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber of commerce in the United States when he returned on the steamship Mauretania today after attending the second congress of the International Chamber of Commerce of Rome.

"With the revival of European industry, the expansion of world trade is clearly marked," he said. "A greater overseas commerce for merchant fleets with advancing rates promises to save ocean-carriage from threatened bankruptcy.

"Expanding employment and increasing production are enlarging the margin of savings in almost every country, in spite of the shocks of Lausanne and the Ruhr. In the face of public finance and governmental policies that must still be set aright, the basis of individual living is clearly advancing."

He added that Europe, besides increasing its savings, was embarking on many new industrial enterprises.

Open 3-Day Session Of Southern Baptist Student Conference

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 13.—The Southern Baptist Student conference opened their three-day session here today, the delegates being welcomed by Mayor A. W. Chambliss. At the morning session addresses were made by Dr. E. O. Sellers, New Orleans; the Rev. Thomas V. McCaul, Gainesville, Fla., and Dr. E. Y. Mullins, Louisville. Music was furnished by the convention quartet, composed of singers from the Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville. Among the speakers at tonight's session were Miss Elsie Sye and Miss Dorothy Ellison, Williamsburg, Ky.; Dr. B. D. Gray, Atlanta, and Fred Chappell, of the University of Kentucky.

Among those on tomorrow's program are Dr. Harry Clark, Baptist educational secretary, Nashville; Col. E. L. Dodson, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Miss Florence Turner, Shorter college, Rome, Ga.; James T. Stoner, University of Alabama; Dr. Aquilla Chamblet, Bessie college, Forsyth, Ga., and Miss Ruth Ray, Blue Mountain, Miss.

MACON CONTRACTOR GETS RAILROAD WORK

Macon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) A $100,000 contract for grade revising and double-tracking a portion of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad between Haines City and Lake Wales, Fla., was awarded to the Cornell-Young Construction company, of Macon, it was announced today. G. Paul Jones, of Macon, will be sent to Florida within the next few days to take charge of the work, which incldes the erection of a series of five concrete bridges for the railroad.

The company also was awarded a contact for a concrete bridge at Crawl Branch and the conclusion of the Santee causeway, a continuation of the Charleston-Columbia highway, the price being $75,000. The contract was let by the South Carolina state highway department.

SEVENTH CIVIC CLUB FORMED IN MACON

Macon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) Macon's seventh civic club, the Exchange club, a branch of a national organization, is now being organized here. R. L. Anderson, an attorney, is temporary president of the club. The new organization will be similar to the other civic clubs of the city, but will have a more limited membership, 25 being the maximum number.

Throughout the east and middle west the organization has many branches and Alabama has recently completed the organization of her twentieth club.

Textile Manufacturing Discussed at Cedartown

BY WALTER M. BOOZ.

Cedartown, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—One of the most successful meetings of its kind ever held here was the joint Cedartown Chamber of Commerce-Kiwanis club get-together dinner held Thursday night. These dinners, inaugurated by Secretary E. J. Trotter, are proving most beneficial and instructive. The theme last night was textile manufacturing.

Among the out-of-town guests were James A. Holloman, associate editor of The Atlanta Constitution; L. W. "Fuzzy" Woodruff, of The Atlanta Georgian; Rogers Winter, of the Atlanta Journal; George S. Harris, president of the Exposition mills, Atlanta; Professor J. C. Harris, head of the school for the deaf at Cave Springs, and Fred T. Bridges, assistant secretary of agriculture of Georgia. There were about 150 present at the dinner.

E. B. Russell, editor of the Cedartown Standard, was the genial toastmaster. The address of welcome was made by Dr. L. S. Ledbetter.

Manufacture Cheaply.

Mr. Harris, the first speaker of the occasion, made a strong address, first telling of his early experiences in his home town—Cedartown. He gave interesting statistics showing how the south is overcoming obstacles in the way of cotton manufacturing and how the south is making rapid strides in spinning, especially as compared to other parts of the country. He showed how cotton can be more cheaply manufactured in the south and that better goods are produced here. Mr. Harris spoke forcibly of the idea that the south must maintain her supremacy as a cotton producing section regardless of other factors.

"Fuzzy" Woodruff gave a talk full of jolly humor, at the same time forcible. He spoke of how Atlanta is dependent upon north Georgia for its prosperity and how the city is appreciating this fact and is thoroughly behind the agricultural interests of the state. He also referred to the need and desire for northern capital and the full acceptance of northern interests.

Mr. Winter also made a strong speech and full of humor. He also spoke of how Atlanta is dependent upon the rest of the state and how agricultural interests hold the city business man. He said we are on the threshold of greater prosperity and movements and that factions must be forgotten, in fact they were forgotten in the face of common interests. Mr. Winter warmly praised Polk county's representative in the legislature, and especially the work of the present senator-elect, W. W. Mundy. Mr. Winter showed how the intangible wealth of Georgia is escaping taxation and how drastic changes should be made. He advocated a big roads bond issue so the state would be networked with good paved roads, especially for the cotton and other agricultural interests.

Hollomon Speaks.

Mr. Hollomon made one of the finest talks ever heard here. He first referred to the peculiar distinction Cedartown had in her representative citizens, referring especially to the Harris family and the prominent parts the various members of that family have taken in national affairs. He also spoke warmly of the work of Dr. Ledbetter, especially as Senator Harris' campaign manager. He unreservedly praised Senator Mundy's work, referring notably to his work for biennial sessions.

Mr. Hollomon referred to the once deplorable conditions of his native state, North Carolina, and how she redeemed herself and revolutionized her taxing procedure, and how North Carolina now is in the forefront of progress.

He spoke of the awakening of Georgia and spoke at length on "Community Democracy"—how this must obliterate all other lines and pull for the general good and prosperity of all concerned. He showed how it was southerners who were fathers of the democratic movement and his admirable reference to Wilson brought a great ovation.

He severely attacked the present state tax system, that this must be put on an equitable and steady basis before industries will dare to come in. He spoke for tax distribution equalization, not increase, so that Georgia can raise adequate money to properly run her institutions. He said the tax system should differentiate and be classified on a horizontal scale, that the invisible wealth should pay its proportionate share, and that tangible property should not be so overburdened.

Plea for Peace.

Mr. Hollomon closed his speech with a plea for peace, for world peace that has its original beginning at the family fireside, and of the obligation on the American people to do their part toward their allies.

Mr. Bridges referred to his visits to Cedartown and also to the work of Mr. Mundy. He spoke in behalf of the farmer and the cotton co-operative association, showing the meaning and merits of this organization as a business organization to market this product and not as a price-fixing machine.

Professor Harris referred to his close relations to his old home town, Cedartown, and his appreciation of her support to him and the Harris family. He showed how the educational and business interests are dependent upon each other.

Senator Mundy gave a humorous address of welcome and briefly outlined some of the work and advocation of the legislature.

Mr. Trotter closed the meeting with a brief address of thanks. The members of the chamber of commerce showed their keen appreciation of these talks, which were repeatedly punctured by applause.

Revivals Continue To Attract Crowds During the Week

Revival services at Presbyterian churches are calling forth unusual crowds and interest is being manifested on all sides, according to reports issued late Thursday night.

Services will continue through Sunday at North Avenue church, with special students' meetings at night. Meetings have been well attended throughout the week.

The meeting closed on Wednesday evening with 15 additions to the Pryor street church. It is believed that several others will be received on Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Hickman will remain over Sunday to lead the services at Gordon street church. Fifteen professions of faith have been received since the last report and more are expected Sunday.

Good reports come from Kirkwood church. Rev. C. B. Harris, pastor. Ten additions have been received.

Meetings will continue through Sunday at the West End church. Tonight will be students' night.

Rev. H. C. DuBose, who is assisting Dr. Ben S. Lacey at Central church, will remain over Sunday. Interest in the services held this past week have been marked.

Services were begun at Barnette Memorial church on Thursday evening, with Dr. R. L. Bell, of Pryor street, assisting the pastor, Rev. J. E. Prowue.

TWO DEAD, SCORE HURT IN TORNADO

Louisiana Hit for Third Time in Few Days by Destructive Cyclone. Much Damage.

Thibodaux, La., April 13.—Two negroes were killed and a score of whites and negroes injured when a tornado swept across Bayou Lafourche, early today. Many homes in the path of the tornado which was estimated at 200 yards wide were wrecked.

A courier on horseback rode wildly into Thibodaux after daylight and told of the destruction. Sheriff Stark immediately visited the scene and reported conditions at Lafourche as extremely grave. Physicians and hundreds of citizens left here for the village carrying supplies and medicine.

It was also reported that Lockport, La., 22 miles from here, suffered from the tornado.

This was the third tornado or cyclone to strike Louisiana within the last ten days taking a heavy toll of lives and property.

THREE INJURED NEAR CULLMAN, ALA.

Cullman, Ala., April 13.—Three persons were injured, several residences and barns were blown down, and scores of live stock killed in a violent windstorm which swept the Sincoe section, 15 miles northeast of Cullman, last midnight, according to reports reaching here. All wires are paralyzed in the community and the actual result of the storm had not been determined. The injured are: Mrs. R. A. King and her baby and Miss Lola Manning, 17, daughter of John Manning, a planter, whose house was reported destroyed.

HEAVY STORMS IN ALABAMA.

Birmingham, Ala., April 13.—Violent thunderstorms accompanied by torrents of rain overspread a wide area of northern Alabama today, partially crippling wire communication and making highway travel almost impossible. Rain had fallen constantly here since last midnight. A terrific lightning storm, with blinding sheets of rain driven by a strong wind, struck this community at 8 o'clock this morning.

Chicago Packers Join the Trend To Higher Wages

Grain and Live Stock Outlook Is Highly Encouraging.

Chicago, April 13.—Falling in line with the textile, steel and farming industries, the big Chicago packing houses have joined the trend toward higher wages which has accompanied the widespread business and industrial boom, by effecting a general wage increase of 10 per cent.

This wage increase, announced Friday night, indexes the fact that the packers, sorely hit and operating with greatly curtailed production in the past two or three years, are sharing the 1923 prosperity and believe that the grain and live stock outlook for the remainder of the year, as it affects their business, is highly encouraging.

The increase is effective in all packing houses of the Armour, Swift, Wilson and Cudahy companies on April 16. Smaller concerns are expected to follow suit.

Wages of the packing house workers had remained stationary since November, 1921, when the packers effected a general 10 per cent reduction.

Aside from the significance of this announcement in its denotation of prevalent better conditions, the most interesting angle of it is the apparent success of the "plant assembly" method by which the packers deal with their employees. The plant assemblies, perhaps, may best be compared with the "company unions" now organized on many of the larger railroad systems, which sprang into popularity as the roads sought to recover from the shopmen's strike and to protect themselves from a similar disaster in the future. The assemblies, however, comprise an equal representation of the management and the workers.

1921 Wage Cut.

The 1921 wage cut in the packing industry, under this system of arbitration, was assented to by representatives of the employees, who met with the management and were convinced that a reduction was essential to the continued operation of the industry.

Denunciation of the plant assemblage system followed, principally from leaders of organized labor. The employees, it was held, were dupes—not to say "suckers." Consequently advocates of employee representation as an alternative for trade unions watched the negotiations here during the last few days with particular interest.

Now, they hold, the assemblies have been vindicated, inasmuch as wages have returned to their former level and many improvements in working conditions have been secured in the meantime.

The plan as effected by Armour & Company in August, 1921, provides that the majority of employee representatives must vote affirmatively with a majority of the management representatives before any proposition can be carried. The plan of Swift & Company, which is in force in 18 packing plants employing 24,000 persons, provides settlement of issues by a two-thirds vote of the assembly, equally composed of representatives of both sides.

Swift Gives Views.

In commenting on the increase, G. F. Swift, vice president of Swift & Company, said:

"In our negotiations with the committee from the plant assemblies we had a number of factors to bear very strongly in mind. Our responsibility for protecting the investment of 45,000 shareholders is very great. In addition to that, there are producers of live stock on one hand, anxious to obtain the highest cash price for their animals; and on the other hand, the consumers of meat, eager to buy at the lowest possible price.

"We believe that the increases given are such as will be fair to everyone. About 25,000 employees are affected at our various packing plants.

"We are gratified that we were able to negotiate directly with the committees from our plant assemblies on a matter of such great importance, and we believe it proves the value of this method of handling all matters pertaining to our employees."

Klansmen in Regalia Silently Pay Respects At Funeral of Pastor

Canon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Funeral services for Rev. H. W. Whitneil, pastor of the Universalist church, were held here Thursday at the Universalist church. Mr. Whitnell was ill only a short time before his death, which occurred Tuesday. Many glowing tributes were paid Mr. Whitnell. Among those telling of the popularity and esteem in which he was held, were Judge W. L. Hodges, of the northern district, and W. A. Bailey and C. W. Bond, of Toccoa.

After the burial ceremony, a band of white-robed figures, supposed to be members of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, assembled about the newly made grave and deposited a large floral offering and silently departed. This was the first time the white robed figures have appeared in this section to pay their respects at a funeral.

Spring Is Here Again, Let the Poets Roar

Pithy Paragraphs, The Constitution's medium for the thumb-nail literati of Georgia, which has not appeared now for a month or so, will blossom forth again next Monday morning in its accustomed place on the editorial page.

With the coming of spring, poets and wits are fairly bursting with desire for expression and so, in response to an overwhelming demand, this column for the cognoscenti is to be resumed.

Many of the old contributors, including not a few of the immortals, have written or phoned that they are anxious to get going again. So, Gentle Reader, if you are one of the select, it behooves you to take pen in hand.

CHARGED TWO MEN ASSISTED CONVICT

Witness Questioned.

Another witness examined by the jurors was M. S. McCarty, Chapman's guard at the hospital. The grand jury inquiry consumed two days.

Agents of the department of justice were told in Athens that when Silverstein and Didato arrived there they pretended to be narcotic addicts who desired to consult a specialist in that city as to treatment for the drug hapit.

Didato has served a term in the federal penitentiary here for selling narcotics in violation of the Harrison act, according to the department of justice. Silverstein is said to have a prison record in New York. Didato, it is alleged, is also known as Peter Rosen and John Karuse.

The exact manner in which Didato and Silverstein assisted Chapman in his escape was not divulged by agents assigned to the case.

Make Escape.

Chapman and Frank Gray escaped from the Atlanta federal prison shortly before daybreak on March 27. They were inmates of the prison hospital, in an upper story. About 4 o'clock in the morning they bound and gagged John E. Scott, prisoner-nurse who was asleep in an adjoining room. Making two ladders by tyingsheets together the prisoners reached the ground, short-circuited the electric wires to throw the building into darkness for several minutes, and scaled the high concrete walls surrounding the prison yards by means of a ladder supposed to have been provided by confederates on the outside.

After changing from their prison garb to white sweaters and dark trousers provided by their confederates, Chapman and Gray went to the home of W. H. Edwards, in Lakewood Heights, a suburb near the penitentiary. There they tried to bribe Edwards, he told the police, by offering him $1,000 to hide them in his home. Upon his refusal to comply, he was threatened with death if he made an outcry. Mrs. Edwards, overhearing the conversation, went to the assistance of her husband, and she, too, was threatened with death.

The prisoners then took Edwards with them, boarded a street car into Atlanta, covering their trail so well that the police were unable to trace them, although Edwards, who was permitted to leave the car before reaching the city, hurried to the police with the story of his experiences.

Chapman Is Wounded.

The next the authorities saw of Chapman was when he and Gray were recognized by Athens officers. Chapman was severely wounded in a pistol fight when an attempt was made to arrest him.

Chapman is 35 years old, and is believed by the authorities to have a large portion of unrecovered loot hidden away somewhere.

Gray, Chapman's companion in the escape, was recaptured in the Athens fight and returned to the Atlanta prison.

Several days ago hospital attaches reported the alleged discovery of Chapman, in an exhausted condition, in the hospital basement and his alleged third getaway. Federal agents place little credence in the story, according to Mr. Baley. Two nurses and a guard in the hospital who related the story, insisted that the person found hiding in the basement who later got away was the fugitive, agents said, but the story was not regarded as plausible, they said.

BRUNSWICK GREEK LEADER IS KILLED; SLAYER IS JAILED

Brunswick, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Mike Couvelas, Brunswick's wealthiest Greek and considered at the head of the large Greek colony of this city, was shot and almost instantly killed shortly after 9 o'clock tonight by S. D. Levadis, another well-known Greek, after a duel on a principal residential street, during which about ten shots were exchanged.

The shooting occurred near the side entrance to the home of Mrs. Peter DeVaris, a sister of Levadis. The dead Greek, it seems, had driven to the home, was stepping from his automobile, when Levadis stepped from behind the car and after an exchange of a few words, duel started and continued until Couvelas fell in the street with three bullets in his breast.

Lavadas at once surrendered and when newspaper men visited him in the county jail a few minutes after he was locked up, his first question was, "Is he dead?" and when informed that he was, he added, "I am glad, he wrecked our home, I begged him to stop going with my sister. He drove my younger brother crazy and caused him to commit suicide by his attentions to our sister, and I have pleaded with him to leave her alone. I am glad I killed him."

Inaugurate Campaign To Raise $1,000,000 For Jefferson Fund

Charlottesville, Va., April 13.—A nation-wide movement to raise one million dollars for the purchase and preservation of Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, was started here today, the 180th anniversary of the birth of the author of the declaration of independence. Preceding a pilgrimage to Monticello in the afternoon, founder's day exercises were held at the University of Virginia, which Jefferson founded and served.

Scores of persons from throughout the east and south, including large delegations from New York, Washington and Richmond, attended these exercises, at which Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, paid tribute to Jefferson not only as a statesman but as one who was a leader in education. Dr. Burton declared that "Jefferson was more than the father of the University of Virginia, for his ideals were the inspiration upon which the University of Michigan had been founded."

LIGHTNING SHATTERS WINDOW IN CHURCH

Power for Evil Out of the Devil's Control."

It was stated that the window would be temporarily replaced by the time for the meeting. Although the services are scheduled from noon to 1 o'clock, the rule of the revival is that anyone may "come when he can and leave when he must."

The evengelist was a banker before he began church work. He has never been ordained for the ministry but has conducted evangelistic campaigns in many parts of the United States and Europe. He is author of a number of religious books. He came to Atlanta to open services here last week from Chicago where he conducted a five weeks' series of meetings during Lent.

Heavy Rainfall.

One of the heaviest rainfalls, accompanied by a strong gale, that has visited Atlanta this year fell Friday afternoon from 12 to 3 o'clock. Official weather bureau reports stated that the rainfall in this time measured .48 of an inch.

A giant tree, measuring 4 feet in diameter, was uprooted by the storm at DeKalb avenue and Candler road.

C. F. von Herrmann, local weather forecaster, stated Friday that the weather would clear up about noon Saturday and be considerably warmer in the afternoon. Light showers will rule during the morning however. Temperatures in the south are somewhat higher the weather bureau reports, and all danger of frosts in Georgia has disappeared for the season. The report adds that rain appeared Friday at nearly every station in the cotton belt.

Damage in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) Three stores, Edwards' Smoke House, a fruit stand and the Broadway Pressing Club were damaged in the wind which struck Augusta Friday afternoon at about 3 o'clock. The wind caught in behind a false front and blew it to the sidewalk, causing considerable excitement but injuring no one. Several people were in the store at the time and for a moment it was feared that someone was seriously injured, but after the debris was somewhat removed it was found that no one was injured.

Several trees were blown down in various parts of the city, demoralizing street railway service for a time.

A number of trees on the hill were uprooted and one fell across Reynolds street near the police barracks.

A couple of small automobiles were unroofed when the wind caught in the top of them and blew the tops completely off. One car was blown up on the sidewalk on Broad street.

The hail also was severe, breaking a few windows over town. No serious damage was done, however. The wind was so sudden and lasted such a short time that the weather bureau had no record of it, passing almost instantaneously.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS HOLD MEETING

At a meeting of the elementary council of the North Georgia Methodist Sunday schools held at Wesley Memorial church Friday morning, Miss E. Kennedy, of Nashville, Tenn., superintendent of the general Sunday school board of the Southern Methodist church, spoke on the vital part that the elementary department of the Sunday school was playing to bring the Sunday school to the front in attendance as well as the teaching of the Bible.

A general meeting of the elementary Sunday school teachers was held Friday evening at Wesley Memorial church and various teachers were called on to make addresses, each stressing the point that during the period that a child is in the elementary department is the time when the real preparation for a higher and more thorough study of the Bible should begin.

McCord's Bulletin

The average yield of corn in Georgia is less than in Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In 1920 it was 15 in Georgia, 23 in Arkansas, 30 in Kentucky, 23 in North Carolina, 28 in Tennessee, 26 in Texas and 30 in Virginia.

Why is this? There is nothing in the soil and climate of Georgia to make it so. Ben Leath, a corn club boy, raised over 200 bushels of corn on one acre in Walker county more than ten years ago and scores of corn club boys have produced over 100 bushels per acre.

There is no State in the South where farmers have a better chance to learn progressive methods. The Georgia State College of Agriculture is second to none in this section. The Federal farm extension work in this State is equal to the best, and the Georgia department of agriculture will compare favorably with others.

Why is it, then, that the average production of corn in this State is so far below the average?

The people of Georgia have long cherished the idea that this is the leading Southern State. That idea was justified in the past, but what is the condition now, and WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

The World Aghast As Red Russia Mocks Christendom

IN MOSCOW, at 4 o'clock in the morning of March 31, Monsignor Butchkavitch, Vicar-General of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, after a night of brutal tauntings and torturne, was led down into the cellar beneath the Cheka building and shot to death. This execution followed a trial of fifteen Catholic priests which included, besides the Vicar-General, Archbishop Zepliack, on the charge, according to dispatches, of "opposing the Soviet Government." The Archbishop was also sentenced to death but as a concession, it is said, to the religious sentiments of the Russian peasants, his sentence was commuted by the Central Executive Committee to ten years' imprisonment.

Protests and pleas for clemency from Protestant, Catholic and Jewish organizations in all parts of the world, from the Pope and from the governments of Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Spain, Poland, and Czecho-Slovakia, had no effect in staying the death sentence.

"The formal protest of America, the nation that fed some millions of Russians starving a few months ago, stirred Moscow to a peculiar rage," says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "It was the strange frenzy of the arrogant, ungrateful beggar whose belly has been filled and whose sores have been washed. In the eyes of millions of people over the world, Red Russia has stamped herself as the anti-Christ with the mark of the beast set on her brow."

This latest action of the Soviet government has aroused the indignation of the entire Christian world and may have far-reaching consequences. Read THE LITERARY DIGEST, this week, April 14th, for the expressions of public opinion in America and the view-point of the Russian government toward the attitude of the world at large.

DINNER TOURNAMENT OPENS DRUID HILLS SEASON

Bradshaw and Rainwater Captains of Golf Teams That Will Compete Today

The First Match Gets Under Way at 12:45 O'Clock and Dinner Will Be Served At Club From 6 to 8 O'Clock.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

The annual "Dinner Tournament" this afternoon will officially open the summer season at the Druid Hills Golf club.

This event, a red letter day in the lives of members of this club, will get under way at 12:45 o'clock and the golfing will be followed by the "spread," which is scheduled to start at 6 o'clock and end promptly at 8 o'clock.

Team captains were selected some days ago and sides were chosen at a meeting yesterday morning. "Terrible Tess" Bradshaw will pilot one section and Veazy Rainwater was named to take the other division through to glory or the grave. Fifty-four golfers have announced that they will compete, which will make up the biggest field that has ever gone out for the tournament.

Last year it was believed that something pretty close to the high water mark was established when 50 contestants participated, but this record has already been bettered and many more will be added today, the committee in charge asking that it be distinctly understood that others who could not be reached Friday will be welcomed at the first tee this afternoon and will be assigned to one of the teams.

Scoring will be on the Nassau system, with the team scoring the larger number of points enjoying the feast at the expense of the losers. Under the scoring system prescribed for the event, each twosome will have a chance to add as many as three points to its team's total and by the same rule the opportunity will be afforded to drop just as many, or it is entirely possible that a tie will result. This was the case last year, when the final foursome reporting carried success for one team and failure for the other.

System of Scoring.

Dr. Claude Hughes, to whom much of the credit for the success of the tournament must be accorded, outlined the system of scoring as follows: One point will be contested for on each side of the 18-hole course. In other words, the twosome winning the greater number of holes on the first side will annex one point. On the second side the victor's reward will be another point and the third point will go to the twosome winning the 18-hole match.

It's a "joke contest," Dr. Hughes declared, and nothing serious will be tolerated. Everybody is going to be called upon to tell a joke at dinner and capital punishment will probably be the penalty demanded of the jokesmith who resurrects an old one.

The rule is to be waived when Dr. Thomas P. Hinman, club president—who will preside—will be requested to tell of the big things the club has accomplished during the past year.

Bradshaw's Team—Tom Prescott, Abe Adair, Tess Bradshaw, Dana Belser, G. A. Howell, C. J. Holditch, Robert H. Martin, L. T. Stallings, W. A. Fuller, Joe Burton, George W. Brine, James T. Williams, E. MILWAUKEE SIGNS YOUNG ALABAMA PLAYER

Troy, Ala., April 13.—(Special.)—Roy Walker, known to baseball fans as "Goat," has been signed by the manager of the Milwaukee Brewers and is to report for training in the spring of 1924.

Roy has been starring on the Troy High school team for some time and this year is a member of the State Normal baseball team.

He has already pitched two no-hit games for the Normal this season, one at Florala and one at Auburn, against the Freshies.

Last season Coach Clay, of Georgia Tech, who was manager of the Troy ball club, had Walker with him part of the season and used him as pitcher and in other places.

He has also played with Ozark. His friends believe that he has a future before him in the big leagues. He is a son of Tax Collector and Mrs. J. T. Walker, of Troy.

Morris Brown Plays.

After a successful tour of South Carolina, the Morris Brown baseball team has returned to Atlanta to engage in a game with the fast South Carolina State college team today at 2:30 p. m. The South Carolina team is reported to have defeated the strong Atlanta university nine decisively on Thursday of this week. Come out and watch them against Morris Brown.

Has Good Team.

Troy, Ala., April 13.—Manager Harry Clarke of the Milwaukee American association team before leaving the training camp here said that his club would be around first position all season and from the showing against the major leaguers in exhibition games they should win the pennant. He said that his players were in better condition than ever before at this time of the year.

BARONS FREE YOUNGSTER

Birmingham, Ala., April 13.—(Special.)—Uneasy is the head that wears the baseball cap these days. With the opening of the 1923 Southern league season less than a week off now Joe Dunn, czar of Baronial baseball world, is faced with the task of trimming his squad down to something like fighting shape, and releases are to be expected between now and the first of next week.

One rookie has been released already this week. John Singleton, who reported to Joe Dunn early in the spring as a pitcher, but who later played in the outfield for the Yannigans, has been turned over to the Clarksdale club of the Cotton States league.

Singleton left for Clarksdale this morning and will report to Baxter Sparks, pilot of the Mississippi outfit, at once.

Singleton, while a rather promising young pitcher, showed such strength with the willow that he was shifted to the outfield, so that the Yannigans could profit by his hitting.

Probable Squad.

Dunn will probably not start the season with more than 16 men. That means that there are several more men to find berths for before the season opens next Thursday.

Although Manager Dunn has given no indication of whom he will release and whom he will retain, it seems probable that these will be the men he will start the season with:

Pitchers—Phil Morrison, Earl Whitehill, Red Bates, Walter Stewart, Plateau Cox, and Tom Daniels or Bill Gray.

Catchers—Claude Robertson and Cecil Hammond.

Infielders—Flip Neun, Danny Clark, Tom Walsh, Tom Taylor and Bill Meekin.

Outfielders—Sump Clarke, Arthur Trefry and Jake Miller.

Henry Layne and Tom Abbott, outfielder and catcher, respectively, may be retained a couple of weeks for further try-outs, but as Manager Dunn has given out nothing definite on the subject, that is merely a matter for speculation.

FERNS BOUT CALLED DRAW

Tampa, Fla., April 13.—(Special.) Fearless Ferns, of Atlanta, Ga., and Young Wallace, of New Orleans, fought ten fast and furious rounds to a draw here tonight, Ferns was by far the best at in-fighting, keeping Wallace's head knocked back with right upper-cuts and using both hands with a telling effect in Wallace's midsection.

Wallace's most dangerous weapon was his right which landed several times but did no real damage to the Georgia boy. Many of the fans thought Ferns was entitled to the decision but the draw decision was given a big ovation as it was by far the best fight ever seen in Tampa.

SHORTEN, OUTFIELDER PURCHASED BY VOLS

Nashville, Tenn., April 13.—Outfielder Chick Shorten, formerly with the Detroit club and now owned by the Cincinnati National league team, has been bought by the Nashville club of the Southern league, it was announced today. Shorten is now at his home in Scranton, Pa.

"Don't Want Any Sass," States Centenarian When Police Arrive

Chicago, April 13.—Police had to promise Joseph Dennesek, 100 years old, that they would not scold him for being up so late before he would consent to return home early Thursday.

Called to answer a burglar alarm, the police found the centenarian huddled up in a corner of a porch, wondering what all the commotion was about. When police started to question him, Dennesek said:

"I'm 100 years old and don't want any sass from you young fellers. 'Tis a pity a citizen can't go out for a walk without having constables spoil his evening."

Auburn and Tech Fresh Teams Battle to Tie

Stewart, Auburn Pitcher, Sends Twenty Men Back to Bench by Strike-Out Route.

Auburn, Ala., April 13.—(Special.) Ralph Stewart hurled his way to fame here this afternoon when the Auburn freshmen tied the Georgia Tech rat baseball team in a 3 to 0 score in a pretty ten-inning affair. During the afternoon the Talladega moundsman sent 20 men back to their benches by the strikeout route and only gave up two safeties to the visitors. Stewart again showed his ability when he stepped up to the plate in the fourth frame and slammed out the only two-base hit of the game.

The Tiger freshmen started the counting in the first when C. Stewart took a base on balls, Ansley singled and Bellinger, the Tech freshmen's pitcher, turned loose a low one that allowed C. Stewart to count.

The Jacket freshies went five innings before their first score came. Wycoff struck out, but was safe on a passed ball by Catcher Williams, of Auburn. Wycoff then stole second and scored on King's hit. King then scored on errors.

In the third Ansley went safe on Reeves' error and Phillips hit a home run to deep left center. Though not clothed in varsity uniforms the two freshmen aggregations showed real ability in the diamond game.

Wycoff played in the outfield and played a good game for the Georgians. He pulled down five long flys, three of which were spectacular catches.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Auburn	102 000 000 0—3		4	5
Ga. Tech	000 020 010 0—3		2	5

Batteries—Stewart and Williams; Conn and Markle.

Summary—Two-base hit, R. Stewart; home run, Phillips; struck out, by Conn 3, by Stewart 20; base on balls, off Conn 2, off Stewart 3.

Vanderbilt Stages Rally And Wins From Mercer

Commodores Rap Tige Stone for Seventeen Bingles During His Stay on the Ground.

Nashville, Tenn., April 13.—(Special.)—After handing Mercer the ball game on a silver platter the Commodores turned around in the eighth and took the game back, after pounding the eminently great Tige Stone for 17 stinging base hits in a 9 to 8 win. The Commodores fielded raggedly behind Richardson and donated the Mercer team the greater portion of their runs in the early stages of the game. "Boots" gave up eight hits, scattered out in six frames, and justly gained a decisive pitching duel over Stone

Brown's homer in the eighth after McCollough had driven over two runs to tie, was the factor that decided the game, despite the great hitting of the Commodores.

The Mercer team plays the brand of ball that wins often over better teams They took advantage of every bobble of the Vandy team, while the latter was playing more or less slouchy baseball. Stone pitched himself out of innumerable holes until the team bobbled twice behind him in the eighth that put five runs across for the Vandy team.

With the exception of these first two frames, Richardson allowed the Mercerites to collect no more than one hit in any one session. Gil Reece was the outstanding star of the game due to his two brilliant catches in center field. Twice he raced far back and with his face toward the bleachers pulled extra-base tags off hard-hit balls. He slipped as he attempted to spear the third great catch off Stone and dropped the ball for a two-base smack for Tige. He fell in catching Reese's hard-hit drive in the ninth but clutched the ball as he completed the somersault. The fall injured his ankle and Bob Lee Thomas replaced him for the final out.

Mercer filled the bases in their half of the ninth for a dangerous threat to again win the ball game. With two men down, Smith hit to right field. Bob Taylor mussed an easy chance and the bases were filled. Josh Cody sent in a pinch hitter for Ellison and Slim Embry went in to pitch the final out for the Commodores. Sheppard hit to Doc Kuhn, who fumbled the ball and permitted Hammock to cross the plate. Feinted a throw to first and caugt Smith napping off third base for the final out.

Every man on the Vandy team collected at least one base hit except Bob Taylor. Gil Reece poled out three hits, including a double. McCullough collected three pinch singles and Brown poled out two singles and a homer. The field was a sea of mud and traveling was extremely difficult. The mud-covered ball caused Doc Kuhn to heave wild in the first frame and pave the way for four Mercer runs on two hits, one a homer by Smith. Stone's double in the second inning and Hammock's single scored the only Mercer run that Vandy errors did not figure in prominently.

PETREL GAME RAINED OUT

Lexington, Ky., April 13.—(Special.)—The game between the baseball teams of Oglethorpe university, of Atlanta, and the University of Kentucky, scheduled to be held here this afternoon was called off because of wet grounds. A heavy rain that fell all during the morning and up until shortly after noon made it impossible for the contest to be played.

The Petrels won the opening game of the series here Thursday afternoon and the Kentucky team was anxious for another chance at the Georgians.

AMATEURS TO PLAY TODAY

BY M. D. GLEASON.

Many games will be played by the amateurs and semi-pro teams around Atlanta today if the weather permits and many grounds are dry enough to permit play.

Some of the games scheduled are the National Carbon company vs. the Capitol View Presbyterians, at Adair park; Knights of Columbus vs. Pittsburg Plate Glass, at Steel hoop plant grounds; Fortified Hills vs. Capital View Baptist at Fortified Hills; Western Heights vs. Kirkwood, at Maddox park; Southern Bell (juniors), vs. Yellow Jackets (Tech students), at Fulton Bag and Cotton Mill grounds; Capital City basket team vs. the R. A. club of Grant Park at Grant Park; National Guards vs. the A. A. C. team of West End, at Davis street grounds; Watts Ramblers, an independent team, vs. Hood Brick team, of Perrin league, at Exposition Mills grounds; Center Hill vs. Piedmont Mill team at Piedmont Mill grounds; Procter & Gamble team vs. Winchester-Simmons team on the latters' grounds; Junior class and Freshman class of the Atlanta Dental college at Piedmont Park; Atlanta Ramblers play the strong Milstead team in Milstead today; Exposition Mills play the World's Fair at Almand Park at 1:45 o'clock. The Georgia Railway and Power company's team plays the NuGrape team at Almand Park in the second game at 3:15 o'clock.

The Georgia and Atlanta and West Point team will play the Federal prison team at the Federal prison, this game must begin in time to be over by 4 o'clock.

BENEDICTINE COLLEGE TO MEET AGGIE NINE

Savannah, Ga., April 13.—The Benedictine college baseball team will meet the First District A. and M. team Saturday and expect the hardest game with the Statesboro crew they have had. Benedictine college has not lost a game this season, defeating Fort Screven, 14 to 6; the Savannah High school, 12 to 1, and Porter Military Academy, 4 to 3.

GAMBLERS' HUNCH ON THIRTEENTH FIZZLES

Bowie, Md., April 13.—This was the day of the slaughter of the innocents.

On the strength of a hunch, the bettors at the Bowie track bet heavily on Friday the Thirteenth, hammering the odds down to the brief price of 2 to 1 although the horse never had won a race and gave no indication that he ever would. But this was Friday, the thirteenth of April and all recalled that a horse named Black Friday won on Friday the thirteenth last year.

It was terrible! Friday the Thirteenth was never in the money and finished going backward.

Richards Is Winner.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 13.—Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., defeated G. Carlton Shafer, of Philadelphia 6-0, 6-4, and S. Howard Voshell, of Brooklyn, defeated Philip Hawk, of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3, in the semifinals in the north and south tennis tournament today.

EDDIE ROUSH MAY SIGN UP

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 13.—Ho has not been abandoned in baseba circles here that Eddie Roush, hol out outfielder of the Cincinnati Na tionals, will be signed up.

The directors at another meeting today refused to recede from their original offer to Roush of $15,000 a year minus a $50 fine imposed for every day he remained away from the training camp. Many friends have urged the directors to remit this fine.

It was reported that another proposition was made to Roush, but neither party would confirm it. There was a persistent rumor however that Roush would sign a contract tomorrow at which was called the "club's terms." No elucidation of this was obtained

Play Double Bill.

CRACKERS TO PLAY FINAL EXHIBITION GAME SUNDAY

Yesterday's Poncey Work Postponed on Account Of Inclement Weather

BY HENRY ALLEN.

Although rain broke up the workout of the Crackers planned for yesterday afternoon, Manager Miller has ordered his proteges to report at the park twice today. Whether workouts will be held was not announced, but at any rate, the fans will not be able to gain entrance as President Corbett has ruled that Atlanta baseball enthusiasts will not be permitted to witness the Crackers in action before the opening day next Thursday.

The squad will embark again tonight for Montgomery, where they will play the final exhibition game of the season with the Alabama Power company's team Sunday afternoon. They will leave from Montgomery Sunday night for Nashville for the opening game of the season Tuesday afternoon. They will workout Monday afternoon in Nashville.

The Crackers returned yesterday morning none the worse for the bad weather encountered while on the road trip of exhibition games through North and South Carolina. Sore arms that have been nursed by Manly Lleyellyn, right hand flinger, and "Snooks" Dowd, second baseman, are coming around nicely and it is hoped that both will be in great shape by the time the season gets under way.

George Dumont, another twirler who was forced to miss several practices while in the Florida training camp at Palatka and also on the road trip, has been in uniform for the past several days and worked in batting practice before the game in Anderson Thursday.

Dumont is booked to do a lot of pitching for the Crackers this season and is the curve ball artist of the squad. George is in excellent shape with the exception of his foot and barring further injuries should come around before the gong is sounded.

Great Team Outlook.

From all indications the Crackers will have a great team this season. President Corbett has brought together a crew of the fastest base runners the Cracker customers have seen on the paths in several years and there is not a "slouch" in the entire outfit when it comes to socking the ball to all parts of the lot.

The batting average for the team while on the road proves this statement—.348 was the figure for the nine games, and against every sort of twirling. Teams encountered while on the trip were the fast semi-pro clubs of St. Augustine, Fla., Valdosta and Waycross, the Columbia, Charlotte, Spartanburg and Greenville clubs in the Sally league and the last affair brought the Crackers against the strong Buffalo Internationals at Anderson, S. C.

Babe Herman, the lanky first sacker, is head and shoulders above his teammates in the hitting on the road trip. His average totals .409. Herman led the Western league last season when he was with the Omaha team with an average of .416. The only game on the trip in which Herman failed to crash out a safety was in the Greenville game in the South Atlantic league.

Johnny Ring, the midget of the squad and the sensation of the work at Palatka, came second when he hit .375 for the trip. The remainder of the squad came trailing close behind with Killinger, Guyon, Langford, Moore and Burke hitting above the .300 mark. "Snooks" Dowd and Chester Schmidt were the only Crackers to hit below the .200 mark but neither participated in many of the games. Manager Miller and Johnny Brock were above the .400 mark but played in very few games.

The team is practically set for the opening of the season. The pitching staff will probably lineup with Bennie Karr, Oscar Tuero, George Dumont, King Brady and Manly Lewellyn composing the rightbanders, while Cliff Best, Dick Neihaus and Fred Newberry will be the southpaws to be carried the first month. The staff will be reduced to six after May 17 and the showing made during that time will determine those that will stick.

Catching Staff.

The catching staff will be in the hands of Manager Miller and Johnny Brock as a second string receiver. Chester Schmidt who is also with the team at the present time will be farmed out to some other club before the season opens.

The outfield is complete with Elton Langford in the right garden, Mike Burke in center field and Joe Guyon chasing flies in the left field position. This is a trio that can be depended upon to hit and field correctly. On the infield Babe Herman is gaining the admiration of those that have seen him in action on the initial sack. His hitting has been one of the sensations of the spring training, while the big lanky youth is able to cover a lot of territory when it comes to cavorting around the bag.

There is some doubt as to whether "Snooks" Dowd, who was signed for the second base position, will be able to participate in the opening game against Nashville. Dowd has been suffering from a crossed ligament in his arm, but careful attention has been given the injured member and Dowd may be the lead-off man for the Crackers on opening day.

Although Dowd's batting average while on the training trip failed to reach the .300 mark, those who have seen him in action before believe that when he gets his batting eye primed he will rank with the rest of his teammates when the season averages are compiled.

Glenn Killinger, of all-American football fame, is in great shape to open the season at third base. Killinger's fielding has been perfect while he has come in for his share of the hits. Killinger is working hard this year and has stated the he intends to quit professional ball forever this year if he fails to make good.

At the shortfield, Eddie Moore, of the last year's squad has been playing a lot of baseball around his position. Moore was slow in getting started, but lately has proved that he knows how to play the national pastime.

Johnny Ring will be with the squad as a utility infielder and those who have seen him in action predict that the youngster will be a regular fixture on the infield before the season has ended. Ring can hit and is very fast.

YACHT RACE TO BERMUDA IS PLANNED

Hamilton, Bermuda, April 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Preparations are under way for the ocean yacht race from the United States to Bermuda on June 12, next. The American yacht Bagheera, which is among the entries, has arrived here on a preliminary cruise over the course and to see that all necessary prearations are made.

The start will be from New London, Conn., and with fair weather it is estimated the run will be made within four days. Twenty-one entries have been received, entrants including big schooners 70 feet over all, sloop yachts and ocean-going yawls. The small craft will receive a time-allowance. It is expected to be an unusual test of endurance for the small sailing craft over a stretch of nearly a thousand miles and across the gulf stream.

Giants Rained Out.

Game Postponed.

Richmond, Va., April 13.—The exhibition baseball game scheduled here today between the Washington American league club and the Boston National league club, was called off on account of rain.

INJURIES MIGHT RUIN SCOTT'S RECORD

Springfield, Mo., April 13.—Everett Scott, star shortstop for the New York Yankees, seems doomed to fail in his ambition to play 1,000 straight games of baseball, according to physicians who dressed the player's ankle last night after he had been injured in an exhibition game here.

Scott injured two ligaments in his left ankle while running to second base in the second game of an exhibition series with Brooklyn here yesterday afternoon.

Scott left with the Yankees last night when they entrained for home. His foot was bandaged and he was compelled to use crutches. It is probable he can not discard these aids for several days and in the meantime the season will open.

To date Scott has participated in 986 consecutive, regularly scheduled major league games and has 14 more to go to reach the 1,000 mark.

COMMISSION FAILS TO AGREE ON BOUT

New York, April 13.—The New York and New Jersey boxing commission this afternoon failed to reach an agreement in the controversy over the Floyd Johnson-Fred Fulton heavyweight match, scheduled in Jersey City next Monday night. William Muldoon, chairman of the New York body, at a conference, insisted that the bout be postponed until after Johnson's contest with Jess Willard at the Yankee stadium on May 12, and it was announced that Newton A. K. Bugbee, New Jersey commissioner, had taken the suggestion under consideration.

GOLF TEAM MAKING PLANS TO LEAVE

Chicago, April 13.—The American golf team which will defend the Walker international trophy in England is wending its way eastward. Captain Robert A. Gardner, of Onwentsia, will leave for New York Sunday; Chick Evans will follow a day or two later. S. Davidson Herrion, another Chicago member, who is practicing in Pittsburg, will also soon join the team in New York. Fred Wright, Jr., of Los Angeles, and Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Ore., have already passed through here en route to New York.

Greb Meets Wilson.

New York, April 13.—Harry Greb, Pittsburg middleweight, has agreed to meet Johnny Wilson, world's champion, in a title bout to be staged this summer, Promoter Tex Rickard announced last night. Wilson, who has been under suspension by the state boxing commission for his failure to meet Greb after he had signed for a contest, has consented to the match. The suspension, it was said, would be lifted if the champion carries through the agreement.

TECH BOXERS AFTER MATCH

The Tech boxing team, inspired by the victory over Oglethorpe a few weeks ago, had decided to go forth in quest of new laurels. This time Tech and Mercer will tie up. Such was the advice given out by Major Pendleton yesterday.

While nothing definite has been decided, Major Pendleton said that a match was practically assured. The date has not been set as yet, but will be staged at Seglado's some time before summer.

The Mercer boxing team is coached by Seth Weekly, who is prominently connected with the training quarters of Stribling. He has had much experience along pugilistic lines, and should turn out a topnotch team.

If Tige Stone can steal away from the basebal lteam, he will be one of Mercer's entries. Tige, outside of being an all-southern pitcher, is one of the cleverest boxers that ever stepped about.

The whole idea involved is to build up boxing to the plane of a recognized minor sport. As yet it has not been recognized as such in the south. But, thinks Major Pendleton, the time is ripe for such a step. So he had been backing the boxing team to the gills.

Coach Elsom, of the Tech team, reports that all his men are in fine fettle and would make a commendable showing against any crew of leather pushers in the whole country.

WERNER IS INELIGIBLE

The Tech baseball team was set back another notch yesterday when the faculty ruled Werner, regular right fielder, off the team. The faculty decision concerning this case came as a complete surprise, for nothing had been said concerning Werner's eligibility prior to the faculty ruling.

Werner is a rehabilitation student, but is taking regular academic work. He carries the regular 28 hours per week Textile schedule, and is a good student.

He was allowed to play freshman baseball, and nothing was said. He played in the field for the freshmen last year, and learned lots of the baseball that he knows now from that year's training. Nothing was said this year, though Werner played in the Penn State, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth and Maryland series.

Losing Werner will be a big blow to Tech, for he was the man destined by Coach Clay to fill the gap in right field. His hitting so far this year has been good, especially in the pinches. He had laid on to the willow for a percentage around three hundred. And, his eye was improving each game.

Werner is the second man that has been lost to the Tech team since the beginning of the training season. Irwin, understudy to Tobe Edwards was the first man ruled ineligible by the faculty.

MURPHY WINS BY KNOCKOUT

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 13.—(Special.)—Mike Murphy of Macon knocked out Eddie Briney of St. Louis in the sixth round of their fight in the Banyan street arena.

The crowd got the kind of a fight it howls for and was plainly delighted and let Murphy know he was ace high with it. For three rounds the men fought rather evenly, both feeling the other out.

Eddie's nose was bloody at the end of the fourth round and in the fifth both had a chance to feel the floor although they were both going when the gong sounded. It didn't take Murphy long after the sixth started to administer a clean knockout to Briney with a smash to the law. Murphy weighed 140 pounds and Briney 142.

Neither Jackie Sander of Elizabeth nor Cyclone Villa had much the best of the ten rounds they boxed for while Sanders had had more experience, Villa had a collection of punching blows and his stock wasn't a bit lower after the fight.

Four good snappy rounds gave Bobbie Lee and Mike Dominick of Miami their chance to show how fast they could keep it up. Neither was much ahead when they finished.

SPORTSMANSHIP BIG THING IN CONFERENCE

Chicago, April 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sportsmanship and courtesy will be the important factors in western conference baseball this season.

Calling a pitcher a "big tramp," "bum" and similar names in an attempt to rattle him will be regarded as unsportsman-like and will not be tolerated either from the players or spectators, according to a code of sportsmanship for college baseball announced Major Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the conference.

Under the title of "courtesy to opponents" the code says: "It is necessary to establish a position of courtesy to the visiting team which will forbid any effort by spectators organized or individually to rattle the pitcher or any other member of the visiting team. Home crowds should cheer to encourage their players, not to disconcert their rivals.

No freak delivery such as the spitball or shine ball will be permitted. Due to unfavorable weather conditions the clubs are behind in their training and reports indicate that the teams which invaded the south for practice games will start the season with a distinct advantage.

ZBYSZKO, WRESTLER, INJURED IN BOUT

Kansas City, April 13.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, former world's champion heavyweight wrestler, who was taken to a local hospital last night after his match with John Pesek, was dismissed today. Hospital authorities said his injuries were not serious.

Pesek threw Zbyszko in two straight falls and, following the match, it was believed that the Pole had suffered a slight concussion of the brain. The wrestlers fell through the ropes five times.

Frank Henry Signs.

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—Pitcher Frank Henry, local American league holdout, signed a contract with the Browns today. He was with Mobile last season and won twenty of twency-four games he pitched. The terms of his contract were not made public.

Atlanta Players Failed With Mack

BY HENRY VANCE

Few Crackers of 1919 Holding On

Birmingham, Ala. April 13.—(Special.)—Who among the rabid of the species does not remember Ivy Griffin, referred to in pellet parlance as "Poison Ivy." This Alabama boy, reared in Polk county, Alabama, is the self-same gent who pastimed with the Atlanta Crackers during the hectic summer of 1919, when they grabbed the pennant under the leadership of the late Charlie Frank and incidentally sold out their team almost lock, stock and barrel to the Philadelphia Athletics near the close of the campaign.

Poison Ivy was among the assortment of ball players sold to Connie Mack, and at that time it was thought that he had about the best chance of sticking in fast company of any of 'em. Fate was against him, however, and after a couple of years of experimenting Connie shunted him down the ladder of classification, and he accepted a berth with the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association. He will be here with the Brewers when they pastime against the Barons Saturday at Rickwood.

It is rather a coincidence, too, that the man who gave Griffin the stiffest competition for a berth at first base with the Athletics, and who alternated with him at times in that position, has also been here this spring. That man was Burrus and he was with Moley's Columbus team of the same league when they came through here recently. Each made a stab at the same big league job, each was weighed in the balance and found wanting and each found a job in the American Association when it was found they were not quite up to stuff for a big league berth.

Was Fence-Buster

Griffin, in the old days of the Southern Loop, was known as a fence-buster and a graceful fielder. He went along to the Athletics with Chick Galloway, Jimmy Dykes, Lena Styles, Red Wingo, Daniel Boone, Ray Roberts and Bob Hasty. Oddly enough the very ones who were predicted to return to slower company stuck, and the stars found their way back into this league in short order. Hasty, a big awkward country boy, knew little of the pitching art. It was his first season in professional company. As a matter of fact, Frank thought he needed further seasoning the year he won the pennant and he let Mobile have him. When he was sold to the Mackmen court litigation over the ownership sprang up, and so far as we know the case is still in the courts. Incidentally Hasty is still in the big show with the Mackmen. So are Galloway and Dykes. The rest finished their pilgrimage east and received jobs elsewhere.

Wingo is in the International league with the Toronto outfit. Roberts could never hit his stride even after he came back in the Southern. Lena Styles, after a couple of seasons of bench-warming in Philadelphia, was sent over to Jack Dunn at Baltimore. Dan Boone came back south, was traded by Atlanta to Chattanooga and went from the Lookouts to a berth with the Cleveland Indians in midsummer of last year.

Griffin is a tall, rangy fellow, and is still of a young baseball age. He was just a young college fellow experiencing his first year in the professional ranks the year that the Athletics bought him. It is figured by his friends that his job in the association is only a temporary matter. He is expected to land a permament berth and shine before his baseball days are over.

VIRGINIA HAS FINE RECORD

University, Va., April 13.—(Special.)—In the nine opening games of the season the University of Virginia ball team has scored 75 runs, or only one less than was scored during the entire spring of 1922. The tenth game will be played against Richmond university today.

So far the season has been exactly a tie. Virginia has won four games, lost the same number, and has tied one. A total of 150 runs, an average of over 16 a contest, have been scored by the opposing nines, and have been divided equally, 75 for the Orange and Blue, and 75 for the visitors.

Virginia has averaged 10 runs a game in the last five contests. Ten runs or more have been scored in each victory, the total of 26 in the 14 to 12 victory over Washington and Lee being the largest score of the season. Other Virginia victories have been the 14 to 6 count over Amherst, 10 to 2 over Fordham, and 10 to 6 over Cornell. The draw was 10 to 10 with Cornell.

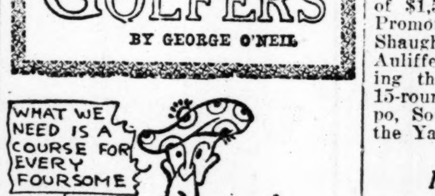
Neale Receives Credit.

Coach Earle Neale should be credited with training a heavy scoring nine. He started out with a squad that was admitted to be weak in hitting. He has trained them to wear down the opposing pitchers, with the result that Black, of Penn State, has been the only opposing moundsman to complete a game, while Cornell, Princeton, New York university and Fordham were all forced to use three pitchers, while Washington and Lee ran in four.

Slowly, but with certainty, the batting average of the Orange and Blue has grown better. Hubbard has been batting at almost .400 per cent while Holland has hit at .386, while he has been in the box; McCoy at .336 and Dietric at .290; Bronaugh, who went in left field when Hubbard was injured has hit at .428 in the last two games, one of his slugs going for three bases.

TIPS FOR GOLFERS

BY GEORGE O'NEIL



WHAT WE NEED IS A COURSE FOR EVERY FOURSOME

We have approximately 2,100 golf courses in the United States. There are 1,834 full-fledged courses, with some 250 courses at summer and winter hotel resorts. There are scores of new courses building—some 50 new ones having been projected this winter within a radius of 50 miles of Chicago—but the totals above are for 1922.

Taking these figures, which apply to all cities from 3,000 population up, the average city of 200,000 to 300,000 population should have five private courses and at least one public course. In view of the many additional thousands who now wish to play golf, and who overtax the public courses in the larger cities, the country is shy about 1,000 courses.

On the basis of average which this census shoms there could be in the United States approximately 3,250 private courses and about 800 public ones. That would give a public links to each city of 15,000 to 30,000. Doing so would give the United States some 4,000 courses. If all the cities above 30,000 established public courses on this basis of population we would have about twice 4,000 golf courses in the United States. Let's have 'em!

MONTANA OFFICIALS AFTER CHAMP BOUT

Great Falls, Mont., April 13.—Loy J. Molumby, of Great Falls, state commander of the Montana legion, and Aviator Earl Vance, hopped off this morning for Salt Lake to meet today with Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, in an effort to secure a world championship bout at Selby, Mont., July 4, between Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul.

Molumby states that he carried a certified check for $110,000 as a cash forfeit to be posted for the $250,000 purse offered, $50,000 of the forfeit to be handed to Dempsey in event of his signing the articles.

Spring cold victims can be cured by inoculation in three weeks before the "season" opens, says a college professor.

But only lost it wuss and wuss,
Now wasn't that rediculous?

Jess Willard's doctor says he has a myocities. eJss is going to name it Rover.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, stretches out his little neck every so often to say that Bob Meusel, his right fielder, is a careless young fellow with great native talent who is just as good a ball player as he cares to be. John McGraw used to say the same of Dave Robertson. But the truth about any player is told by his work. He's just as good as he is.

The same thing has been said of some conspicuous fighters. Jack Dillon was a giant killer tonight and a poor fourth-rater tomorrow night. Jeff Smith, one of the best middleweights in the ring today, makes great fights in Bangor, Memphis and Tulsa, but fizzles in his "money battles" before the big clubs in New York. Joe Lynch is likely to stop one of the toughest bantams tonight and breeze his title on points to some pugilistic office boy tomorrow.

Benny Leonard denies that he is to be married. Or, as they say in the running accounts, "Leonard blocks lead for heart."

Post Forfeit.

New York, April 13.—A forfeit of $1,500 was deposited today with Promoter Tex Rickard, by Mark Shaughnessy, manager of Jack McAuliffe, 2nd, of Detroit, guaranteeing the boxer's appearance for his 15-round match with Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight, at the Yankee stadium on May 12.

Matches Canceled.

New York, April 13.—The first series of the annual east-west tennis matches, slated for San Francisco on May 4, 5 and 6, was cancelled today after receipt of information from Dr. Summer Hardy, of the California Lawn Tennis association, that the Pacific coast would be unable to muster a representative team in time for the contests.

PREP BATTLE RAINED OUT

Rain interfered for the second time this season Friday afternoon and spoiled a perfectly good baseball game in the prep league when University and Tech High players were forced to seek other forms of amseument for the afternoon.

As a result of the hard rainstorm just after the noon hour all four games in the prep league were postponed until a later date.

It is not known at present just when the games will be played off. In former seasons when one schedule of games was rained out that entire playing date was pushed up one day causing the season to be one week longer.

Whether that plan will be in effect this season is a matter for President Doyal, of the league, to decide. He has made no announcement as yet.

Many of the prep baseball players welcomed the rain Friday afternoon for it afforded an excellent chance of witnessing some good movies and every player took advantage of the opportunity during the afternoon.

The rest will do some of the teams much good for next week there are some hard games listed for each of the teams.

SEWANEE-FLA. MEET TODAY

Gainesville, April 13.—(Special.)—The University of Florida will stage her initial dual track and field meet on Fleming Field Saturday afternoon when the cinder artists from the University of the south, Sewanee, Tenn., appear here. It is the second of three stellar track meets the university has billed this season. The final one to be the huge open amateur state track and field championships scheduled here for April 21.

The events include the 100, 220 440-yard dashes, half mile, one and two-mile runs, 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles. The field events include the pole vault, shot put, running high jump, discus throw, running broad jump and javelin throw. There will be no relay races, according to present plans.

The Gator cinder artists have been working hard the past three days in preparation for the meet with the Sewanee trackmen, and present indications point to the Florida boys making a wonderful showing against their Tennessee opponents. Florida has the earmarks of the best track team she has ever turned out, and her exhibitions in the coming meet and the Tech and Drake relays will be looked forward to with the keenest interest by the many followers of Gator sports.

Track officials at the University were in receipt of a letter from Green Benton, Jr., manager of the Sewanee track team, which states that there will be ten or fifteen men in the party which will arrive in Gainesville in time to work out on the Fleming field track.

The order of events follows: Field events, 100-yard dash. One mile run. 220-yard dash. 120-yard high hurdles 440-yard run. Two-mile run. 220-yard low hurdles. Half mile run. Pole vault. Shot put. Running high jump. Discus throw. Running broad jump. Throwing the javelin.

BASEBALL TEAM BOYCOTTED BY NEWSPAPERS

Jackson, Miss., April 13.—Many newspaper men have contended that were it not for the free space given professional baseball by the papers few of the clubs would exist. The majority of dyed-in-the-wool fans, however, claim they could get along without it.

The question will be settled soon, so far as the Clarksdale and Vicksburg clubs of the Cotton States league are concerned, for the newspapers in those two cities have agreed to boycott their clubs, according to a story appearing in the Clarksdale Register.

The Register declares the Vicksburg newspapers have decided to follow the course it has adopted, and explains that the trouble arose because the managers of the Vicksburg and Clarksdale clubs had given the newspapers in their cities only two baseball passes instead of the large batch handed out in previous years.

Golfer Wins Cup.

Roehampton, England, April 13.—Alex Herd, veteran golfer, won the Roehampton challenge cup today by defeating F. C. Jewell, of North Middlesex, in the final match by three up and two to play.

Auburn-Tech Game Called Off on Account of Rain

Ancient Rivals Will Clash This Afternoon at Grant Field at 3 O'Clock—Gassen to Play.

It seems to be a matetr of history that Tech and Auburn shall not play but one game of a two-game series in Atlanta. For the last three years rain has prevented the first game of the Atlanta series.

But unless the weather remains unkind, Tech and Auburn will meet this afternoon. The game will begin at 3 o'clock and only one game will be played.

The probability is that Tech will have Allison and Palmisino doing the tossing and catching. Auburn will probably use Knight or Sheridian on the mound. Gibson will catch.

The rain gave Auburn time to catch her breath after the Michigan disaster on Thursday. Michigan hopped on Auburn's best with both feet, and won the game 9-2. Auburn used five pitchers in the endeavor to stop the advance.

In face of that score, Michigan only got seven hits, while Auburn managed to crack out six bingles. Loose fielding and base running was responsible for most of the disaster.

The day's rest for Tech will serve to get the team on edge. Tech has been playing some mighty neat ball of late, and is due to get a good game out of her system this afternoon. The Maryland series contained two games as pretty as could be played. All the tenseness and thrilling situations that any fan could desire. The great comeback ability of Tech was demonstrated in those games.

Gassen will probably be seen in right field in place of Werner, who was ruled off the team by the faculty. The remainder of the line-up will remain the same. Umpires Cochran and Clark will officiate.

Georgia Track Team Off For Meet in Carolina

Bulldogs, Clemson and University of North Carolina Will Meet in Triangular Meet Today.

Chapel Hill, April 13.—(Special.) Bob Fetzer left here tonight with 15 men en route for Calhoun, S. C., where the Tar Heel track team will meet Clemson and Georgia in a triangular meet tomorrow afternoon.

The 15 men who will compete for Carolina form the strongest unit that has represented the university in many years. As yet they have had no test of their outdoor ability, but in the indoor meet in Durham they shattered six records and set those for all new events advanced over last year. Time trials that have been held this week have shown an immense improvement over similar ones held in the past, and with this in view the Tar Heel squad is expecting to make a good showing in the triangular affair.

Relatively little is known about the strength of the Tigers or Georgia. The meager reports which have drifted to the hill through one source or another would indicate that Carolina will experience her greatest difficulty in Clemson. This does not mean, however, that Georgia is expected to be awful easy.

Weak in High Jump.

Carolina's weak spot will be in the high jump, high hurdles and possibly the two miles. Her big point-making events will be the low hurdles, the 440, the 880 and the mile runs.

Carolina received quite a setback in the dashes when Moore threw a "charley-horse" in time trials. In the event that he should not be able to run, it would leave the whole problem up to Dave Sinclair, who captains this year's team. It will be in good hands, however, since Sinclair has shown his superiority on more than one occasion and lost the two events only once last year. This was at the South Atlantic meet.

Woodard, who was high-point man in the South Carolina-Georgia meet last year, will be in four events—low hurdles, broad jump, javelin and high jump. He is best probably in the low hurdles, and with Yarborough, prep hurdles champion of Virginia in 1921, as a running mate this well be the Tar Heel's best event. First and second places are expected of them.

Dale Ranson with Jones, a promising man of last year's freshman squad will run the mile. Ranson is one of the best milers in the south. Last year he ran it in 4:30, which is three seconds lower than the North Carolina record for the event. No such performance can be expected of him tomorrow, however since he has not reached his best form yet.

GA. GAME IS POSTPONED

Athens, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) One of the best games of the season that has been scheduled for the Red and Black team on Sanford field is expected tomororw if the weather man holds the showers in check long enough for Coach Bill Whites' Bulldog charges to meet the University of Michigan team.

Today's game was rained out and only one game is to be played today. In all probability Andy Chambers will do mound duty for the Georgia team. Local fans have shown much interest in the Michigan series and a large crowd was disappointed when the rain interfered today.

If the weather is at all agreeable a new attendance mark for the session will likely be chalked up.

D. SCOTT MAY REACH MARK

Columbus, Ohio, April 13.—Deacon Scott's record may run up to 1,000 consecutive ball games in spite of the wrenching of his ankle in Thursday's exhibition game between the Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers at Springfield, Mo. The star shortstop of the Yankees who has played in 986 games without missing, over several seasons, was able to hobble about aboard the special train which is bearing the ball clubs back to New York for the weekend exhibitions preceding the opening of the regular season. In order to preserve his record, Scott must at least start at the shortfield position for the Yanks in their opening game Wednesday.

Scott made his first effort to walk in response to the breakfast call from the diner. He also answered the lunch and dinner calls. It may be the part of strategy therefore, to have a bugler pipe mess call to page him for his duty on the field at the opening game. The ration music seems to inspire Scott.

The New York teams arrive home Saturday morning and will hop across the bridge to Brooklyn for a game at Ebbets' field.

MRS. MALLORY RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TOUR

New York, April 13.—Mrs. Molla B. Mallory defeated on the tennis courts of England, returned today on the steamship Mauretania with her lips tightly sealed. "Why should I answer any questions," she demanded of reporters as she stepped down the gangplank with her husband.

LIQUOR SCANDAL ROUSES N. Y. STATE

Police Commissioner Called "Grafter, Bootlegger and Prison Dodger" by Assemblyman.

BY PAUL FREDRIX.

New York, April 13.—Charges that New York's police are working hand and glove with bootleggers have raised a scandal threatening to destroy democratic unity throughout the state.

Already one investigation has been started by Mayor Hylan, another may be undertaken by Governor Smith, and Police Commissioner Enright has brought a $100,000 slander suit against Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier for calling him a "grafter, bootlegger and prison dodger."

Cuvillier, a staunch Tammany man and friend of the Hylan administration, made the accusations in the legislature at Albany while working for repeal of the Mullan-Gage state enforcement act and for protection of citizens against police raids. Neither the Volstead nor Mullan-Gage act can be enforced so long as police are subject to the greed of human nature, he declared.

The assemblyman's statements created an instant storm of excitement among city officials and leaders of Tammany. Mayor Hylan, backing up his boast that New York is the most lily-like spot in the country, authorized Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield to investigate the police department and Commissioner Enright, just to show the world how pure the force really is.

Hirshfield's inquiry has been conducted in that fashion. First the boss investigator subpoenaed Cuvillier, but the latter refused to appear because he does not have to answer for statements made in the legislature.

Underhill Summoned.

Then Hirshfield summoned former Police Inspector Underhill, a man named by Cuvillier as having been discharged by Enright for enforcing the dry law too strictly.

"Cuvillier is a cheap, malicious liar is he not?" asked Hirshfield.

"He is," replied Underhill.

"He is drunk most of the time, isn't he?"

"He is."

"Did not the assemblyman once tell you that rigid prohibition enforcement would cause the downfall of Tammany?"

"He did."

"Isn't the police force, generally speaking, as fine a body of men as can be found anywhere?"

"Save in a few isolated instances, yes."

While he was thus being whitewashed in the mayor's probe, Enright Thursday took action to drive Cuvillier into a corner. He had the assemblyman served with a subpoena at Albany, ordering him to appear before a court within 20 days to answer to a $100,000 suit for slander against the commissioner.

Would Invoke Immunity.

Cuvillier, according to reports from Albany, accepted the subpoena but said he would invoke his legislative immunity and would refuse to appear. Instead, he prepared a long bill of detailed charges of graft and bootlegging in New York city, which he will introduce into the assembly Friday with a request for a thorough sifting by Governor Smith.

Assemblyman Joseph Steinberg, also a New York man, paved the way for Cuvillier by introducing a bill giving the governor power to conduct such an investigation if he sees fit.

Republicans see in this rift among down-state democrats a chance to split Tammany into warring factions. Though opposing Cuvillier's efforts to repeal the Mullan-Gage law they are expected to rally behind his bill calling the New York police upon the governor's carpet. Cuvillier is counting on their support to pass the measure by a scant majority.

LEGION TO INSIST ON INVESTIGATION, DECLARES OWSLEY

Chicago, April 13.—Declaring that the American Legion will continue its insistence on an investigation of the United States war veterans' bureau, Alvin M. Owsley, national legion commander, appealed to Chicago business men Friday, to retain their faith in the legion as being the rightful ex-service man's organization and to keep the veterans fighting "in peace as they did in war times."

Owsley declared the veterans' bureau must be investigated from top to bottom and that "politics must be stamped out of it."

"Congress created the veterans' bureau as a channel through which to care for disabled service men," said Owsley. "And any politician who takes advantage of the wealth spent in sustaining the bureau to find a soft berth for some friend is not worthy of the name American. He should never be re-elected."

NEW ENGLANDERS FORGET POLITICS

restoring prosperity any more than he blames the democratic party for wartime troubles almost now forgotten. He is inclined to charge his losses off to natural causes resulting from the backwash of the war. He is paying his share of the bill philosophically, if not cheerfully.

While he admits the Harding administration may get the credit for having brought back "good times" and reaped the benefit in votes, the New England citizen is not fully convinced of the justice of such reward. He's glad congress has closed the shop and could be easily reconciled if it laid off for a couple of years. The vote of New England last fall when prosperity was beginning to loom ahead, reflected his independence, if not contempt for, the republican and democratic parties alike, rather more toward the former because of its failure to correct evils charged to the democrats.

Vote Slump.

In every New England state the republican vote fell last fall below the normal of "off years." In some instances, the democratic vote slumped, too, but not as much as the republican. In Massachusetts, the republican loss was around 60,000; in Maine, 20,000; in New Hampshire, 18,000; in Rhode Island, around 15,000; in Vermont, something like 5,000. The 33,000 majority given Mr. Harding in New Hampshire was reversed to 7,000 democratic.

Bad management and some fool local issues cost the democrats Massachusetts and Connecticut. With better management, the wave of popular discontent which submerged the republican party in other sections of the country would have embraced four New England states instead of only two—New Hampshire and Rhode Island. Since then the pronounced improvement in business have given the republicans a new lease of life in all the New England states. Business has saved the party instead of the party saving business.

Irritations and annoyances consequent on bad business have been forgotten or only hazily remembered. Whether old resentments will be recalled in the next contest depends on two things: (1) The permanency of the developing boom, and (2) the treatment of radical ventures by the Harding administration and the next congress.

Radical Talk Stopped.

The continuance of prosperity will help Mr. Harding's party with New England voters unless the congress leaders of it chase rainbows of radical delienation. There is no more effective cure for radicalism resulting from popular discontent than prosperity. The situation in New England proves it.

Talk of radical political ventures designed to cure agricultural, industrial and social ills a year ago has stopped. The farmer, industrial worker, merchant and shop clerk is too actively engaged in keeping up with expanding business demands to yield willing ear to such chatter.

Manufacturers complain of a shortage of labor. The building trades deplore the lack of men for whom wartime wages still await. The farmer sees trouble ahead because of the more attractive bids from industrial centers. The restrictions on immigration are affecting New England industries as well as the steel mills of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The drain on the farms doesn't influence the farmer to look with favor on suggestions that he combine his political power with that of organized labor. The last thing the New England farmer is thinking about now is supporting the demands of labor with his vote because he believes all the advantages of such an alliance must inevitably be one-sided and to his own disadvantage.

Republican Benefit.

The republican party will undoubtedly benefit from this condition of affairs because the labor units in New England are coddled by the democratic organization there and not by the republicans. Consequently, the farmers in six New England states who displayed a tendency to violate the traditions of three generations and philander democraticward seems to be turning back to the party of his fathers. He'd rather be there anyway and unless rebuffed by hostile legislation will in future hang close to home.

The majority of New England display only casual interest in foreign events and prospective international politics. His own business is more important now that it is far better than it was. In all the upper Atlantic coast states there is deep and sincere sympathy for the political and military ridden people of Europe, particularly for those of France. But this sympathy is predicated on American detachment.

Interest in European reconstruction moves or friendly gestures on the part of this country is at the moment more casual than direct. The groups that reflected disapproval of the league of nations three years ago have not recently provided any substantial evidence, indicating a change of heart. Henry Cabot Lodge, Frank Brandegee and George Moses are still irreconcilable on the republican side, Walsh, of Massachusetts and other leaders of the democratic party in most of the New England states avowedly unconverted.

Wherefore the leaders in both parties refuse to become excited over the revival of the league of nations as a talking issue under provocation of Mr. Harding's suggestion that the United States become a member of the high court of international justice, set up by the league. The most avid interest displayed in the president's suggestions radiate from the intelligentsia which ululate in the verbal formulas fashionable in the Back Bay of Boston, in the Newtons, at Cambridge, along the north shore and at Springfield and around New Haven.

Support for League.

It would not be entirely accurate to say that there does not exist deep and extensive interest in the league of nations and in favor of the international court idea in many parts of New England. There is, in fact, a greater measure of support for the league itself than for the international court. Two recent events established the fact.

A proposal to indorse the international court idea was rejected by the Massachusetts state senate. A few days later the largest Y. M. C. A. mass meeting held in Springfield in many years adopted resolutions urging the United States to join the league without condition or reservation.

The meeting was arranged by The World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship Through the Churches and the League of Nations Non-Partisan League. Among students and publicits the impression prevails that the international court plan will give place to another move of more direct and greater permanent value to both Europe and this country, and that American sentiment will crystallize back of it.

This opinion is based on the conviction that popular sentiment in New England as elsewhere is not arbitrarily opposed to helping Europe if it can be done without involvment in the league of nations.

New Englanders are not wasting any time talking politics; business is too good. The activities of some of Mr. Harding's personal friends in tying up the next nominating convention for him has excited only mild interest. It is the republican view that a "lot of water will go over the political dam before the next convention is held." It is the further professional opinion that Mr. Harding has "made good and is entitled to a renomination by all the rules of the game."

If he doesn't want a second term, there will be a wide range of professional preference with the usual substantial and aggressive element of dissent—the old progressive wing. Under present conditions organized opposition to Mr. Harding seems improbable.

Democrat Chaos.

Democratic conditions are normally chaotic. Woodrow Wilson has apparently recovered much of the ground he lost at the end of his second term. But not one democrat in fifty thinks of him in connection with the presidential nomination, but rather as adviser. Of the dozen men actively discussed, Mr. Underwood and former Ambasador Davis come in for most attention with Senator Dave Walsh occupying the star part in "the favorite son" class.

The chief objection to Mr. Walsh is his religion. He, like Governor Smith, of New York, is a Catholic, which should not but does affect his availability in certain sections of the country, including rural New England where the Puritan spirit still runs strong and deep, though less pronounced than of yore.

Attempts of partisans to introduce the K. K. K. into New England have met with little success. A few isolated klans have been established but attract no more attention than any other secret order, and are not regarded seriously. It is quite probable that Senator Walsh could have the united support of most of the New England delegates to the next democratic nominating convention for all opposition the K. K. K. could muster against him. The senator will have his hands full trying for a second term. He will probably be renominated without opposition. Then he will have to beat Louis A. Coolidge, a very popular republican and successful business man, who has already entered the lists and seems to have the support of most of the republican leaders, except the drys.

Wet Forces Growing.

This wing is at present below par in both parties. Sentiment among voters in not only Massachusetts, but Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, is not dry. The citizens of Massachusetts voted down the dry enforcement act three to one last fall, the increase of wet sentiment being surprisingly impressive in rural districts.

Connecticut and Rhode Island have never ratified the eighteenth amendment. Bootlegging is rampant; the enforcement law a joke. Saloons are still licensed in sections of Massachusetts to sell "soft drinks" now, "the hard stuff" later—that's the idea.

New England farmers apparently place little faith in the measures put through congress by the farm bloc to relieve agriculture. They regard those ventures as political bids for the votes of western farmers. Incidentally, the New England farmer is solving some of his problems without the paternalistic help of the federal government.

The tobacco growers of the Connecticut valley, embracing southern Massachusetts, have built up a cooperative system of marketing which is conducted with real ability and profit to the trade. This is also true of the dairymen in most of the New England states. Even the onion producers of western Massachusetts and potato growers of Maine are developing a system that the western farmer clamoring for government subsidies might study with advantage.

1 KILLED, 6 HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS MOTOR RAIL CAR

Roanoke, Va., April 13.—Thurman Tillman was killed and six men were injured, two of them seriously, when a Norfolk and Western freight train struck a motor rail car carrying a section crew near Cold Springs, Va., today, according to reports to the general offices of the road here. William Taylor, section foreman, and his son, Lacy Taylor, were reported seriously hurt. The cause of the collision was not given in the company's reports.

Convict Clothing And Boss' Whip Shown to Solons

Florida Legislators to Consider Banning Lease System Next Wednesday'

Tallahassee, Fla., April 13.—(By The Associated Press.)—The lowly convict, who has been the subject of investigation because of alleged cruel treatment administered in private convict camps of the state, had his inning in the lower house of the state legislature today during the discussion of the death of Martin Tabert. Tabert, a native of Munich, N. D., is alleged to have died under the lash of a convict camp boss in Dixie county.

Threadbare clothing, splashed with swamp muck, distorted and mismated shoes and other garments belonging to the convict's garb were cast upon the floor of the lower house and a whip used for flogging prisoners was passed from one member to another for examination.

A stirring scene was enacted as the house moved to make a special order of business for next Wednesday the consideration of measures looking to the abolition of the convict lease system and the prohibiting of corporeal punishment.

In the meantime the joint investigating committee named to investigate the conviction, leasing and death of Tabert, as requested by a resolution adopted by the North Dakota legislature, recessed in the middle of an examination of Sheriff J. R. Jones, of Leon county, after having been in session for less than one hour. It was announced later that the committee would get down to business Tuesday morning.

Fireworks were looked for in the senate today over the house concurrent resolution seeking to broaden the scope of the investigating committee so as to make it a state-wide inquiry into county camps. The resolution went into the unfinished business hopper when Senator B. H. Bonifay sought to amend the resolution in order that the committee be empowered to investigate alleged cruelties at convict camps controlled by the state and not be confined to county camps only.

The upper house recessed until over the week-end before Senator Lindsey's amendment could be drawn up.

Exhibits Strap.

The resolution was aimed at investigation of a camp said to be the property of State Senator T. J. Knabb and located at MacClenny, Fla. To show that he welcomed an investigation Senator Knabb pounced to his feet and moved the adoption of the resolution.

Representative Nathan Mayo, chairman of the house convict committee, stirred the house into action when he produced convict paraphernalia, including the whipping strap, which he said was four feet long and two and a quarter inches wide, weighing a pound.

The last was the center of attention. As explained by Mr. Mayo, it was loaded at the handle end and he said that he did not think such an instrument could inflict serious injury. He added, however, that he had been informed that it was a frequent practice to treat the strap with syrup and oil and drag it in the sand to give it more "effectiveness." The representative said that he understood that the flogging instrument used in whipping Tabert at the camp of the Putnam Lumber company, at Clara, Fla., weighed seven and a half pounds.

Tabert, it is charged, was whipped so severely by Walter Higginbotham, the camp boss, that it produced death. Higginbotham is now under a first degree murder indictment. Turning his attention from the strap, the convict committee chairman displayed a pair of ragged shoes and a striped object that resembled convict breeches. Holding these aloft, he moved that the rules be waived and the measure seeking the abolition of the lease system and corporal punishment be passed at this time.

Provisions of Bill.

The bill provides that no more convicts be leased to private firms, but that in small counties when the number of convicts is insufficient to maintain a camp, convicts could be leased if so desired.

It was after Mr. Mayo waived the tattered garment, the legs of which were cut off at the knees and in shreds, and termed by him a "good bathing sut," that the house decided to take action on the bill next Wednesday.

The state of Georgia's system of handling convicts was used as an illustration by Representative Fred H. Davis, who offered an amendment to Mr. Mayo's which would prevent flogging.

"Let's go at it right while we are at it," exclaimed Mr. Davis. "Most of the other states in the union and even Georgia has discontinued corporal punishment," he declared.

The representative from Leon county related that these states based their action on the constitution of the United States, which cites that "no cruel or inhuman punishment shall be inflicted for any cause," he said.

CABINET IS GIVEN REPORT ON PROBE

Variance of Opinion.

Experts of the commission have been completely over the field of statistics in all government offices and have gathered what is regarded by the commission members as a comprehensive survey of the price and import rates comparisons over a period of a dozen years. But there seemed to be a variance of opinion as to the exact construction to be placed on the mass of facts and figures and that, it was asserted, was the main reason the report has not reached the white house.

In some quarters, it was said that two factions had developed in the commisison again. One contending that the tariff duties could not be entirely eliminatetd from at least partial responsibility for the recent price increases while the other group was said to maintain as insistently that there was no proof showing that the customs duties had been passed on in the price to the ultimate consumer. The two groups it was indicated did not necessarily divide along high or low tariff lines but rather the differences were traceable to the question whether the duties ever actually were discernible in the prices paid by the ultimate consumer of any commodity.

'Friday, the 13th' Jinx Continues; Bed Slat Breaks

Macon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—J. H. Parham, Macon business man, got through Friday, the 13th, without his jinx asserting itself. That is, he was safe until 11 o'clock tonight when the latest report came from his home.

"I've thrown a natural eleven," said Parham over the telephone late tonight, after spending most of the day in seclusion at his home to keep from exposing himself to possible mishaps on the "unlucky day." "I'll be up bright and early tomorrow morning, for I couldn't do a thing on the thirteenth. I was on the defensive all the time, expecting the jinx to show up."

Mr. Parham told his frieds Thursday that it was his intention to stay in bed all day Friday to escape possible accidents. He didn't, but he tried.

He was getting well along with his evasion of the jinx, when a bed slat broke. He climbed out of bed forthwith and declared he might as well be somewhere else.

Then he went to his garage and spent the remainder of the day seated in his automobile. When the big thunderstorm broke this afternoon he was wide-awake, with his foot on the gas, "ready to go" if lightning hit the establishment. It didn't hit.

A story in morning papers today told of Mr. Parham's jinx. He lost an eye, suffered a broken leg, then a broken arm, one foot mashed and then his garage was destroyed by fire. All of these troubles overtook him on the 13th of the month during a period of one year. Quite enough, he asserts, to justify him in extra precaution on Friday, the 13th.

Satan's Empire Falling

"Millions now living will never die"
—Judge Rutherford.

Satan's wicked influence has long been felt in every part of the world. Together with his associate devils he incites people to hatred, strife, murder and induces war and anarchy, wrecking homes and driving thousands to insanity and suicide. Satan caused the fall of man and thus established his empire. His wicked influence has over-reached the denominational churches, causing many clergymen to forsake God and unite with profiteers and politicians to control mankind. But the end is here and his empire is falling, and Christ, the rightful king, though invisible, is beginning to reign. Hence the distress of nations, of which Jesus spoke. These troubles will soon reach a climax and disappear, followed quickly by peace and prosperity, as Jesus assumes control. Come hear the lecture by Prof. Louis F. Hildebrandt at the Rialto theatre, 3 p. m., Sunday, April 15.

Judge Rutherford's new book, "Can the Living Talk with the Dead?" explaining the fallacy of the so-called communication with the dead, being a complete answer to Spiritism, sent on receipt of 25 cents in stamps.

Cain-Thomas Engagement Is Announced at Luncheon

The engagement of Miss Cecilia Cain and John Allen Thomas, of Birmingham, Ala., was announced Friday, at the beautiful luncheon given by Miss Eleanor McGinty at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McGinty on Juniper street.

Interesting Occasion.

The occasion is of unusual interest, as it assembled only the members of the Cecilian Dramatic club of the North Avenue Presbyterian school, of which Miss Cain is the director. She is a charming young woman, of unusual talent and attractive personality and is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Josephine Cain, of Birmingham, Ala. Since coming to Atlanta four years ago, she has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Fremont B. Ramey, and is a popular instructor of French and director of the Dramatic club, which bears her name, of the North Avenue Presbyterian school.

Luncheon Appointments.

The luncheon guests were seated at a beautifully appointed table covered with exquisite cluny lace mats and graced in the center with a tall silver vase of pink rose buds. At intervals were silver candlesticks holding unshaded tapers and smaller bud vases of pink roses. Dainty hand-painted place cards marked the place of each guest.

John Ottley, Jr. Gives Dinner For 'Stray Greeks'

"Joyeuse," the home of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Ottley on Peachtree road was the scene of an interesting dinner party Friday evening, when John K. Ottley, Jr., entertained the "Stray Greeks" of Oglethorpe university.

The gathering was one of the enjoyable events of interest to collegiate circles here and assembled a group of the members of the "Stray Greeks," a society of the university.

Trousseau Tea Is Given for Bride-Elect

Miss Virginia Watts entertained at a beautiful trosseau tea on Friday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Jessie Watts, whose wedding will be a brilliant event of next Tuesday night.

Quantities of crab-apple blossoms were used in the decoration of the reception rooms.

Mrs. G. M. Eakes and Mrs. Lewis Jones poured coffee. Mrs. Frank Hughes, Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. William Alden, Mrs. I. M Aiken, Miss Lillian Moore, Miss Neely Smith and Miss Catherine Nash assisted in entertaining.

The tea table was overlaid with a beautiful hand made lace cloth. A handsome raffia basket held graceful sprays of crab-apple blossoms. Encircling this central decoration were crystal candlesticks containing pink unshaded tapers. Bonbons and all the details of the refreshments were carried out in pink.

Ernest Wood Will Lecture.

Ernest Wood, psychologist, who is now on a two-years' world tour, will lecture at the chamber of commerce Sunday and Monday at 8 o'clock. Sunday night he will speak on "Personal Problems." Monday night his subject will be "Mehtods of Mental Training."

The Atlanta lodge of the American Theosophical society is presenting Mr. Wood and extend the most cordial invitation to their friends and to the public.

Mrs. Smith Is Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. John E. Smith was a charming hostess on Friday when she entertained at luncheon at her home on West Peachtree street in honor of Mrs. A. L. Wilkins, of Eastman, Ga., who is visiting Mrs. W. L. Mathers.

Mrs. Smith received her guests wearing a rich gown of black lace.

Mrs. Wilkins wore a smart model of brown roshanara crepe and a hat of dull gold.

Thirty-Second Birthday Of Atlanta Chapter D. A. R.

The Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will celebrate the thirty-second birthday Saturday afternoon, April 14, at Craigie house, on Piedmont avenue, with the vice regent, Mrs. Fletcher J. Spratling, presiding at the meeting. Mrs. Bun Wylie, regent, leaves today for Washington, D. C., to attend the thirty-second continental congress which convenes on Monday in Memorial hall.

Mrs. Porter King, ex-regent of the chapter, will give the interesting history of the chapter for the thirty-two years that it has functioned.

Mrs. Charles M. Love and Mrs. John M. Slaton will read reports on the state conference.

Another feature will be the cutting of the birthday cake by the ex-regents, each giving, as she cuts a slice of cake, a reminiscence of her regency.

Mrs. Robert Blackburn will read an original birthday poem.

Miss Harriet Small will sing a group of songs, and there will be a harp solo by Miss Jacquelin Moore. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Betty Black Is Complimented.

An enjoyable event of Friday was the miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. J. Warren Leach entertained at her home on Maple avenue in honor of Miss Betty Black, an attractive bride-to-be.

Azaleas, roses and peach blossoms decorated the rooms where the guests were received. The top score prize was a novelty door knocker and the consolation prize was a French novelty. The guest prize was an exquisite card table cover.

The guests included Mrs. George Black, Mrs. Julian Buff, Mrs. John Burke, Mrs. Roy LeCraw, Mrs. John Oliver, Mrs. Kendrick Scott, Mrs. Jack Lawless, Mrs. Lewis Estes, Mrs. H. W. McLarty, Mrs. J. Ward Simms, Mrs. Van Burgin, Mrs. Joseph Harper, Mrs. J. Lee Groves, Jr., Mrs. Lynn Howard, Mrs. Joseph Heard, Mrs. Sam DuBose, Mrs. Tom Lewis, Mrs. Carlton Lee, Mrs. J. D. Tiller, Mrs. Robert Simmons, Mrs. James West, Mrs. Cleve Symmes, Mrs. John L. Tye, Jr., Mrs. Carroll McGaughey, Miss Venice Mayson, Miss Leila Ponder, Miss Hallie Poole, Miss Maude Couch, Miss Ruth Yarbrough, Miss Frances Fort and Miss Helen Wilson.

Mrs. Harris Hostess at Tea.

Mrs. Thomas C. Harris entertained at tea at the Woman's club Friday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Williams, of Kittrell, N. C.

The daintily appointed tea table was adorned with a large basket of Ophelia roses, and the color motif of pink and white was artistically carried out in the other appointments.

The guests included Mrs. T. A. Murray, Mrs. C. F. Williams, Mrs. W. H. L. Nelms, Mrs. F. H. Gardner, Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton, Mrs. A. L. Haskins, Mrs. E. M. Freligh, Mrs. C. C. Chamberlain, Mrs. Perry Greene, Mrs. Charles A. Trippe, Mrs. M. W. Cowan, Mrs. G. Webb.

Children Give "Mother Goose" Pageant Saturday

The Anna S. Fulton chapter of the Children of the Confederacy will give an attractive "Mother Goose" pageant and recital at the Junior High school auditorium on McDonough street in Decatur Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. The entertainment will be under the direction of Mrs. Tom Galloway, who will be assisted by Mrs. Galloway's pupils in expression.

Those taking part in the Mother Goose play are Virginia Mayson, Mary De Sausseue, Broughton Branch, Jr., Arthur Willis Branch, Emily Campbell, Edith Harrison, Katherine Kay, Alice Gray Harrison, Urquhart Ansley, Elizabeth Johnson, Martha Johnson, Charlotte Johnson, Elizabeth Jones, Mabel Stanton, Frances Bryant, Rose Mary Honiker, Nell Honiker, Jane Green, Calvinia Wilkie, Nell Scott Earthman, Milton Earthman, Joe Wells, Elizabeth Hamilton and Miles and Thomas Galloway.

Readings and dances will be given by Frances Adams, Margaret Pate, Sue Morris, Elizabeth Jones, Martha Hatcher, Emily Ann Wiley, Emily Smith, Margaret Wolcott, Elizabeth Davis and Virginia Mayson.

This is the first entertainment given by the Anna S. Fulton chapter since its recent reorganization under the leadership of Mrs. J. A. Campbell and the children are working hard to make it a success. A large audience is expected and the proceeds are to be divided between the Children of the Confederacy and the Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C.

Brilliant Southerner Forms Woman's Universal Alliance

MRS. C. C. CALHOUN.

Washington city is the headquarters of a woman's movement that is attracting attention the country over as the result of the work of Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, in the organization of the Woman's Universal Alliance which is to make its headquarters in a great temple to be known as "Mothers' Memorial Tower," where, as Mrs. Calhoun recently announced in an address delivered by her at the Shubert-Belasco theater in Washington—

"A tribute may be placed by any man or woman who wishes to honor the memory of his or her mother in this shrine of imperishable beauty at the very heart of the nation."

A Modern Acropolis.

The organization has already acquired forty acres occupying a high eminence in Washington on which, as Mrs. Calhoun said:

"We expect to build in the very heart of Washington a modern acropolis, granting to any organization who may wish national headquarters, independent sites of greater beauty and less cost than other acreage in Washington. This will be a distinct benefit to our city beautiful. Women with their new found power are like swarming bees, ready to hive. The great women's organizations throughout the country want national headquarters here, and we have the only space in the city, where they may be grouped together, each group an independent factor but all under a harmonious architectural plan."

Its General Plan.

Concerning the general plan and purpose of the Woman's Universal Alliance, Mrs. Calhoun said:

"This is an alliance of thoughtful women the world over banded together primarily for the sake of peace and the security of their homes. It is a known fact that the female of every species, from the smallest insect up to the human being, is born with one paramount instinct, that of the preservation of her home and the protection of her offspring. This instinct is what we must look to now to save the homes of the world. Some skeptics have asked: 'What on earth is the use of another woman's organization where so many now exist?' To this we reply: There are no organizations in this country or elsewhere of which we have heard for the avowed purpose of the protection of the home. Clubs are largely composed of women whose children are grown and whose domestic duties are therefore so light that they turn to club life for interest or usefulness as the case may be.

"As this is woman's age it is our privilege to see that the great women who are gone, are at last fittingly honored; as an incentive to the women of the present and the women of the future; and, what is more, to keep a record of the descendants of these women. All the patriotic societies of the world seem proud to claim their descendants only from men—quite forgetting that they have mothers, too. Now, at last, we will right this old wrong and see that the great women, the great mothers have their due."

Mrs. Calhoun as a young lady was well known in Atlanta as the belle of New Orleans, when as one of the most brilliant and magnetic young women who ever lived in the south, she, as Miss Daisy Breaux, visited Miss Emma Mims, daughter of the late Colonel Livingston Mims, who later became Mrs. Joseph Thompson, and who, at that time, was known throughout the country as Atlanta's most brilliant young woman.

Mrs. Calhoun is now the wife of one of Washington's most prominent attorneys and most highly esteemed citizens.

Club Committees Will Have Mass Meeting Monday

A decided novelty in club meetings will be the mass meeting Monday at 3 o'clock at the Woman's club auditorium, when the combined committees of public welfare, home economics and insurance of the club will be hostesses to the other club members and to their friends in Atlanta. This will be the regular monthly meeting of the home economics department.

The brilliant program, in which each department will take part, will have as its well-known speakers, Superintendent Willis Sutton of Atlanta's school system, and Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, prominent Atlanta pastor.

While the trend of the meeting will be in the direction of thrift and juvenile insurance, each department will have a spectacular feature illustrating the work of the department.

The meeting will be opened promptly at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman of home economics for the club, who will give a general idea of the work of this department, and will speak of the very interesting plans for an elaborate display of home economics work to be given at the biennial council meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs which will meet in Atlanta next month. The personnel of committees appointed by Mrs. Wing to act as hostesses at the exhibit will be given, and volunteers for these committees will be received, so that everyone in the department may be able to feel that she has a right to claim a part in this splendid exhibit.

The popular "discovery contest" which always forms a most interesting part of the home economics meeting, will have as its subject, "What I have most enjoyed in home economics work, and why." For the three best answers on this subject to consist of not over 100 words, either oral or written, silk, Georgia-made hose will be awarded. As the time for each department is only 40 minutes of the program, these answers are asked to be prompt, and may be written in advance, and handed in to the chairman, signed.

The department will also present Mrs. Robert Blackburn as part of its program, in a surprise number particlarly adapted to the events of the month.

The home economics department program will be followed by that of the child welfare under Mrs. Charles Goodman, which will have a most interesting feature put on by the Girl Scout division of the Atlanta Woman's club, to describe which, in advance, would detract from its novelty. Following this will come Superintendent Sutton's address on "Junior Thrift Service." Mr. Sutton is universally admired and his inspiring talks always find enthusiastic audiences.

Following Superintendent Sutton's talk will be an exposition by Mrs. Cleve Webb, of the subject "What Insurance Has Meant to the Atlanta Woman's Club." Mrs. Webb is the chairman for the club committee, which has had charge of the insurance of 40 members of the club, thus making possible the financing of the auditorium.

Mrs. Murray Hubbard, who has been recently appointed assistant to the chairman for insurance of the General Federation of Women's clubs and has elaborated a practical method of insurance for young people, will introduce Dr. Lyons, whose interesting address will form a fitting climax to the afternoon's program.

Club members are asked to bring their friends, whether club or nonmembers; members of parent-teacher organizations are especially invited. It is expected that a large audience will take the opportunity of enjoying one of the most novel programs which has taken place in the beautiful auditorium this year.

Many Guests for Tea At Woman's Club.

The usual Friday afternoon teas at the Atlanta Woman's club on Peachtree street assembled many guests yesterday afternoon when members and their friends assembled in congenial groups.

The club rooms were beautifully decorated with dogwood and crabapple blossoms artistically arranged.

Among the largest parties was the bridge-tea given by Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. J. D. Watson. Top score prize was a picture, and second and consolation were Dresden flower bowls.

Among others entertaining were Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, Mrs. Charles La Fontaine, Mrs. F. H. Maedele, Mrs. Homer Ashford and Mrs. T. C. Harris.

Mrs. Marmaduke Floyd Will Be Opera Guest of Mrs. Calhoun

Mrs. Marmaduke Floyd, formerly Miss Julia Heidt, of Savannah, will be the guest during opera week of Judge and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun at their home on Inman circle.

Mrs. Floyd, who is one of the south's most beautiful women, is a talented vocalist with a voice of wide range and beauty. She is a first cousin of Mrs. Calhoun, who was formerly Miss Caro Heidt and a singer of rare sweetness and beauty.

Mrs. Floyd is en route to Savannah from New York and a concert tour through New England.

Miss Paine Is Guest of Honor.

Miss Alice Paine, of Louisville, Ky., the attractive guest of Mrs. Stewart McGinty and Mrs. E. E. Caldwell was honor guest at the luncheon given Friday by Mrs. Andrew Stewart at the East Lake Country club. Luncheon was served in the palm room.

The central decoration on the lace-covered table was a silver vase holding snapdragons, and the place cards were hand-painted, colonial figures, holding bouquets of spring flowers.

Miss Paine was gowned in black etamine, embroidered in chenille and wooden beads, and her hat was a model in black straw, trimmed with small ostrick tips and wooden beads.

Covers were placed for Miss Paine, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. E. E. Caldwell, Andrew Stewart, Jr., Mrs. Stewart McGinty, Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mrs. C. G. Beck, Miss Virginia Wheat.

Delegates to Continental Congress In Washington

A group of prominent women will attend the 32d continental congress which convenes in Memorial hall on Monday, in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Bun Wylie, regent of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. Joseph M. High and Mrs. J. O. Wynn, delegates from this chapter, leave today for the national capital.

Mrs. Wylie will also attend the general assembly of the Daughters of American Colonists, this national conference following that of the continental congress.

Mrs. Howard H. McCall, vice president general from Georgia for the national society D. A. R., is already in Washington to attend the congress.

Mrs. Julius Talmadge, of Athens, vice regent for Georgia, and Mrs. Julian B. McCurry, an official of the Athens chapter, D. A. R., were in Atlanta Friday en route to Washington for the conference.

Mrs. Brooks Is Honored.

Mrs. Basil Brooks was hostess at a bridge tea Friday afternoon at her home on Springdale road, in honor of her guest, Mrs. F. C. Brooks, of Norton, Va. Twenty-five guests were invited and the home was elaborately decorated with palms, sweetheart roses and jonquils. On each card table were placed small vases tied with tulle and filled with flowers. In the center of the tea table was a beautiful silver basket filled with jonquils.

The prizes were a perfume bottle, painted by Miss Juliana Brooks, and a bottle of imported perfume. The guest prize was a gold vanity box.

She was assisted by her daughter, Miss Juliana Brooks, who wore a gown of blue georgette veiling pink satin, and her sister, Mrs. Pierce Darden, who was gowned in brown crepe and brown lace.

The guests invited were Mrs. Walter Wilson, Mrs. W. C. McLendon, Mrs. W. E. Daniel, Mrs. T. A. Splan, Mrs. John Haden, Mrs. Leonard Weiner, Mrs. Russel Gresham, Mrs. C. F. Cromer, Mrs. F. L. Buckner, Mrs. Warren Reid, Mrs. R. M. Brooks, Mrs. P. W. Darden.

Drama Study Class Reads Pinero Play.

"Iris," a play by the English dramatist, Arthur Wing Pinero, was read on Friday morning, at 10:30 o'clock by Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd, to the members of the Drama League study class, who assembled for the regular weekly meeting at Edison hall.

The play was a tragic drama of a woman of the upper classes who went wrong because of a weak nature that had been bred to be yet weaker. "Iris" was an essentially feminine creature, lacking stamina but lovable withal. Mrs. Boyd interpreted her character with appreciation and sympathy.

A talk concerning the work and methods of Pinero preceded the reading of the play and a short discussion of the problem involved followed.

Bessie Love Will Feature Children's Matinee

The Saturday morning matinee at the Howard theater this week will please the kiddies immensely, for the program is full of unexpected and interesting features. The feature picture in which Bessie Love will have the leading role, will be "The Sawdust Ring." It is a picture with a fascinating plot, and the adventures of the little girl and little boy who run away to join the circus will be followed with breathless interest. Not only will this feature film be found most attractive but the comedy is sure to find enthusiastic applause, for in "Sunnyside," Charlie Chaplin does some fine stunts and is guaranteed to keep the observer in gales of laughter.

In order that the program may be varied and therefore more entertaining, the educational film this time will show the children at the Sheltering Arms, what they do and how they live. It is a splendid picture and its attraction will be enhanced by the prologue which will be directed by Mrs. Marion Harper, head of the Sheltering Arms, and will feature some of the children from the institution.

In addition to the afore-mentioned attractions there will be a slide showing the words to the song, "The Message of Stone Mountain," which won the Stone Mountain song prize. The children will learn these words so that they may sing the song on Memorial day. Miss Kate Harolson will direct them in order that they may learn the song as it should be sung.

At the Alpha theater will be seen Art Acord in "White Treachery," the second episode of "The Oregon Trail," a Consolidated film with plenty of thrills and good acting. There will also be a first-run, two-reel Mounted Police story starring Irving Cummins, "Tricked," and another Consolidated film, a comedy, called "A Howling Success" in which Brownie, the wonder dog, will perform.

Mrs. Lemmon, chairman of chaperones, announces that at the Howard Mrs. Frances Jones and Mrs. A. J. Young will be on duty, and at the Alpha there will be Mrs. G. H. Guy and Mrs. R. C. Bostwick.

Mrs. Ashby To Lecture.

Mrs. Rose M. Ashby, psychologist, has returned from Chicago and will give an instructive lecture on "Powers of Mind" Sunday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel. Both men and women who are interested are invited to attend.

"PROUD TO SAY CARDUI DID IT"

Nashville Lady Attributes Good Health to Cardui. Says She Was Suffering Agony When She Began to Take It.

Nashville, Tenn.—Mrs. Dudley B. Stuart, 519 Ash street, this city, recently made the following statement: "Before I started taking Cardui, I was sick in bed. I weighed 90 pounds.

"My mother came to see me and told me to get Cardui. My husband went to town and brought home two bottles which I took. At once I began to improve, although up to that time I had taken medicine but it had not helped me at all. From the first dose of Cardui my appetite began to come back.

"I had been suffering from female trouble . . . was so weak and in such a run-down condition. That was two years ago. . . . I kept on taking Cardui as a tonic.

"My appetite is good. I certainly owe a lot to this fine medicine. Nothing did me any good until I began to take it. It made me gain 48 pounds. I don't weigh quite so much now on account of the baby nursing, but I feel perfectly well. I am very grateful for what it has done for me, for I was suffering agony when I began to take it."

Writing later of her experience in the use of Cardui, Mrs. Stuart said: "My health is better now than ever and am proud to say Cardui did it."

Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

INSTALLMENT NO. 78.

"IN VAIN."

I stare at mother a moment.

Could it have been possible that woman, sitting before me, the grotesque product of her own vanity, had really brought two daughters into the world? Had she really ever been a mother?

Else then, with a living mother and a living sister, might have to go through the valley of the shadow with none of her own blood near. Else, little butterfly girl, little white moth!

Mother could have helped so much with the sacrifice of just a small part of her personal comfort. No monitor stood over her with a dollar clad threat. The fortunes of the family, even a little of Else's comfort, depended upon me. I could not go where I wished when I wished!

And I realized then that it was a little of mother's spirit in myself that had induced me to marry Jonathan. Else had been more like Father.

Friday, August 3.

This day dawned hot and breathless.

From the first light, a haze, vibrant with heat has hung over the city. The flowers at my window have dropped for want of air. Not a leaf has stirred. A merciless sun has born down all day unrelentingly.

After breakfast Jonathan sought the basement rooms to read away a day too warm for exertion of any sort. But I was restless. I wandered about unable to find a place in which I could content myself.

Presently I told Jonathan that I should drive a while. Once in my motor I turned naturally toward Washington square and a window where I knew a red geranium drooped.

Jimmie—My Stranger of days gone by—opened the door for me. We have found it easier to face each other with the continuation of our meetings. And from the start it was something of a silent agreement that we act like two who had only just met. Else does not know that her Jimmie was once My Stranger, the man I dreamed of, the man I wept over.

Else was ill, desperately ill. I found it the test of my courage to stand by and helplessly watch her sufferings.

Towards noon, with the sun blazing down from a metallically blue heaven, the physician ushered into the world a new life, a little girl.

I watched the baby, a pitifully thin little thing.

Presently there was a hoarse cry from the new crib with its soft new sheets, a hoarse cry and the little new life had fluttered away.

The doctor shook his head.

"I was afraid of that," he said, "better not let her know."

And Else, little butterfly girl, who had so courageously gone into the depths and brought back with her another sould, vainly, was too spent to care how the world moved about her.

Suddenly I realized with a start that it was past my luuch hour. Jonathan would be waiting and impatient. It seemed barbarous to go and leave them thus, these two who had dared so much and suffered.

I moved toward Jimmie—My Stranger that was.

"I'm sorry—but—I'll have to go now," I said putting out my hand. It was the first time our hands had touched since the terrible introduction. Else stirred uneasily at the sound of my voice, but did not open her eyes. I looked at her to hide the pain which I knew he must see if my face as his fingers closed over mine.

That noon the raving of Jonathan fell on deaf ears.

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER XXXIX

Leonie Makes Progress.

In her luxurious appointed first-class stateroom stood Miss Leonie Day, a bouquet of Malmaison roses in one hand, and an exquisite spray of orchids in the other.

"I'm popular, I am!" said she, whimsically, regarding first the one gift, the the other. "Which shall I wear tonight? And with what gown?"

The floor shook beneath her feet, so that she lurched a little, and put out a steadying elbow against the big writing-desk that was set against the wall.

"And neither the orchids nor the roses have come from my fiance!" she remarked again. "Maybe they'll wake Miles up a bit, and make him jealous!"

She decided on the orchids. They were more expensive-looking and would be the very thing for the Lanvin model.

And the donor—nearly sixty—was so rich!

Leonie pressed a button in the wall marked 'Steward—Ring Once,' and when the man appeared, gave him the roses.

"Put them at my end of the captain's table, please, and see that they are arranged nicely."

"Very good, madam. Anything further I can do for you?"

"Ask my stewardess to come along in fifteen minutes and fasten my frock. That will be all."

The man withdrew.

Leonie commenced on the absorbing task of "making up" her face. She was a past mistress at this art, but tonight the Atlantic was bad-tempered, so that the hand that wielded the small brush upon her lashes shook a little, and some of the mascara got into her eyes.

Below her breath she said a tiny swear-word, though her mood was amiable.

Warwick Treman had really done the thing in style for her, aboard this gigantic vessel! She was traveling "de luxe," and her ready wit, good humour and smart clothes had given her the facile popularity she craved.

A tap came to the door, and Lady Warrington appeared. She wore a red kimona and a worried lok.

As for the latter, Leonie expected to "use" the rich woman to the limit.

Lady Warrington intended to rent a summer home in Long Island and fill it up with a stream of amusing visitors. Miles and she could have their wedding there!

As for going into business in New York, there was time enough for that. Lady Warrington had offered to be a "sleeping partner," and Miss Leonie was "considering" the offer.

But marriage first—with Miles—was, of course, her immediate objective!

Miles hadn't been very lover-like aboard this boat! Leonie had even wondered if he weren't rather annoyed with her for coming?

That had rather disconcerted her, but the attention she had received from the male end of the passengers—and they had now been three days outward bound—had reassured her as to her own potent charm.

The two women went in to dinner, Leonie resplendent in the Lanvin model with the orchids in the corsage.

She walked through the glass doors into the great dining-saloon and up to the captain's table in the very center, with an air of fashion and of conquest.

"Such lovely roses!" he remarked, trying to make an effort, and lifting a long-stemmed flower from its fellows, to inhale its perfume.

"Mine!" said Leonie succinstly. "And do look at my orchids! They came from the ice-chambers of the ship this afternoon, with compliments of Mr. Sturtevant."

Miles did not seem impressed. He smiled and raised his brows.

"That old codger! He must be nearly seventy."

Miss Ruth Rhorer Is Honor Guest.

An interesting event of Friday's social calendar was the luncheon at which Mrs. Julian Thomas entertained at the Capital City club in lovely compliment to Miss Ruth Rhorer, a bride-to-be of next week.

The richly appointed luncheon table had as an effective centerpiece a mound of snapdragons, tulips, roses and jonquils. Surrounding this were silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers. Hand-painted cards marked the places of the guests.

The guests were Mrs. Thomas, Miss Rhorer, Mrs. John R. Simpson, Jr., Mrs. Bagley Wright, Miss Mary Rhorer, Miss Christine McEachern, Miss Elizabeth Whitman, Miss Kate Palmour and Miss Sarah Orme.

Mrs. Brown Is Distinguished Guest.

Mrs. Edwin J. Brown, of Seattle, Wash., wife of Mayor Brown, spent Friday in Atlanta as the guest of Misses Helen and Jean Douglas, en route to Washington, D. C., as a delegate to the continental congress.

Mrs. Walter Sims, wife of Mayor Sims, entertained Mrs. Brown informally during her visit, and after an automobile ride through the residential part of Atlanta, an informal tea at the Atlanta Woman's club was given in compliment to Mrs. Brown by Mrs. R. M. Boykin, president of the club, and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson.

Mrs. Sims wore black satin, and her hat matched her gown.

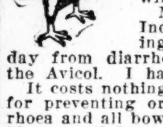
The Georgia women have made wonderful progress in beautifying the Bankhead highway in every county through which it traverses in that state. They will have a wonderful report to make at the meeting of the Bankhead Highway association, April 18. Mrs. R. K. Rambo, chairman of the woman's commission Bankhead Highway association for that state, will head a large delegation that will be in attendance at the convention.

How To Raise Baby Chicks

Put Avicol in the Drinking Water

Most people lose half of every hatch, and seem to expect it. Chick cholera, or white diarrhoea, is the cause.



An Avicol tablet in the drinking water will save your chicks from all such diseases. Within 48 hours the sick ones will be lively as crickets.

Mrs. Wm. May, Rego, Ind., writes: "I was losing 10 or 15 chicks a day from diarrhoea before I received the Avicol. I haven't lost one since."

It costs nothing to try Avicol. Use it for preventing or treating white diarrhoea and all bowel diseases of poultry. If not satisfied, your money promptly refunded. Sold by your local dealer, or send 50c for package by mail prepaid (or $1 for large size holding 2½ times as much). Burrell-Dugger Co., 214 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

(At Atlanta Theater.)

But two opportunities remain for those who have not yet seen the film classic, "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood." Positively the final performances at the Atlanta theater are announced for today at 2:30 and 8:30. Those who have not yet seen this picture should not fail to avail themselves of one of the two remaining opportunities to do so.

Starting with a matinee on Monday, next, at 2:30 and continuing throughout the week at 2:30 and 8:30, the Atlanta theater will offer D. W. Griffith's latest sensational thrill, "One Exciting Night."

In announcing his new picture to the public generally, Mr. Griffith has this to say about the production:

"We ask your welcome for our new offering—a little romance, and just a little mystery, with, we hope, just a few thrills; and we trust you who have suffered in the throes of love will smile a little with the romantic Romeo. We hope you will find entertainment in 'One Exciting Night,' and we shall feel amply rewarded if it makes you forget your own little troubles during the performance."

(At the Lyric.)

Jimmy Joy's entertainers, the snappiest jazz organization seen at the Lyric in some time, will close their engagement at the Lyric with three performances today. Joy's company, which consists of seven talented musicians and a pair of classy song and dance artists, leave nothing undone in the jazz line.

Other splendid features on the last half bill are; McCormick and Wallace, a team of celebrated ventriloquists, George Bobbe and Betty Stark present a mirthful travesty on married life. Hall and Dexter, in a novel variety offering, "Her First Lesson;" and Mang and Snyder, master athletes in feats of strength and skill.

CHARLIE AND POLA WILL NEVER WED, CLAIMS MILDRED

Chicago, April 13.—Take it from Mildred Harris, the former wife of comical Charlie Chaplin, this engagement of Charlie to Pola Negri, the Polish film tragedienne, is the bunk.

"He never had the slightest thought of marrying her," Mildred was quoted as saying, as she hopped from the Overland Limited from San Francisco to the New York-bound Twentieth Century.

"They had only met once before their engagement was reported. The whole thing was cooked up in Europe before Negri ever came to America by a press agent who received Charlie's permission to use his name while he was enthusiastic over her acting in a picture he had just seen. They will never marry. I gave Charlie a world of experience in our short married life that he'll never get over."

Perhaps, however, Mildred is better qualified to speak of her own marital prospects.

"I still believe in love and marriage," she declared, "and I am engaged to Byron Munson, a Chicago boy now in pictures on the coast, and we're going to wait a little while and then marry. We're both too young yet."

NERVE PATIENT ESCAPES WATCH, DROWNS IN RIVER

Jacksonville, Fla., April 13.—Within a week of the time she would have been discharged from a hospital as cured of nervous trouble, Miss Edith Scott, of Napanee, Ontario, today slipped away from the hospital and jumped in the St. Johns river. Her body was recovered several hours later. Miss Scott came here a short time ago for her health. A note addressed to her brother said, "there is something wrong in my head" and advised how to dispose of her belongings.

WOMEN'S CLUBS MEET

Anniston Man Dies of Injuries Under Truck.

Anniston, Ala., April 13.—(Special.)—The state convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs convened in Anniston Friday for their annual meeting, the session being opened with a reception in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. N. E. Ory.

Miss Ita Stocks, of Gadsden, president of the state association, and about 100 delegates from the twelve clubs in the state are in attendance at the meeting.

Fatally injured Wednesday night when the truck he was driving ran over his body after he had fallen from the front seat, Oscar L. Wicher, 50, died at St. Luke's hospital Thursday from the head and chest injuries he sustained in the fall.

Wicher was a well-known transfer man of the city. He was returning home after a fishing trip below Oxford with Byron Shelton, Elliott Munroe and Tom Kirk, the latter being slightly hurt at the time the driver was fatally injured.

The body of Wicher was interred in the cemetery at Edgemont Friday.

W. H. McFarlane, local carpenter, was painfully hurt Thursday afternoon when the horse he was driving became frightened and ran away. Mr. McFarlane was thrown from the wagon and rendered unconscious.

The injured man was removed to St. Luke's hospital but was able to return to his home after about four hours at that place.

DR. HOMER D. BROOKINS VISITS LOCAL SCHOOLS

Dr. Homer D. Brookins, associate editor of the Watchman-Examiner of New York, and a representative of the American Baptist Home Mission board, was in Atlanta Friday for the purpose of visiting Morehouse college and Spelman seminary, which are partially supported by the mission board. Dr. Brookins announced his intention of writing several articles relative to the conditions he found the schools in, and to the general conditions existing in the south.

He left Friday night for South Carolina, where he will visit a number of institutions fostered by the mission board. Dr. Brookins has visited nearly every institution in the south in which the board is interested, and stated that he was more than pleased at the reception given him by the southern people.

Board Deprecates Story of Convict Of Buying Escape

Brooks County Commissioners Ask Investigation by Prison Commission.

Quitman, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) At a called meeting of the county board of commissioners of roads and revenues in Brooks county at which all members of the board were present, the following resolution was unanimously adopted in regard to sensational charges made by an escaped convict that prisoners were permitted to buy their liberty from the Brooks county chaingang:

"Having read in the papers of Georgia the charges made by Mason Owens, an escaped convict from the Brooks county chaingang, that Charley Youngblood, son of Superintendent F. M. Youngblood, has been paid to allow and assist convicts to escape and that thousands of dollars worth of supplies were being stolen and misappropriated each year at the Brooks county chaingang camps:

"Resolved by the county commissioners of Brooks county—

"1. That we regret exceedingly that the affidavit of Mason Owens, which reflects upon the administrations of the prison commission of Georgia and the county commissioners of Brooks county, should have been given the publicity it has without first investigating to ascertain whether there was any truth in the charges or not. Appreciating the fact that though there may not be a scintilla of truth in the charges we deprecate that these charges should have been scattered broadcast throughout the state because we know, if investigation should establish the fact that the charges are untrue, it will be almost impossible to disabuse and eradicate from the minds of the public the impression already made by the charges.

"2. We invite and request the commission of Georgia to investigate said charges either alone or jointly with this board, and pledge said commission every assistance in our power to ascertain the truth in regard to same.

"3. That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the prison commission of Georgia.

DELEGATION REPROVED BY SECRETARY WEEKS

States Organization's Endeavors Aid Those Who Are Disloyal.

Washington, April 13.—A group of men and women affiliated with the National Council for Prevention of War had a conference today with Secretary Weeks, during which they explained the aims of their organization and reiterated charges that Brigadier General Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, had made unwarranted attacks on the council in the public addresses.

After the conference, Secretary Weeks issued a statement in which he said he had told the delegation that while he did not "accuse them of being disloyal citizens," and did not think they were, he was "afraid they were engaged in endeavors which were giving succor and aid to those who are disloyal."

"Then I asked them to point out," the war secretary's statement continued, "in just what way they believed any modification could be made in the military establishment of the United States or in its disposition how there could be a reduction in expense or other matters. To this there was no definite reply."

200 Quarts of Liquor Found in Automobile, No Arrests Are Made

Alexandria, La., April 13.—Two hundred quarts of liquor, a part of the stock of an alleged band of rum runners who, the police assert, are operating between New Orleans, Shreveport, Texas and Oklahoma, were confiscated here yesterday, when the police took charge of an automobile in which the whisky was hidden.

The automobile bore a Louisiana license, but a Texas license plate was also found in the machine. No arrests were made.

MAN IS KILLED; HOLD POLICEMEN

Columbus Man Shot While Being Pursued by Police — Believed Auto Contained Liquor.

Columbus, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) Shot through the head as his touring car, driven by his wife, crossed Broad street going west on Fourteenth after a spectacular chase, punctuated with pistol shots, Tom Britt, died this afternoon at the City hospital immediately upon his arrival there.

Motorcycle Patrolmen C. D. Hall and E. D. Welch, who joined the chase policemen started five miles from the city on the Whitesville road, tonight gave themselves up at the county jail, where they were being held on a charge of murder in connection with Britt's slaying.

According to information obtained from county officers, the chase started when Mrs. Britt, the victim's wife, indicated by her driving that she was trying to escape. Britt boarded the car with his wife a short distance from the point where she was first seen by the officers, it was stated.

The police were making an effort tonight to establish facts concerning the shooting, which occurred as Britt's car crossed Broad street, headed for the Fourteenth street bridge.

Motorcycle Patrolman Hall admitted in a statement that his revolver was discharged accidentally one time, when he was about 100 feet behind the fleeing car. Officer Welch stated that he fired twice at the tires of Britt's machine. Both declared that they were not shooting at the occupants, and that in their opinion theirs were not the fatal shots. Assistant County Chief Hadley, who was driving the car containing three other county police, stated that none of his party fired during the chase. He did not see anyone shoot, he said.

It was believed by the county officers that Britt's car contained whisky, and reports were to the effect that a small quantity of liquor was thrown from the machine after it crossed into Alabama.

COMMISSIONS PLAN JOINT CONFERENCE

North and South Carolina to Co-operate on Tenor's Problems.

Raleigh, N. C. April 13.—The farm loan commission, created by the 1923 session of the North Carolina general assembly to study tenant problems of the state, will co-operate with a similar body appointed by the South Carolina legislature and a joint conference will be held May 11, Senator D. F. Giles of North Carolina, announced here today after a meeting of the North Carolina commission.

Members of the South Carolina commission have been in communication with Senator Giles and the proceedings have reached a stage where it is possible, according to the senator, that a joint report may be submitted to the two state general assemblies. The place for the first joint conference has not been selected, but it probably will be held in some city in the western part of North Carolina.

The North Carolina commission meanwhile, will make a tour of this state to investigate conditions and will start April 21 with a trip through the eastern portion of the state.

Virginia Commission Puts Nominal Fine On Ku Klux Chapter

Richmond, Va., April 13.—Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, incorporated under the laws of Georgia, was fined $50 by the Virginia corporation commission today for doing business in this state without authority of the commission The fine was made nominal, it was stated, because the violation was "technical and unintentional." The commission acted on complaint of former local members of the klan after the Richmond chapter withdrew from the parent organization.

"Freshies'" Green Caps Enlist Sympathizers Among Fair Co-Eds

Evanston, Ill., April 13.—Northwestern university "freshies" who get the razzberry from upper classmen all day long, because of the green caps they are forced to wear, have at last found sympathy.

"If freshmen have to wear green, we'll wear green, too," declare the university's co-eds and promptly named a committee to see just what particular article of clothing shall be green.

It hasn't been decided yet, but someone has suggested bloomers.

MATHILDE WEDS MAX IN LONDON

ward declared, while he was giving her instructions at his riding academy in Zurich.

Mathilde's mother is known to be opposed to a match between her daughter and Oser. Shortly after she received the divorce in Chicago from her husband she asked the courts for an injunction to prevent Oser and Mathilde marrying until she became of age. At that time she branded Oser as a "fortune hunter" without adequate funds to support her daughter in the manner to which she had been accustomed.

May Come to U. S.

The court, however, ruled that it had no jurisdiction over the heart affairs of Mathilde. It was later reported that McCormick had agreed with his former wife that their daughter would not marry until she became of age. Mathilde has just reached eighteen.

Mrs. McCormick, undoubtedly, was expressing the views of her father, John D., when she attempted to prevent the match. Rockefeller once stated publicly that he was opposed to international marriages.

It is likely that Oser and Mathilde will go to the United States to live if they really have been married.

Reports from Switzerland state that the two left that country some time ago and went to England to be married. They were not wed in Switzerland, it was explained, because there is quite a bit of red tape connected with an international marriage.

Oser is thrice the age of Mathilde.

Expect Changes In High Command Of Naval Fleet

Recommendations for Readjustment Await Secretary Denby's Return.

Washington, April 13.—Changes in the high command of the American navy are expected to follow Secretary Denby's return today from his visit with the fleet. Recommendations for the readjustment were on the secretary's desk when he reached the department, and he already had been urged to expedite action.

It is understood the suggested changes included the following:

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, now chief of naval operations, to command the combined fleets, succeeding Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who would go to the general board.

Rear Admiral Thomas Washington, chief of the bureau of navigation, to command a foregin squadron, probably the Asiatic fleet. He would be succeeded by Captain Richard Leigh, now assistant chief of the bureau.

Command of the battle fleet held for the present in abeyance with Admiral S. S. Robinson, a member of the general board, heading the list of officers recommended.

Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt, also a member of the board, and one of the two advisors to the American arms conference delegation, to command the scouting fleet.

Changes in command of most of the individual battleships also are in prospect, and several already have been announced.

WAYCROSS MAYOR DEFENDS ACTION IN CLOSING SHOW

Waycross, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Defending his action in closing certain alleged gambling devices at the carnival in Hebardville on last Saturday evening, Mayor Dan T. Cowart has replied to the published attack made upon him by eleven citizens of Hebardville, claiming that the city charter of Waycross granted to the city authorities the right to go one mile beyond the city limits to enforce the law of the state.

The mayor further claimed that the carnival was pitched only 200 yards from the city limits, and stated that certain citizens of Hebardville had requested him to close the alleged gambling devices if possible, and that he had warned the carnival authorities and their attorney, Mr. Blalock, that the city police department had jurisdiction one mile beyond the city limits.

Tracing the history of the case before the city commissioners, Mayor Cowart launched a defense of his action and closed by vigorously attacking the county officers, in what he described as a neglect of their duty, in allowing the "gambling dens" to remain open.

Rural Mail Carrier Is Held for Alleged Thefts Along Route

Macon, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) Charged with appropriating money from people along a rural mail route, Homer V. Blalock, a young mail carrier of Pineview, was given a preliminary hearing today before W. E. Martin, United States commissioner. He made bond in the sum of $500.

Blalock admitted his guilt, stating he had taken money from persons along his route when asked to purchase and mail money orders. It also is stated a number of C. O. D. packages have not been accounted for. Blalock is a young man, recently married. His father accompanied him to Macon.

Spanish Committee To Determine Basis Of American Treaties

Madrid, April 13.—The Spanish overseas congress today decided to appoint a committee to determine the exact basis for treaties of commerce between Spain and the American republics with the object of bringing about better trade relations.

Suggestions were made that some difficulty might arise in the cases of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines owing to their connection with the United States, but it was finally decided that this could be overcome by inserting a clause in the treaty with the United States whereby Spain would be entitled to grant special treatment to these three countries.

CHAPTER XII.

"Oh, night, did you say
My love had grown false to me?
That his vows like a breath passed away,
As the blossoms fall from a tree?
Was it the wind said: 'Thy love is gone?'
False wind, thou wert never true!
The whipporwill plaints for the dawn;
Poor soul; was your love false, too?"

We must now return to Edward Thorne, whom we left watching the great sea-plane, which contained his rival, until it disappeared from sight in the distance. It was scheduled to make no more stops until it reached its destination—the opposite side of the world.

This fact assured him Smith would not be able to communicate with his fiancee for at least a fortnight—probably longer. It was now the 11th, and the wedding was set for the 24th.

True, he had some qualms of conscience regarding his share in the affair, but he did his best to condone his offense by assuring himself that

"All was fair in love or war."

It had simply been his intention to show Smith up, in his unfit condition, before Clairena and her father; how was he to know that it would end by landing his rival on a far-off shore?

A score of times he was tempted to see the colonel and make a clean breast of the whole affair, but he put the thought from him to see how fate, or destiny, would work the affair to the finish.

During the following week he did his best to see Clairena, but her father frustrated every attempt.

On one occasion he waylaid one of the young ladies who was to be one of her bridesmaids, on her way home from the Vail place.

From her he learned that the preparations for the grand wedding were going merrily on. "Clairena will look like a dream; she tried on her bridal gown for us to see. Not one of us had heard that it is considered not the proper thing to do, until the bride dresses for the great event," she added.

"I suppose Miss Vail is—very—happy, as all girls making ready to be married usually are," he ventured.

"Clairena is not very demonstrative; she does not enthuse as I should over life's greatest event," laughed the young lady, looking up through her long lashes into the face of the handsome man before her.

Thorne thought of a scheme which he proceeded to put into execution at once. "Will you carry a message from me to Miss Vail—a—a note? As I am to be best man, and Smith is far away, there are a few minor details I should like to talk about with Clair—I mean, Miss Vail, about."

"Certainly," was the reply, as she looked at him, suppressing a roguish giggle. She happened to know, as every one else did, how fond Edward Thorne had been of her friend Clairena. She knew, too, that Clairena had had more than a passing fancy for Thorne. She, like all of Clairena's friends, had been more than surprised when her betrothal to Smith had been announced—they had been so sure she would wed Ed Thorne.

Drawing a blank check book from his pocket—the only bit of paper he had about him—he scribbled a few words upon it, folded and handed it to her. "Do not let her father see you give it to her," he cautioned; "she might not like to have him interfere in what she desires."

"Mum's the word," replied the young girl, taking the note from his hand and turning back to the house.

In the corridor she met the colonel. Was it only her fancy, or did he give her an unusually sharp glance from over the top of his spectacles?

"I must see Clairena again for a minute," she declared, darting up the broad stairway to the floor above. She knew she would find her friend in her boudoir—quite alone.

Her step was so light Clairena did not hear her enter. The sight that met her gaze amazed her. Clairena sat in the midst of her finery with a portrait in her hand—the portrait of Thorne.

Her friend would have retreated unseen, but she was too late to carry out this project. Glancing up at that instant, Clairena beheld her. A deep crimson flush suffused her face, leaving it the next instant paler than before.

"I was requested to bring you this, Clairena," she said, laying the crumpled note in her friend's lap, adding: "I can't stay a minute; I'm in so much of a hurry; bye-bye, dear."

"My dear—Miss Vail—would it be presumptuous of me to ask you to see me for a few moments only—on your porch—western wing—at eight this evening? Important.

"Edward Thorne."

Within that silent chamber during the next hour, Clairena Vail fought the battle of her life in trying to decide whether she should meet Edward Thorne, or not.

She hoped her father had not seen her friend return with that note in her hand; but that was exactly what had happened.

Looking out of an upper window through his field-glasses at a passing aeroplane, glancing down, he had observed Thorne, and his meeting the other side of the gate with one of Clarena's bridesmaids. He saw him hand the note to the young girl and witnessed her return to the house.

"That fellow is still determined to communicate—even clandestinely—with my daughter," he ejaculated angrily. Like the careful general he was, he began then and there to lay his plan to frustrate any scheme Thorne might have put forward to talk with Clairena.

He knew it would be most unwise to seek Clairena in her room and demand of her the note which she must have received from Thorne; he must get at the matter in a more strategic manner. He must certainly prove himself more clever than a young and unsophisticated girl.

He felt like giving the object of his annoyance a good caning and would have done it if it had not been for the fact that Thorne was to be the best man at the wedding.

The Colonel noticed that Clairena looked unusually pale as she took her place at the dinner table opposite him. He noted, too, that now and then she glanced uneasily at the clock on the mantel.

"You must come into the drawing room and sing and play for me, my dear," he suggested as they arose from the table.

"Please excuse me this time, father, I—I have other matters I wish to attend to."

"I must ask you to spare me at least an hour. You will not refuse when you know my reason, which is: I shall hand over to you this evening the jewels, very sacred to me, which it was your dead mother's wish that you should have, as your wedding day drew near."

Clairena burst into tears. "Let us put it off until tomorrow night, father," she sobbed. "I feel so upset tonight."

"I am going to tell you now, what you never knew before, dearie, and that is, I came within an ace of never marrying your mother, on account of an old lover who persisted in his attempt to win her from me."

Clairena gave a violent start, but he pretended not to notice it.

"The day before the one set for the wedding I met him on the high road. I would have passed him, but he placed himself squarely before me, insulting me grossly.

"There was nothing else that a man of spirit could do but knock him down, which I did. Then there followed the fiercest battle that was ever fought outside of a prize ring.

"We were both equally matched in strength and the manly art of self-defense. Two friends had been walking with me; two were with him. The four made a ring about us, both sides declaring we should have fair play, the best man winning. It must be a survival of the fittest. We fought like madmen for some time, neither gaining a supremacy over the other. Then, just as my strength seemed almost about to leave me, I delivered a well-directed knockout blow to my opponent, which settled the matter.

"I was a little the worse for the punishment I had received, but after a little patching up, which, fortunately, was not noticeable, I was able, the next day, to proceed with the ceremony."

"Oh, papa, how terrible!" sobbed Clairena.

"A surprise is in store for you when you hear who my rival was," chuckled the Colonel; "as you could never guess, I might as well tell you. He was the father of Edward Thorne."

"In the course of time we were in the same regiment together. I had lost your mother; somehow, through the hell of battles, shot and shell, we patched up our differences, forgetting and forgiving past enmity.

"He married, and I wished him well, though we never visited each other's home. His son looks exactly like his father did in those days I do not care now to recall.

"I do not know why I tell you all this tonight; perhaps it is because it lies so heavily on my heart—recalled by the memory of all that preceded my marriage to your dear mother. Now will you look over the jewels with me?"

To his intense alarm, Clairena fell back in his arms in a swoon. The clock struck eight as he was carrying her upstairs to her room, touching the electric button for the housekeeper, in whose hands he placed her.

To his surprise, as he stepped out on the porch of the western wing he came face to face with Thorne. In an instant the younger man had regained something like composure.

"Your daughter sent for me, sir," he announced boldly; "I suppose it is something pertaining to the ceremony. I am here in response to the request. May I see her?"

"Not tonight! She must have forgotten about the appointment, and has retired," returned the Colonel blandly.

Thorne turned away with a bow, inwardly fairly cursing his ill luck, and the Colonel, who had instituted himself Clairena's bodyguard.

How Raleigh Met His Death.

(From Adventure Magazine.)

Never a man who loved his life as dearly as Sir Walter loved it met death as birthday. He dressed himself for the scaffold with that elegance and richness which all his life he had observed. He wore a rough band and black velvet-wrought nightgown over a doublet of hair-colored satin, a black wrought waistcoat, black cut taffeta breeches and ash-colored silk stockings. Under his plumed hat he covered his white locks with a wrought nightcap. This last he bestowed on his way to the scaffold upon a bald-headed old man who had come to take a last look of him, with the observation that he was more in need of it than himself. When he had removed it, it was observed that his hair was not curled as usual. This was a matter that had fretted his barber Peter in the prison of the Gatehouse at Westminster that morning. But Sir Walter had put him off with a laugh and a jest.

"Let them comb it that shall have it," he had said of his own head.

Having taken his leave of the friends who had flocked about him with the observation that he had a long journey before him, he called for the ax, and, when presented to him, ran his fingers along the edge, and smiled:

When presently the executioner bade him turn his head to the east—

"It is no great matter which way a man's head stands, so that his heart lies right," he said.

Defeating a Hold-Up Gang.

One of the most complete and clean-cut defeats of a hold-up gang that has ever occurred was the officer at Eureka Springs, Ark., just a few miles from Harrison, on September 27 last. The score was three of the gang killed and the other two seriously shot up and now recovering but in jail. No one else hurt and not even a plate-glass window broken.

Four of the gang, some of whom are said to have belonged to the old Starr gang, entered the First National bank at 11 in the morning, leaving one outside with a car. At first they stood around for a moment, and Cashier E. B. Smith, sizing them up, turned in the bank's robbery alarm which sounded bells in the other bank, in the telephone office and in the Basin Park hotel. The result was that when the four robbers emerged with $70,000 in loot and Cashier Smith and Assistant Cashier Sawyer between them as hostages, they found their car driven away, the driver killed, and a number of determined armed citizens facing them from all directions. Smith and Sawyer had the presence of mind to break away from the rattled robbers, and the gun battle commenced. When it was over all in eight minutes from the start of the hold-up, Wilson and George Price were lying dead; Mark Hendricks, the car driver, was dying, and Charles Price and John Cowan were helpless with wounds.

Helpless.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

MEMBERS OF ACES HEARD IN SOLOS

"Shucks" Parks and Bob Pittman Again Delight Listeners to Early Broadcast With Imaginary Picture.

Listeners to the 6 to 7 o'clock broadcast from station WGM last night were given a delightful hour's entertainment by individual members of Warner's Seven Aces, The Constitution orchestra, who were heard in a number of instrumental solos. Each one led his trump card, showing that they are truly "Aces."

Byron H. Warner, director of the popular Aces, headed the program with a piano solo, Zez Confrey's "My Pet," and later gave Greig's "Butterflies" in addition to the piano accompaniments for the other members of the orchestra. Byron certainly "tickled the ivories," his fingers traveling from one end of the piano to the other in quick succession.

El Pritchett, saxophonist, gave a repeat of "Caprice Viennois" at the request of numerous listeners and was also heard in the solo, "By the Waters of the Minnetonka."

Tom Brannon, manager of the Aces, delighted listeners with "Absent," "Lonesome, That's All," and several other numbers as trumpet solos. It is only necessary to say that Tom "toots" a mean horn—all other explanations being superfluous.

The feature of the evening was a return engagement of the beautiful and touching seven-reel motion picture, "A Cowboy's Honor," which was presented to fans several days ago. As Bob Pittman's banjo sprung a leak in the differential, he was unable to play it and he was pressed into service in announcing the titles of the picture, while "Shucks" Park, drummer and xylophone soloist, played the piano arrangements for the imaginary picture in imitation of the fashion in vogue at the nickleodions of pre-Volstead days.

At the conclusion of the picture "Shucks" gave a perfect imitation of an electric piano and also delighted listeners with his reproduction of a negro "jazz" number. Besides being one of the best four-hammer xylophone artists in the south, "Shucks" has proven himself to be one of the most versatile radio entertainers before the public today. His fingers are as nimble in getting over the ivories as his wrists are in manipulating the hammers in a difficult xylophone number.

The Aces will not be heard from Station WGM until next Monday night, when they will be back on the air on the early broadcast with a number of late orchestrations given in the "truly Warner" style.

STATE OF GEORGIA,
COUNTY OF FULTON.

To the Superior Court of Said County:

The petition of T. C. Cox and J. L. DeGive, both of said State and County, and Walter Hauk, of DeKalb County, Georgia, respectfully shows:

1. That they desire for themselves, their associates and successors to be incorporated under the firm name and style of "PETRO-PHENYL COMPANY," for the period of twenty (20) years, with the privilege of renewal, as provided by law.

2. The principal office of the corporation shall be in Atlanta, Georgia, but petitioners desire for the corporation the right to establish branch offices and agencies elsewhere within and without said State and in foreign countries.

3. The capital stock of the corporation is to be Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars, to be divided into shares of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars each, but petitioners desire for the corporation the right to increase said capital stock at any time, and from time to time, to any amount not exceeding Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) Dollars, such increase to be issued as common or preferred stock, or part common and preferred stock, in such proportion and under such conditions of preference as a majority in amount of the stockholders then entitled to vote shall determine.

4. They desire for the corporation the right to, at any time, decrease the capital stock of the corporation to any amount not less than Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars, upon similar vote, upon compliance with the law in the premises.

5. The object of incorporation is pecuniary gain for the stockholders, and the particular business of the corporation is to be the purchase, manufacture, compounding, acquisition, sale, distribution and other disposition of a perto-pheny lcompound and other drugs, medicaments, patent and proprietary medicines, remedies, salves, lotions and similar preparations in liquid, solid, powdered and other forms, and toilet preparations.

6. Incident to the purposes of incorporation, your petitioners desire for the corporation the right to purchase, lease, hold, acquire, encumber, sell, improve, distribute, convey and otherwise dispose of real and personal property; to issue, hold, sell, hypothecate and otherwise dispose of bonds, securities and other evidence of indebtedness; to borrow money and secure the same; to acquire and dispose of patents and patent rights; to acquire, own, hold, vote and dispose of stock in other corporations where not expressly prohibited by law, and to exercise any and all rights, functions and privileges necessary or convenient in the prosecution of the business of the corporation, that are now or may hereafter be conferred upon corporations of like nature.

7. Petitioners desire for the corporation the right to procure amendments to its charter at any time, upon the vote of a majority in amount of the holders of stock, then entitled to vote, whether such amendments may be formal or vital, fundamental, material and radical.

George M. Brown, Jr., prominent young Atlanta business man and president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, addressed station WGM's audience of listeners on the 9:30 to 10:30 broadcast last night. The subject of the ten-minute address was "Home Ownership."

Mr. Brown's remarks were forceful and to the point. He explained plans for owning a home and told in simple and plain terms the methods which should be followed in acquiring property.

Mr. Brown's message was a strong appeal for home ownership and was an enjoyable feature of the late broadcast.

MISS CROSSLAND PRESENTS STARS

Gifted WGM Star Will Be Supported by Array of Well-Known Atlanta Artists at Early Hour.

The early broadcast from Station WGM tonight will be arranged and sponsored by Miss Myrtle Crossland, lyric soprano, who will be supported by a group of talented Atlanta artists, including Mrs. W. P. Horne, pianist; Miss Sadie Jones, reader; Miss Frankie Dell Sasser, pianist; W. P. Horne, baritone, and Wilbur Sasser, baritone.

Listeners to the "old reliable" station—WGM—have been entertained and thrilled on numerous occasions by the unusual quality and beauty of tone of the lyric soprano voice Miss Crossland possesses. She will be heard at the early hour tonight in a number of well-known classical and semi-classical songs.

Mrs. Horne, a talented and accomplished musician, will be heard in several piano solos and will give the piano accompaniments for a number of the vocal solos.

Miss Jones will offer several entertaining readings for the entertainment of listeners as her contributions to the early broadcast from Station WGM.

Miss Sasser is an exclusive WGM artist whose delightful piano solos have been distinct features of programs on which she has appeared. She will give the piano accompaniments for the vocal numbers by Miss Crossland in addition to several piano solos.

Mr. Horne will be heard in several delightful baritone solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs Harne.

Wilbur Sasser has thrilled listeners to this station upon numerous occasions and his rich baritone voice will be heard to distinct advantage on the early broadcast from Station WGM tonight.

"Exceptionally Clear."

ENJOYABLE TREAT ON LATE PROGRAM

Bowling-Smith Orchestra Will Be Heard in Late Orchestrations on 9:30 Broadcast From WGM.

The 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock broadcast from Station WGM tonight will present the Bowling-Smith orchestra in a number of the latest orchestrations of song and dance hits. The personnel of the organization is as follows: W. C. Bowling, drummer and manager; W. W. Smith, trombonist and director; L. V. Johnston, pianist; Wells Semon, violinist; Wayne West and A. P. Smith, saxophones; F. C. Thompson, banjo, and L. B. Gresham, trumpet.

For one solid hour, the ether will be full of some of the snappiest orchestrations ever offered through the microphone of Station WGM. The Bowling-Smith orchestra is one of the best-known musical outfits in Atlanta and has pleased Atlanta dance-lovers with "jazzy" extravaganzas for some time. When they "tune up," dancers just can't make their feet behave, and devotees of terpsichore swing along to the rythmic accompaniment of the various instruments played by "ragtime mechanics" who know something about the operation of "jazz" music machinery.

Besides the orchestrations, members of the orchestra will be heard in instrumental and vocal solos. The following is just a tip on what is in store for listeners but does not, by any means, include the whole program:

"Who Cares?"—fox trot.
"She's a Mean Job"—fox trot.
"Bees Knees"—fox trot.
Violin solo—Wells Semon.
Vocal solo—L. B. Gresham.

In addition to these numbers, the orchestra, which enjoys enviable popularity with Atlanta dancers, will be heard in numerous other late hits which are now being played throughout the country. Listeners may be assured that a treat is in store for them and the late broadcast from Station WGM tonight promises to be one of the most enjoyable presented in several weeks.

In Vermont.

Dear WGM.—I enjoyed your concert and program very much. Received here clear and distinct.

Sincerely,
CHAS. W. STEELE,
Highgate, Vermont.

LATE BROADCAST VERY ENJOYABLE

Mrs. Taylor, Professor Leffingwell and Miss Watts Present Delightful Concert for Listeners.

A delightful program of interest to music lovers throughout the nation was offered on the 9:30 broadcast from Station WGM last night, presenting an array of some of Atlanta's most talented artists. Those who passed before the microphone of Station WGM included Mrs. Norwood Key Taylor, pianist; Miss Emily G. Watts, mezzo-soprano, and Professor W. W. Leffingwell, violinist.

Mrs. Taylor, Atlanta teacher of piano, an artist of unusual gift and accomplishment, was heard in several piano solos, including Paderewski's "Menuet," displaying unusual technique and interpretation in the difficult passages of the numbers which she offered. She also gave the piano accompaniments for the violin solos in a very acceptable manner.

Miss Watts, who has endeared herself to listeners of this station with her beautiful mezzo-soprano voice one of unusual range and strength of tone, contributed much to the quality of the late broadcast with her rendition of "Auf Wiedersehn," "At Dawning," "Little Grey Home In The West," "I'll Forget You," and several other classical and semi-classical numbers.

Professor Leffingwell, one of the most prominent figures in Atlanta musical circles, has appeared on numerous programs from this station. He enjoys enviable popularity with listeners of the nation. His numbers, including "Cavatina," "Elegy," "Berceuse," Mendelssohn's "Andante," Greig's "To Spring" and "Souvenir," the latter given at the special request of listeners, were distinct features of the 9:30 broadcast from Station WGM. It is difficult to do justice to the interpretative ability and lightness of touch of this distinguished artist. Station WGM is fortunate in being able to present an artist of such merit for the entertainment of its listeners and fans will be pleased to learn that he will be heard again from the "old reliable" station of the south at an early date.

CHAINGANG TRUSTY IN CLARKE COUNTY FOILED IN ESCAPE

Athens, Ga., April 13.—(Special.) After 15 years on the Clarke county chaingang where, as a model prisoner, he had won the right to the privileges of a "trusty," Jack Bone, white, made a dash for freedom Thursday.

Bone's attempt at escape was frustrated, however, when officers apprehended him at Carlton, on the Seaboard Air Line railroad late in the day where he had gone to catch a train for North Carolina.

Bone was sitting in the station at Carlton, having purchased his railroad ticket. He was captured by Warden Estes and County Officers R. A. Saye and Ed Johnson. He was brought back to the county convict camp and his privileges withdrawn.

Miss Bessie Friedman, of Seattle, Wash., made a new record for speedy typewriting when she wrote 132 perfect words a minute for a full half hour, without an error.

ELKS TO INITIATE 1,500 WEDNESDAY

Approximately 1,500 will be initiated at the elaborate initiation ceremonial which is to be held by Atlanta lodge of Elks Wednesday evening at the Auditorium. Prominent business and professional men will be included among those who take their degree on this occasion, with Governor-elect Clifford Walker heading the list.

The ceremonial will be conducted by the ritual team of Philadelphia lodge, the best known of its character in America. An elaborate and beautiful series of pantomimes and dramatic sketches will be staged during the ceremonial.

Two special cars have been chartered to bring the Philadelphians and their properties to this city. Included in the group will be 24 men, officers of the Philadelphia lodge, members of the dramatic teams, stage carpenters and electricians.

Georgia Elks Coming.

Also coming to Atlanta for this event will be several hundred Elks from all parts of the state of Georgia. Practically every large city will be represented. A party of 50 has chartered Pullman accommodations from LaGrange, and special reservations have been made by lodges at Elberton, Douglas and other points.

It is said by Elk officials that this ceremonial will exceed anything of its kind ever witnessed in fraternal circles in the southeast; it will be a prelude to the convention of the grand lodge of Elks which is to be held in Atlanta next July.

There will be a great street demonstration by the lodge prior to the ceremonies on Wednesday evening. A parade, which will number some three or four thousand men, will form at 6 o'clock at the Elks lodge, and will proceed from that point on East Ellis street by way of Ivy street to the junction with Peachtree street at the Imperial hotel, up Peachtree to Whitehall, to Mitchell, to Washington, across the viaduct to the Auditorium.

Elk Band to Play.

This parade will be headed by a special squadron of mounted police, followed by the Elks' band of 78 pieces, under Mike Greenblatt, in turn will come the uniformed patrol of the lodge under the command of Captain Joseph R. Cooke. The patrol will give special military formations and other demonstrations during the line of march; then will come the officials of the Atlanta lodge and of the Philadelphia lodge, followed by members of the Atlanta lodge, and lastly the novitiates.

Meet Philadelphians.

The Philadelphia degree team will reach Atlanta Wednesday morning at 10:55 o'clock over the Southern railway, they will be met at Brookwood station by special representative committee headed by Exalted Ruler Judge L. F. McClelland and taken in motor cars to the Piedmont hotel. An informal luncheon will be served at the hotel at 11 o'clock, following which the Philadelphians will hold a rehearsal at the Auditorium at 1 o'clock when the stage properties will be placed and all preparations will be made for the magnificent spectacle which is to be staged later in the evening.

The degree team is headed by Charles H. Grakelow, exalted ruler of Philadelphia lodge No. 2, who is also the grand esquire of the grand lodge and will have charge of the parade in Atlanta during the convention in July. He will be accompanied by the following members of the lodge, who will take part in the ceremonies: R. Arthur Dittong, esteemed leading knight; Dr. E. M. Bartlett, esteemed loyal knight; Jacob Teitelbaum, esteemed lecturing knight; Rev. T. W. Davis, chaplain; William J. Seymour, esquire; Louis N. Goldsmith, P. E. R. and D. D. G. E. R.; Charles W. Christman, Lt.; Samuel T. Banham, Mortimer B. Gleason, Andrew F. Beuhler, George Hartzell, Morrie Wolf, Charles L. Hardican, James J. Collins, E. J. Mahlmeister, William C. Cadzoe, David N. Walters, William H. Derr, John P. Miller, J. W. Mordell.

TRAIN HITS AUTO NEAR LORANE, GA.; YOUTH IS KILLED

Macon, Ga., April 13.—Berner Scott, 16, of Holton, Ga., was instantly killed this afternoon and Gordon Dossey, 15, of Holton, was seriously injured when a northbound Central of Georgia passenger train struck the automobile in which they were riding.

The accident happened about 300 yards south of Lorane at a private road crossing. The touring car in which they were riding was smashed to pieces. Dossey was rushed to a Macon hospital in a private automobile.

The Dossey boy's father, who lives near the scene of the accident, saw the wreck, and with H. K. Burns, whose child had got out of the car a short time before, rushed the injured boy to Macon. His injuries are not believed to be mortal.

Dossey discussed the wreck tonight at the infirmary and told of stopping the machine because he knew it was about "train time." They didn't hear anything, he said, but almost as soon as they had made the grade leading into the railroad cut, the train was upon them.

C. C. Miller, of Macon, engineer of the train, applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a quick stop.

According to Dossey's story, he and Scott had been attending the Howard school, a short distance from Lorane. A school bus, operated by Fred Powers, had broken down and young Dossey, with his father's car, was assisting in taking the children home. A load of passengers had just been delivered when the train hit them.

The accident today is the third that has happened at or near Lorane in the last few months. Last summer six people were killed at the Lorane crossing and a short time later an automobile, belonging to C. A. Cunningham, Macon lawyer, was wrecked when it stalled on the tracks. No one was in the machine.

Smallest Seaplane Flown Successfully At Cleveland, Ohio

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13.—The government's new military seaplane, said to be the smallest in the world, was flown successfully for the first time here today. After the flight, permission was asked of the navy bureau of aeronautic to increase the size of the elevator control surfaces, Test Pilot T. J. Scott Williams reporting that the adjustment would make the ship easier to handle.

Atlanta Urged To Aid in School Census Canvass

Workers Have Met With Little Co-operation Up to Date, It Is Said.

An appeal to citizens of Atlanta to co-operate with school officials and census takers now engaged in conducting a survey of the local school population was made Friday by Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, in a formal statement directed to the people of this city.

A corps of experts has been engaged for the past three weeks in making a house-to-house canvass to ascertain the correct number of children of school age residing in Atlanta, this work having been met with very little co-operation from citizens, according to Mr. Sutton.

"To the People of Atlanta:

"The Atlanta public school system is now making a careful and painstaking survey of the school population of this city. We are attempting to get as nearly an accurate census as can be had of the school children of Atlanta. Those who are making this survey report that there are may obstacles being placed in the way of their progress. For instance, many of the people who are called upon to give information concerning the number of children in the home and their ages send word to our census enumerators that they are busy, at the time, and to please call again. Others report that they are resting and cannot be disturbed. Hundreds of such excuses are being given to our census enumerators that are making the work of taking the census in Atlanta exceedingly difficult.

"I wish to appeal to the citizenship of Atlanta to help us in making this an accurate census. I wish to appeal to you in behalf of the pride which we have in our city. We claim a population if 225,000 to 250,000. If our claims should not be substantiated by our school census, we will be discredited in the eyes of the world.

"I appeal to the citizenship to help in the school census in order that the school department may know how to lay out its school districts and how to provide for children of the city. The people of Atlanta desire that their children shall attend the nearest school. Unless this census is accurate and complete, it will be absolutely impossible for us to lay out the school districts in such a way that we can provide a seat for the children in the school nearest to their home.

"I appeal to our citizenship to help in the cause of this census on the ground of fairness to our city in relation with other cities of the state. For every child who is enumerated in this census, the city of Atlanta will receive a certain definite sum during the next five years. With the growth of Atlanta, developing so rapidly, it will be very hard for us to run the school on the money allotted to us during the next five years. For every child enumerated, the city will receive the amount of $4.88 per year. This will amount to $25 during the next five years. If for any reason these children should fail to be enumerated, it is simply making the burden of the tax payers of the city greater, and causing the school system to lose a very definite amount of money. I urgently beg of every citizen of the city that in case any child has not been enumerated that that child's name is telephoned to the City Hall, Ivy 4463, and that we secure the name and address of the child and of his parents. Many children are attending private schools out of the state, many children of school age are working in the offices down town. Every child who has passed the age of six and has not reached his nineteenth birthday should be counted in this census.

"I appeal to the civic clubs, to the business organizations, to the churches and the Sunday schools, to the women's clubs, and to every organization of every type to assist us in making this a very thorough census of the Atlanta school population."

Hardwick Approves Claim for Provisions Furnished Militia

Approval of a claim for $3,284.84 presented by the law firm of Wilson & Bennett, of Waycross, for subsistence furnished troops of the state militia last fall who were assigned to riot duty in that city, was made Friday by Governor Hardwick after it had been recommended for payment by Adjutant General Lewis C. Pope.

General Pope commanded the unit of national guardsmen which patrolled Waycross for two weeks when trouble was anticipated from striking railway employees.

ENDEAVOR TO STAGE MOCK SCHOOL CLASS

Classes in "readin', writin' and 'rithmatic" will be held at the Pryor Street Presbyterian church Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock at a mock school session, which is to be held by the Christian Endeavor society of the church.

The meeting is planned as one of the most unique services in the history of the society, and will be partly humorous in character. The regular business of the society will first be considered, and there will follow addresses by members of the "school board." The new orchestra of the society will furnish music. The meeting will be led by Miss Idelle Sinquefield.

PLEADS FOR PREACHERS WHO HAVE GRAY HAIR

Young ministers should not endeavor to displace old ones who have labored and made sacrifices to build up the church to its present standard, is the opinion of Bishop J. S. Flipper, who delivered an address to the members of the South Atlanta district conference during the week's gathering in Pleasant Valley A. M. E. church.

Several ministers contributed remarks during thec onference, which will close Sunday afternoon with a mission mass meeting, with Rev. J. A Hadley in the chair. He will speak on "Extension of Missions."

FEDERAL PROHI AGENTS CAPTURE FOUR STILLS

Capture of four stills having a combined capacity of 2,200 gallons, the destruction of 6,000 gallons of beer, seizure of two motor boats and the arrest of six men featured in liquor raids made on islands in the Chattahoochee river Friday, according to Fred D. Dismuke, federal prohibition director.

The raids were made several miles north of Columbus, it is said, and were conducted by Agents Kincaid and Allen, assisted by Harris county officers.

FIVE SEEK PLAYGROUND SUPERVISOR'S POSITION

Five applications for the position of supervisor of city playgrounds, made vacant by the death of Miss Ludie Holland, have been received by the park committee of council from Atlanta women. Those applying are Miss Minnie Womack, Mrs. Clarence Bagley, Miss Olga Robinson, Miss Mary Buchanan and Mrs. Joe Haley.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN TO REST IN MAYSVILLE

The body of James M. Sims, confederate veteran, who died Thursday at the Confederate Soldiers' home, was taken Friday to Maysville, Ga. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. H. Venable, Mrs. C. E. Marlowe and Miss Daisy Sims, all of Maysville, and three sons, James J. and Ed Sims, of Maysville, and Robert Sims, of Dahlonega.

Admits Narcotic Sale.

Athens, Ga., April 13.—Dr. E. K. Wheelis, Athens physician, pleaded guilty in federal court here today to sale of narcotics. Judge Samuel H. Sibley will pass sentence April 26. The physician admitted he had purchased 14,000 tablets of morphine sulphate at various times during the last two years.

New York, April 13.—The cotton market opened steady on relatively steady cables and wet weather map but turned very weak during the middle of the day under realizing or liquidation on prospects for improving weather conditions over Sunday. July sold off from 28.75 to 28.27 or 40 points net lower and closed at 28.45 with the general market closing barely steady, 21 to 32 points net lower.

The market opened steady 7 points lower on August, but generally 4 to 7 points higher on the Liverpool cables and unsettled weather in the south. The weather news, however, created an impression that the storm was moving eastward, with a prospect that it would be followed by gradually clearing conditions, and prices soon turned easier under realizing. Reports of a less active demand for cotton goods and complaints of a continued poor spot demand, evidently increased the disposition to liquidate long contracts, and the selling became more general and active when the detailed weather reports showing very heavy rains over the belt, failed to stimulate fresh buying. May broke from 29.50 to 29.01 and October from 25.92 to 25.43, with the general list showing net declines of about 30 to 41 points. Some stop orders were uncovered on this break and last prices showed rallies of some 12 to 18 points from the lowest on the old and early new crop deliveries on covering. There were rumors that southern mills had bought enough cotton to keep them going pretty well through the balance of the season, and part of the selling here seemed to be based on a belief that there would be very little improvement in spot demand for the near future, unless there should be a scare over the crop start.

Private cables said there was a poor trade demand in Liverpool, and that the advance there had been chiefly due to buying on less favorable crop news, but the local market paid very little attention to the rain news from the belt. Port receipts today 4,746. United States port stocks, 544,712. Exports, 706, making 4,124,177 this season. The week-end figures had no apparent influence on the day's market.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, April 13.—Spot cotton quiet; middling, 29.35.

N. O. MARKET WEAK AT CLOSE.

New Orleans, La., April 13.—After a small advance on the opening the cotton market turned easy today and spent the greater part of the session in a sagging movement which finally in the late trading, had prices 40 to 43 points under the last quotations of yesterday. The close was at net losses of 27 to 30 points. At the highest, around the opening, the trading months were 4 to 7 points over yesterday's close. May sold as high as 28.88, as low as 28.40 and closed at 28.52; October sold up to 25.38, down to 24.94 and closed at 25.04.

The advance in the early trading was due to very heavy rains in several cotton states, much better cables than due, the passing of the crisis in British politics and a private estimate of 640,000 bales as March consumption of cotton in this country. Heavy liquidation came on the market and new selling also became heavy, induced by expectations of clearing weather over the belt, reports of continued quiet in the spot department and the estimate of only 35,000 pieces as the week's sales of print cloths in the Fall River market.

The week-end statistics attracted attention and were considered highly bullish but did not stimulate any buying of consequence. Mills of the world took 177,000 bales of American cotton this week against 144,000 this week last year while the visible supply of American cotton suffered a loss of 114,743 bales and was reduced to 1,937,023 bales against 3,363,115 a year ago and 4,144,884 two years ago.

News, Views And Reviews

COTTON LETTER.

New York, March 13.—Just what will be the source of the influence that will rouse the market from its present state of lethargy or what the nature of that influence will be impossible to forecast or when it will make its appearance. For the time being, however, bullish news and facts are completely ignored and the ease with which rallies are checked and reversed is a constant source of encouragement to repeat the experiment on every occasion that offers. That this will be done once too often is probably true with fundamental facts as they are but the puzzle is to decide when that has happened.—Post & Flagg.

STOCK LETTER.

It looks as if bear traders had overplayed and overstayed their market. The pressure from the entire list seems removed. Even the old stocks resist further pressure and professional traders seeing their position in danger are apt to cover and go long of list as sentiment in street is again more cheerful. The coming week is apt to again see the resumption of forward movement.—Doremus, Daniel & Co.

STOCK OPINIONS.

(Supplied by Doremus, Daniel & Co.)

Thomson McKinnon—Making due allowance for normal fluctuations and frequent rallies, we continue of opinion that stocks should be sold on the bulges.

Hornblower Weeks—Stocks are a buy, not minding temporary drives to facilitate covering. We think current prices will present the best opportunity that you will have this spring for buying stocks.

Block Maloney—We look for a nervous stock market for few days with lower prices for certain issues. Possibly the oil shares, where the heaviest trading has been.

Tobey & Kirk—The market conditions indicate irregularity, although careful buying of special stocks for trading profits should prove satisfactory.

STOCK LETTER.

New York, April 13.—Trading quited down in the early afternoon and a sagging tendency developed, although there was no real pressure with the exception of marine stocks, which apparently are reflecting nervousness over possible dividend omission at the next meeting in June. In addition to which some are of the opinion that the A. I. C. Co. are liquidating their holdings in the Marine Co. Steel stocks held fairly firm. The following is from the Wall Street Survey and Forecast on R. B. C.:

"Report for March quarter will be out next week and is awaited with much interest. Wall street is curious to know if recent forecasts of $4 to $5 earnings for the first three months of the year will prove to be corerct. At the annual meeting of stockholders, President Topping contented himself with stating that earnings for the first quarter were substantially in excess of the preferred dividend requirements and that prospects were report would make a satisfactory showing. Rep. Steel is favorite with the trading element, which is taking great interest in the forthcoming statement for the March quarter."

The general market is still professional and may continue so far a few days, after which the upward trend should be resumed.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, April 13.—Mr. Hester's weekly figures were bullish enough to have stimulated buying under ordinary conditions with the possibility of record-breaking consumption figures following close on their heels but somehow the public seems to be standing on the sideline waiting for the selling movement to run its course or crop developments that will start a covering movement.

It looks to us like it will take continuous selling pressure to keep values on the down grade in view of the reports of delay coming in. We doubt if the selling will be kept up much longer unless the weather turns favorable.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

Though the weather continues generally unfavorable, there are some signs of clearing in the southwest but the Atlantics and central states show a continuation of cloudy weather which will retard crop prospects still further. In view of the weather conditions, the market continues uneasy and on the first signs of real good weather, we would not be surprised to see further liquidation. There seems to be a pronounced lull in dry goods and though the mills are busy, no booking of fall orders is evident for fear of cancellation. Until the market receives some fresh stimulant, we look for an easing off in price.—Hubbard Bros & Co.

SMALL CHANGES IN BOND MARKET

Indecisive Movements Ascribed to Large Amount of Undigested Securities Hanging Over Market.

New York, April 13.—Few important changes took place in today's irregular and dull bond market.

Reports were circulated in the financial district that Great Britain had placed an order to buy $100,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds earlier in the week. Under the terms of the debt refunding agreement these bonds will be accepted at par in the payment of principal and interest, the next installment of which comes due in June. Price fluctuations in these securities today were extremely narrow, closing prices either being unchanged or showing losses of 1-32 to 3-32nds of one point.

The indecisive movements in the general list were ascribed to large amount of undigested securities hanging over the market. Since the first of the year new offerings have totaled approximately $1,250,000,000, about $200,000,000 of which are reported to be on dealers' shelves.

Active foreign bonds showed only fractional changes on the day. Sugar companies liens were moderately strong in sympathy with higher commodity prices and some of the independent steel company issues improved fractionally. However, Donner Steel refunding 7s dropped 1 1-4 yielded fractionally. Carolina, Clinchfield at 96 1-2, dropped as low as 89 on field and Ohio 6s, recently offered points and United States Steel reports that the syndicate was about to be dissolved.

Total sales (par value) $8,462,000.

COLLECTIONS DRAGGING BRADSTREET'S REPORTS

New York, April 13.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"There is still a good deal of irregularity in the various lines of trade and industry, with the latter, including building and collections, at opposite ends of the scale, the former being more active than was ever known, whereas collections are dragging in a notable way. For this latter condition, cold weather, which has been and is retarding retail sales and to some extent jobbing business, is held mainly responsible. Cold or stormy weather continued until well toward the end of the week to hold back country retail buying and practically all farm work, which is now unquestionably late, both north and south.

"City retail trade, favored by bright though cool weather, shapes up better than does country trade, but mail order trade is growing rapidly. Soil conditions, except in the extreme western part of the winter wheat belt, are generally such that a few days of warm, dry weather will enable farm work to be prosecuted actively. Weekly bank clearings, $7,152,725,000."

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, April 13.—After advancing 8 to 10 points on scattered buying inspired by the firmness in lard and grain, cotton seed oil reacted with cotton and closed unchanged to 3 points net lower. May closed 12 points over lard and July 7 points under. Sales, 9,100 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot, $11.90@12.25; May, $11.82; July, $11.83; September, $11.73, all bid.

Sugar.

New York, April 13.—Raw sugar was less active today but prices were unchanged at 5⅞c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 7.66c for centrifugal. There were sales of 25,000 bags of Cubas for prompt shipment to local refiners.

Raw sugar futures were easier during the early operations with prices selling off six to nine points on active positions. In the afternoon, however, prices rallied on covering and trade buying, prompted by private cable advices from Cuba, reporting the closing down of several additional centrals with out-turns well below earlier estimates, and final prices were unchanged to 2 points net higher. Closing, May, 5.86c; July, 6.06c; September, 6.21c; December, 5.87c.

Net Gains Exceed Losses In Uneven Stock Market

DAY'S SUMMARY.

High, 1923, 90.63; low, 84.53.

Further reductions in rediscounts and note circulation shown in the weekly federal reserve statement, easier money rates and the substantial increase in March reports caused a revival of bullish enthusiasm in the early dealings with gains of 1 to points being recorded by a number of widely diversified issues. This buying power was soon spent, however, and trading slackened materially. Bears succeeded in picking out a few weak spots but they failed to make much headway except in the last hour when they forced material recessions in some of the shipping shares.

Marine preferred dropped 2 1-2 points to 36, a new low record for the year, weakness of this issue reflecting speculative fears for the next dividend. American Ship and Commerce and American International corporation yielded in sympathy.

Most of the usual leaders showed little, United States Steel, Republic, Baldwin, Studebaker, Sinclair and American Can all closing within 1-4 of a point of yesterday's final figures. Tobacco stocks were strong. Reynolds Tobacco B closing 2 3-4 higher and United Retail Stores, General Cigars, American Tobacco and the B stock gaining 1 1-4 to 2 points.

Some of the motor accessories also were heavily bought. Stewart-Warner rising nearly 3 1-2 points and Bosch Magneto, Stromberg Carburetor and Reynolds Springs 1 to 2 points. Other strong spots in the industrial list were Sloss-Sheffield Steel, United Fruit, Texas gulf sulphur, Crucible Steel, American Brake Shoe and Beechnut Packing, all up 1 3-4 points or more.

Rails again were mixed but some good buying power developed in a number of the low priced issues. Delaware and Hudson continued under pressure, dropping 2 1-2 points to 110 1-2, or 14 points below the year's high.

Call money held at 4 1-2 per cent. Banks were still demanding 5 1-2 per cent for time money but accommodations were made at 5 1-4 per cent for most 30 and some 60-day maturities.

New commercial paper was received in fair volume with prime names commanding 5 and 5 1-4 per cent.

Trading in foreign exchanges was dull with price movements the narrowest in some time. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.65 1-2 and French francs held fairly steady around 6.70 cents.

OIL ISSUES GAIN IN CURB MARKET

Maracaibo Touches New Top—Recovery in Other Shares in Oil Group Noted.

New York, April 13.—Short covering operations furnished the impetus for the irregularly recovery of prices in today's curb market.

Speculative interest was again centered largely in the oils. Maracaibo touched a new top at 21 5-8, later forfeiting most of its gain, and the 7 per cent notes, which are convertible into stock, sold at 210 also a new high. Ohio Oil recovered the ground lost yesterday when it announced a cut of 10 cents a barrel in crude prices and Standard Oils of Indiana and Kansas each closed about a point higher.

Schulte Stores touched 93, a new peak price on a declaration of an $8 dividend on the common, payable quarterly in cumulative preferred stock. It dropped later to 91. Timken Detroit Axle touched 13 3-8 for the first time on publication of a report showing earnings of $8,000,000 in the first quarter as against $3,000,000 in the same period last year. Durant and Stutz Motors made moderate gains.

Narrow and irregular changes characterized the trading in the mining shares.

White Potatoes.

Chicago, April 13.—Potatoes, slightly stronger on white stock; steady on other stock; receipts, 105 cars; total United States shipments, 931; Wisconsin sacked round whites, $1.25@1.40; Minnesota sacked Red River Ohios, $1.15@1.25 cwt.; Idaho sacked rurals, $1.25@1.40 cwt.; Idaho sacked Russets, $2.00@2.15 cwt.; Montana sacked Russets, $2.00 cwt.

Metals.

Tin, easy; spot and futures, $46.62.

Zinc, steady; East St. Louis and nearby delivery, $7.45@7.50. Antimony, spot, $8.50.

WHEAT ADVANCES ON EXPORT REPORT

July and September Score New High Prices for Season—Market Closes Unsettled.

Chicago, April 13.—Helped by reports that 1,000,000 bushels, largely domestic, had been taken for shipment to Europe, wheat today scored a decided upturn in value, with July and September touching a new high price record for the season. The market closed unsettled at 3-8 cents to 1 3-8 net advance, May $1.25 3-8 to $1.25 1-2 and July $1.23 to $1.23 1-8. Corn finished 1-8 cent to 1-2 cent off, oats varying from 1-4 cent decline to 1-8 cent gain, and provisions up 7@10 cents to 17 cents.

With the Liverpool market displaying strength, wheat traders here took quite generally to the bull side. Demand here was further stimulated by reports that crop conditions were especially adverse in Nebraska and that unfavorable weather prevailed in the northwest and southwest. Liverpool dispatches meanwhile referred to a good inquiry from European continental countries.

Toward the close, however, news that showers were taking at several points in the drought section of Kansas tended somewhat to weaken the confidence of bulls. A late break in the corn market was likewise responsible for more or less selling on the part of holders of wheat. On the other hand, estimates were current that spring wheat acreage in the northwest would be cut as much as 25 per cent owing to seeding delays and to scarcity of farm labor.

Persistent selling ascribed to leading longs depressed the corn market after an advance in sympathy with wheat had lifted September delivery to a new high price record for the season. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were firmer, influenced in some degree by reports of good demand from Germany for fat backs and for lard.

Bankers Advise Caution In Time of Prosperity

Betterment of Business Already Is Noted as a Result of Conservatism, Says Observer.

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, April 13.—Oil shares were heavy again today, acting as a bumper on the rest of the market. Early in the day there was some further short covering. Taken as a whole, however, the market again acted tired.

Much discussion was heard in the financial district of the weekly federal reserve statement which showed for the system, despite widespread general trade activity, a falling off for the week of $58,000,000 in bills discounted and a shrinkage of $188,000,000 from the high for the year. Bankers here say an increase of rediscount to a new high peak for the year will come when general trade commitments contracted for, but not yet due, must be financed.

However, it is pointed out that one of the encouraging features of the general credit situation is the betterment of business as a result of caution. On every hand quick turnovers are being made, resulting in self-adjustment of working capital.

It is interesting and significant that caution is being urged from practically all sections of the business community at the very time when officials at Washington are so loudly proclaiming the soundness of the present business boom, the Journal of Commerce, a republican paper widely read by business men, stated today editorially. It is then pointed out that within the past few days serious warnings have been sounded by leaders in two industries where production is now at the highest in the history of the trade—steel and automobiles. Similar warnings, it is pointed out, have been uttered by leaders of the textile trade. It is then added:

"Altogether it is fortunate in view of the hesitancy shown by the administration that practical business men and bankers realize the dangers of over-expansion in the present prosperity boom."

Labor Shortage Is Key.

Realizing that the shortage in labor is the key to existing financial and industrial conditions in this country, Wall street bankers with their mind on this subject are trying to see into the future. It is realized that farm wages are entirely too low compared with the wages paid in industrial lines; that under such conditions the turnover will be great, caused by men leaving one line to go to another where wages are higher; that a falling off in individual efficiency under such conditions could be expected.

Until the immigration restriction law is modified the solution to the problem, it is believed, is in increased use of machinery wherever possible and in the natural working of the law of supply and demand. When wages in any industrial line force the selling price of the goods turned out too high, demand will fall off, thus causing a falling off in employment in that particular line. Bankers and manufacturers are pointing out that a very short waiting line of employees in any particular industry has a very quieting effect on those who are fortunate enough to continue at work.

Good Buying in C. P.

Good buying in Canadian Pacific here and at London is attributed to the fact that part of the company's 5,606,000 acres of unsold land is in promising oil territory.

There was some very good buying in Republic Steel today by those who know what is going on in the inside. Wall street believes that buying is in anticipation of payment of accumulated back dividends.

March merchandise exports were $350,000,000 against $239,000,000 for the same period of last year, according to a preliminary estimate put out today by the department of commerce. No estimate was made of imports. For the nine months exports were $3,003,000,000, against $2,810,000,000 for the corresponding period a year ago. March gold imports are given as $37,346,000, against $33,488,000 and imports as $10,392,000, against $963,000. For the nine months gold imports were $209,311,000 against $435,000,000 and exports $46,993,000 against $20,795,000.

Reduction of a half cent a pound were announced in the selling price of various grades of crude rubber today. For some time the rubber market has been artificially held by London. Today substantial offerings were reported to have been made in London without takers.

Blast furnace capacity of the steel corporation is now given at 18,800,000 tons annually, the same as at this time last year, but an increase of 153 per cent over the time of organization.

JOE PERCY DROPS DEAD

City Employee Victim of Heart Attack.

Joe Percy, 66, well-known employee of the construction department of the city, dropped dead in front of 27 West Peachtree street while walking on the sidewalk Friday morning.

Mr. Percy lived at 222 Rawson street. He had been employed in the construction department of the city for a number of years. His body was removed to the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Coroner Paul Donehoo stated he would not hold an inquest, as there were several witnesses to the sudden death, which is thought to have been due to heart trouble.

TRAVELERS PREPARE FOR BIG CONVENTION

Members of the Travelers' Protective association of post "B" will hold their last pre-convention meeting and luncheon this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Peacock cafe. Reports of various committees will be read at the meeting, and final plans for the entertainment of more than 500 delegates at the Georgia convention will be worked out.

The convention will be held next Thursday and Friday on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel, and delegates from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

Emeralds are found in limestone and slate, occurring in lodes or as isolated crystals.

Exports From U. S. Show Increase For Last Month

Washington, April 13.—Exports from the United States during March were valued at $350,000,000 in a preliminary estimate today by the commerce department. The total compares with $307,106,350 for February and $329,979,817 for March, 1922.

For the nine months ending with March, total exports of the United States were $3,003,819,728, or $193,818,395 in excess of the exports during the corresponding nine months ending with March, 1922.

During March there was a net import of gold of $5,559,257, the department reported, which compares with $32,524,843 for March, 1922. While the total gold imports during March, 1923, amounted to $15,951,357, there were gold exports of $10,392,100. The gold inflow, which has fluctuated markedly during the last two years continued to show the declining tendency which officials and financial circles have announced could be expected. The gold exports during March have only been exceeded by the exports of one other month in the period running back to July, 1921.

There was an excess of silver exports over imports during March, 1923, amounting to $105,329, the department added, total silver exports being $4,731,705, while imports were $4,626,376. It is expected that detailed analysis of the merchandise exports of March together with corrected totals will be issued shortly.

INDICTED FOR LARCENY

Floyd Woodward and Three Others Named.

Calling to mind the probe which disclosed extensive operations of bunco men here, the Fulton grand jury Friday indicted Floyd Woodward and three of his alleged confederates on charges of larceny after trust.

The victim is said to have been Wade Lamar, of Aiken, S. C., who proved a valuable witness during the bunco investigation. He claims to have lost $11,500. Others named in the indictment are Lem Gleason, Robert Doyle and Fred Williams, the latter having been brought here recently following his arrest in Oklahoma.

The Master Strategist

THE SHELTERING ARMS

A baby, with little poultices of black bread tied to its hands, tumbling about the dirt floor of the cabin where the baby was alone. When hungry, the baby would whimper a bit, then fall to sucking the dirty little poultices of bread. The mother was away at work.

This picture of a working mother's home in far off Russia came to us at the last meeting of the Committee on Church Co-operation, when Mrs. Marion Harper, president of the Sheltering Arms association, was telling of the work of that organization in caring for the children of the working mothers in Atlanta.

Then we remember that, not in unhappy Russia, but in prosperous America, government experts have found, by careful investigation, that the babies, whose mothers leave them during the first year of their lives, to go out to earn their daily bread, die at a rate of four times faster than do the babies in more fortunate homes.

Remember this, one will see God's "everlasting arms" in "The Sheltering Arms," and there hear Jesus saying:

Caring for Children.

For every day throughout the year, in the four day nurseries maintained by this organization in as many different sections of the city, devoted women receive and care for a daily average of 250 children, ranging in age from a few months to 12 years, whose mothers must leave them to go out to work. Nurses, teachers, matrons and cooks are in each of these nurseries to give to these children the best of care that science and love can dictate.

Surely this is Christ's work, a work in which all Atlanta will want to share.

Tuesday, April 17 (next Tuesday), the Sheltering Arms will appeal to you for help. Mothers, wives and sweethearts (Are not all women and girls one or the other of these?) will be at street corners and in the entrances of stores and office buildings and wherever people are likely to pass offering tags to all who will give.

Tag day was originated by the "Sheltering Arms." And for years no other organization would use this method of raising money. It was felt by all that the day and method belonged peculiarly to "the Sheltering Arms." Then, during the great war, this was forgotten. Others started tag days until now it would sometimes seem that every day is a tag day and people are beginning to be restive under the constant appeal.

For this reason we are calling your attention particularly to next Tuesday.

Look About You.

Before going to town that day think of the little ones in your own home. If all of them are grown stop a bit and look at their pictures taken when they were babies. Or, if your home has not been blessed with children, recall your own childhood.

What would it have meant to you and yours if the mother had been compelled by want to leave the babies and go out to work?

Remembering, will you not voice a prayer for all mothers, babies and children, in the name of Him whose baby hands were kissed by the mother in the manger, because there was no room in the inn or elsewhere in Bethlehem for His suffering mother?

Somehow in the Sheltering Arms we seem to see His hands, marked with nail prints, outstretched, not upon a cruel cross today, but through the devoted hearts of the women of this organization, to lift and help the babies and children of less fortunate mothers.

With this prayer and thought in your heart, before leaving home Tuesday, look up the bill or the coin which you are going to give the Sheltering Arms and have it ready when woman or girl offers to tag you. Give it with a smile. And inwardly breathe a prayer for God's blessing upon the work of the Sheltering Arms.

The Church's Work.

Following the appeal of Mrs. Harper, Dr. Richard Orme Flinn gave the first report of the visible results, up until last Monday of the meetings now being held in 100 of Atlanta's churches. This report showed that there had been 1,141 accessions to 50 of the churches, 530 by profession of faith and 611 by letter.

The meetings in many of the churches will continue next week.

The noon meetings led by S. D. Gordon at the First Baptist church will continue throughout next week. Tomorrow, Sunday evening, at 3:30 o'clock Mr. Gordon will speak to a meeting of women at the First Baptist.

Mr. Gordon was present with the committee at its meeting last Monday. Those who heard his few minutes' talk there received an inspiration. He spoke with reference to world conditions.

"It's a tangled world we are living in," he said. "But we should remember that the untangling does not rest with us. The untangling is in the hand of the Master Strategist of the ages, even Jesus. To each of His followers the Master Strategist assigns a detail of His work. The untangling does not rest with us, but it does rest with us to be very clear about the detail assigned to each of us and to be faithful in caring for that detail."

Do you catch the vision?

These women carrying on the work of the Sheltering Arms are being faithful to the detail assigned to them. The help which we shall give them will be only a fraction of the detail assigned to us.

That detail may never carry us out of our individual home or it may carry us far afield.

Whatever "the detail" may be Christ will make clear and He will give us the power to carry on to completion, if we will only hear, believe and follow Him.

God's everlasting arms will be beneath us.

REPORTS ASKED OF BUREAUS AIDED BY PUBLIC FUNDS

All state departments, institutions, boards and bureaus aided in any way by public funds were called upon Friday for complete itemized figures on revenues and expenditures during the past year, in a letter sent out by Comptroller General W. A. Wright.

During past years these organizations have been required to report only on expenditures, but this year they must itemize their incomes additionally. The reports were called for by Comptroller Wright under the budget law adopted last summer by the general assembly. Final date for making reports was set for April 27.

90 Pound Woman Succeeds Where Officers Failed

Savannah, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—A little 90-pound woman from Atlanta who dropped quietly into town last night, within six hours after her arrival had efefctually accomplished more than the city administration, the police force, the civic and commercial organizations, and other forces of Savannah had been able to do in ten days of conferences and caucuses and talk, in swearing out three perfectly good warrants against a labor agent. J. H. Devereaux, of Atlanta, who, it is declared, has been the means of creating an acute labor situation in Savannah.

Devereaux paid $3,500 in all in cash for state and city licenses to solicit laborers for out of state employment, and is said to have sent out nearly 2,000 negro workers to North Carolina in the past three weeks, crippling fertilizer and other plants and the transportation activity.

According to Mrs. Elizabeth Franklin, the little scout woman of the department of labor, while Devereaux paid out his good cash for a license, he failed to otherwise toe the law. Warrants charge that he failed to put out legally required bond of $1,000; failed to make daily reports of his activity, as required, and failed to file application with the department of labor and commerce at Atlanta.

It is said, however, that Devereaux declares that he intended to "track" the law, that he did not know of all the requirements and that efforts will be made immediately to straighten out the matter with the capital authorities.

The bond of Devereaux was at first fixed at $3,000, but later he was released on parole in custody of his attorney, and still later bond was agreed upon at $1,000.

THOUSANDS SEE K. K. K. PARADE IN FITZGERALD

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Members of the Ku Klux Klan paraded the streets of Fitzgerald Thursday night on their way to the ball park, where a public initiation was staged. Several thousand people assembled, hundreds of out-of-town cars crowded the streets to witness the spectacle of seeing the klansmen.

Various placards bespeaking the purposes of the organization were carried in the parade. The Blue and Grey park was filled with automobiles and hundreds of people crowded the approaches to the ball park, where the initiation took place.

JURY DISAGREES ON "ARSENIC" WIDOW'S GUILT

Chicago, April 13.—Standing 10 to 2 for acquittal, the jury trying the case of Mrs. Nellie Koulik, alleged "arsenic widow," charged with the murder of her first husband, Wojcik Sturmer, was dismissed Friday, after B. R. Ladew, foreman, had told the court that an agreement was impossible.

Still wearing the same worn imitation sealskin coat and small black hat of an obsolete style, her worry-lined brow furrowed more deeply, the accused woman smiled faintly as the jurors announced disagreement.

Her three sons and one daughter, she had testified reluctantly about the many domestic troubles in the family Mrs. Koulik had with her first husband, crowded about their mother and congratulated her.

Although no motion for a new trial was filed by states attorney Friday, it was intimated Mrs. Koulik would be tried again.

Mrs. Tillie Klimken, a cousin of Mrs. Koulik, recently was sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury which found her guilty of feeding arsenic to her third husband, a habit which resulted in his death.

LIGHTNING STRIKES CEDARTOWN MAN; ARM IS PARALYZED

Cedartown, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Johnnie Camarata, the clerk of the Wayside inn, was struck by lightning here last night and his arm paralyzed from the shock. However, he is recovering the use of his arm.

Mr. Camarata was walking along the street and was near a transformer on a pole which was struck, the bolt, he said, came down the poll. His first impression was someone had struck him. Camarata is well known as an athlete, both at Cedartown High school and at Gordon institute.

FORTUNE AWAITS PITTSBURG GIRL MISSING 3 YEARS

Chicago, April 13.—After more than three years of searching for his granddaughter, Mary Langsdale, of Pittsburg, Pa., Henry Ullrich, president of the Economy Burner and Engineering company, was in Chicago today with news that $25,000 awaited the girl if she could be found.

The girl disappeared March 22, 1920, when she was 18 years old, according to Mr. Ullrich, and is heir to $15,000 from her great grandmother's estate and an additional $10,000 bequested by Ullrich's wife, who died recently. He said it was learned that after she left the home of her father, Mathias Langsdale, in Pittsburg, that she purchased a railroad ticket to Chicago.

'Clarence' Brings House Down As Tech Boys Cavort

Tarkington's Play Given Warm Reception in Auitorium of Woman's Club.

Before a good sized audience, considering threatening weather conditions, the Georgia Tech Marionettes presented their initial performance of Booth Tarkington's droll comedy, "Clarence," Friday evening at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium in a manner destined to please the most fastidious and exacting listeners, and with dramatic ability that would reflect credit on any academic stage.

Harry Ellerbe, who has won distinction in the role of comedian in other plays presented by the Marionettes, no doubt reached the height of his dramatic career thus far in his interpretation of "Clarence," which was so delightfully mirth-provoking that the play seemed at intervals to lag when he wasn't on the stage.

The feminine characters constituted the greater part of the cast, and foremost among these, Lawrence Petri, as Cora Wheeler, a petted and lovelorn young daughter of Mr. Wheeler, a capitalist, vivaciously and impulsively portrayed the temperamental modern young debutante.

The theme of the play, as everyone knows, is woven around Clarence, who ostensibly is a mechanic, a piano tuner and general man-of-all-work, but who masquerading as an ex-soldier and is in reality an authority on the phylum colentrata.

The scene opens in the office of Mr. Wheeler, where Clarence applies for work. Mr. Wheeler invites Clarence to his home, where the scenes of the great American family are vividiy portrayed in the following three acts.

There Clarence becomes the idol of all of the feminine members of the household, including the maid, and mystery with an abundance of humor predominates until the close of the last act.

Others who took part in the play were John Gill as Della, the maid; Hugh Saussy, as Hubert Stem, a fortune hunter; Roderique Brantley, as Mrs. Wheeler; Allen Bartlett, as Mr. Wheeler, and Delmar Robertson, as Mrs. Martyn. The play was staged and produced under the direction of Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson.

Malady Strikes Third Violator Of Tut's Tomb

Carnarvon's Photographer Laid Low by Mysterious Sickness.

New York, April 13.—King Tut's third victim is laid low with the same malady that killed the Earl of Carnarvon, according to a cable from Cairo received Friday by the family of Tom Terriss, Carnavon's photographer.

His wife and daughter here were informed that Terriss is seriously stricken by an infection which seems to his physician identical with Carnarvon's first ailment, before pneumonia set in.

Terriss is a member of a well-known English family of actors, and was one of the pioneers in the British movie industry. He was connected with the early Vitagraph and Cosmopolitan companies both as actor and producer.

The cablegram aroused once more among the superstitious talk about the possibility that a curse of an avenging spirit, hovering over Tutankhamen's remains, has followed up the earl's death and the illness of his assistant, Howard Carter, with an attack on another important member of the excavation expedition. Terriss took many of the important photographs of the relics in the tomb.

Maddened Dog And Cow Stage Vicious Battle

Hundreds of persons gathered in the backyard of the residence of Mrs. J. B. Dukes, of 301 Cooper street, and witnessed a vicious battle between a maddened bulldog and a cow, which resulted in the killing of the bulldog. So large was the crowd that a riot call was sent to police station, but before officers could reach the scene, Ed Hannah, of 302 Windsor street, had killed the dog, after firing at it 11 times.

According to Mrs. Dukes, the bulldog had a fight with another dog about a week ago and has shown a very ill temper at times since. She believes that the dog contracted rabies. The cause of the fight with the cow has not been learned.

The cow gored the dog with her horns and threw it against a fence, but the dog returned to the fray. Persons hearing the screams of a few children who were witnessing the battle rushed to Mrs. Dukes' yard and at the time Hannah shot the dog hundreds of people were present.

BURGLARS ENTER HOME AND STORE HERE ON FRIDAY

Burglars Friday night entered the residence of H. Wilensky, 387 Cooper street, and took $7 from a bureau drawer and $5 from a gas meter. Detectives H. L. Turner and B. E. Moon are investigating.

Effecting their entrance by smashing a large plate glass window in the grocery store of Poole & Bartlett, burglars stole a quantity of flour and other goods.

Carter to Continue Excavation in Tomb Of Tutankhamen

Cairo, April 13.—Herbert Carter, American assistant of the late Earl of Carnarvon, has so completely recovered that he expects to leave for Luxor next week to continue the work in the tomb of Tutankhamen, which was halted by the death of Carnarvon.

Carter, an American, expects to complete the work at the end of May at which time he will forward the treasures to Cairo.

BRYAN OPPOSES PUBLIC TEACHING OF DARWIN THEORY

Charleston, W. Va., April 13.—Legislation against teaching "as true," either "Darwinism or any hypothesis that there is a blood relationship between man and the animals," was urged by William Jennings Bryan in an address to the West Virginia legislature today.

"Don't put any penalties in your law," he said. "You are not dealing with a criminal class. All you need to do is tell them they can't do it and they won't do it. No man who believes that he's got the blood of a brute in him will be a martyr for anything."

DISTILLERY RAID BY AUTO BANDITS CAUSES BATTLE

Lancaster, Pa., April 13.—A band of men in ten automobile trucks and three automobiles was routed at the Elm distillery, near Lititz, late last night by two guards. An exchange of shots continued for some time until the men finally retired. More than $250,000 worth of whisky is stored in the warehouse.

This is the second attempt to raid the place in several months. It is believed that one of the raiders was wounded. Electric wires leading to the distillery were cut and plunged Penn township, in which the buildings are located, in darkness.

'FRIDAY THE 13TH, CONTINUES HOODOO TO SAVANNAHANS

Savannah, Ga., April 13.—(Special.)—Efforts on the part of enthusiastic and daring young people of St. John's Episcopal church to counter successfully the traditional hoodoo attached to "Friday the 13th" were frustrated today when an entertainment they had planned for this evening, a play entitled "Our Lucky Day, Friday the 13th," had to be called off on account of the sudden serious illness of the rector, Dr. W. T. Dakin.

Burial in Prison Yard Ends Dramatic Career Of Arizona Murderer

Florence, Ariz., April 13.—A career in which he had the leading role in dramatic murder trials in two states, ended today when Paul V. Hadley, was hanged at the Arizona state prison for the murder of Mrs. Anna C. Johnson.

The condemned man, convicted of slaying the aged woman after she and her husband had given him a ride in their automobile on the Arizona desert west of Tucson in November, 1921, met his fate without flinching and held to the last his claim of innocence.

The body, unclaimed by relatives was buried in the prison yard.

his shirt sleeves, was seen hurrying away. He is believed to be the same seen leaving about the time of the previous fire.

Since then the owner of the house has employed an armed guard to stay in the house until it is completed and sold.

About two weeks ago, on the night of March 31, an occupied residence at Cottage Grove avenue and First avenue was totally destroyed by fire. The blaze was said to have been accidental, caused by a servant leaving a fire in a stove, and the house being ignited either by the hot coals or ashes falling on the floor.

This house was burned too much for investigators to locate evidences of the fire-bug, if any existed, and the accidental theory has been accepted

Officers are working on the theory that the incendiary fires here are being started by the negro workmen, to insure themselves of continuous employment in rebuilding them.
